NAZIS BOMBARD ENGLAND WITH HITLER PAMPHLETS

Molotoff Predicts U. S. Will Turn the War into An Imperialist Struggle

Russian Premier Says England Will Be Assisted by America against Germany and Italy

By WITT HANCOCK

MOSCOW, Aug. 1 (AP)—"Imperialists designs" in the United States may turn the war into a "world imperialist" struggle, Premier-Foreign Minister Vyacheslaff Molotoff told the Supreme Soviet today in predicting that England would be "assisted" by America in fighting Germany and Italy.

His speech was filled with antagonism toward England and the United States and at one point he said he hesitated to dwell on Russian relations with the United States because "there is nothing good that can be said about them."

"Imperialist appetities are growing," he told the Supreme Soviet (Parliament), "not only in distant Japan but also in the United States where there are not a few people who like to conceal their imperialist designs behind well-advertised 'concern' for the interests of the entire 'Western Hemisphere' which these gentlement are prepared to turn into their property with all its numerous republics and with the colonial possessions of other countries on islands in the neighborhood of the American continent.

Sees Danger of War

All this harbors danger of further extension and fanning of the war and its being turned into a world imperialis war. Under these conditions the Soviet Union must enhance its vigilance in the matter of its external security and in the matter of strengthening all its positions, both at home and agroad."

Germany, Molotoff said, will have the advantage of a "calm feeling of security in the east," thanks to the Russo-German non-aggression pact. Relations with Italy, Germany's aily, also "have lately improved."

Bitter Toward Americans

But as for America:"There are certain people in the United States who are not pleased with successes of Soviet foreign policy in the Baltic countries," the Premier-Foreign Commissar observed. "But we are not worried. We can get along without the help of these displeased gentlemen."

"However," Molotoff continued, "the fact that authorities in the United States unlawfully placed an embargo on gold which out state bank recently purchased from the banks of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia meets with a most energetic protest on our part.

"In this case we can only remind both the government of the United States and the government of Great Britain, which adopted the same procedure, of their responsibility for these illegl acts."

Josef Stalin, secretary-general of the Communist party and dictator of Russia, attended the session.

Why France Lost

Of the catastrophic defeat of France, Molotoff said it was due not only to military weakness but to the fact that "leading circles in

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 1 (AP)—State Roads Commission Chairman Ezra B. Whitman disclosed today the Federal Roads Commission had asked estimates of the cost of building certain "military requirements" into Maryland roaods.

Whitman said the federal commission had listed Maryland roads considered as of "primary, secondary, and military importance" in making the request.

He did not disclose whether he believed a similar request had been made of other states.

81 Aliens Held In Canal Zone As a Precaution

Sec. Stimson Discloses Broad Cleanup of Foreigners Is under Way

CONSCRIPTION BATTLE BECOMES MORE BITTER

Sen. Wheeler Demands Willkie State His Views Publicly

By RICHARD L. TURNER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—A broad cleanup of aliens in the Panama Canal zone, involving the detention of eighty-one persons described as foreign agents, was tersely announced today by Secretary of War Stimson.

As the result of a painstaking check, he said, all aliens, other than Panamanians, have been discharged from the employment of either the army or the canal zone, for the protection of that vital link in the American defense system.

The secretary of war made his disclosure at the end of a day which saw the peace-time conscription bill and the measure authorizing the mobilization of the national guard and the reserve officers training corps for training purposes encounter new delays in the Senate.

Would Limit Conscript

A Senatorial proposal that the number of conscripts be limited to 1,000,000 forced the Senate Military Committee to postpone final action on the draft bill until after war department officials can be heard.

Leaders agreed to defer Senate consideration of the national guard measure until next week, in compliance with requests from several legislators for more time to study the bill.

Late in the day, the National Defense Commission lent a hand to the drive for conscription with a statement favoring that method of building up the armed forces. Selective service, it said, would "prevent the disruption of industry through the entry into military service of many who would be more needed in industrial production because of special skills."

Asks Willkies Views

Meanwhile, Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) a leading opponent of conscription, pointedly demanded, for a second time, that Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican presidential nominee, make public his views on that question.

Stimson's disclosure came in reply to a request for comment on a newspaper article (published in the New York Daily News) asserting that 265 Nazis were working on

Many Involved in Accidents Examined at Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP)—The first of a series of automobile drivers' re-examinations, which, if practicable, will be extended throughout the state, was held today by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Commissioner W. Lee Elgin characterized the plan as another step in the drive to reduce traffic accidents by attacking contributory circumstances. No punitive feature is involved in the hearings, he said.

Examined at today's hearings were twenty-five drivers, involved in recent accidents.

When they appeared for examination, they first received eye tests. Then, while a stenographer recorded their testimony, they were questioned regarding the accident in which they were involved, and finally were examined on state driving laws in general.

In some cases, new driving tests were ordered for the licensees.

Commissioner Elgin said "if necessary" some driving licenses would be suspended after all testimony had been studied.

Another group will be examined Friday, and still others on succeeding Thursdays and Fridays if a definite schedule can be worked out he said. Also, hearings are planned for Cumberland, Hagerstown, Frederick, Salisbury, Cam-

England Shifting Strategy To Meet Menace of Nazis

Plans 'Offensive Defense' Instead of Purely a Defense

By The Associated Press

London, Aug. 1—Great Britain has so strengthened herself against invasion that tonight she was preparing for an "offensive defense."

An order today by the new commander-in-chief, General Sir Alan Brooke, to remove many of the steel and concrete traps and road blocks studding roadways throughout England announced this startling shift of strategy.

It is a return to the traditional theory that attack is the best defense—provided there is sufficient man—and machine-power to execute it. Now a trained and equipped army and home guard of several million men has converted Britain into an armed camp.

Britain is ready for a hard-hitting war on wheels.

Barriers Being Removed

Barriers already are being removed in northern England where all double road blocks are being eliminated and single ones cut back.

They were erected swiftly two months ago at every point where it was thought an invader might try to seize strategic communications. Britain then envisioned a possible barricade-to-barricade defense by the comparatively few trained soldiers then available.

Beaches and other coastal landing points still bristle with defenses.

Still further tightening the defense—a campaign which clearly had brought mass transfer of thousands of civilians from strategic areas—the ministry of home security ordered withdrawal of civilians from areas east and northeast of

Father of Six-Year Old Girl May Face Murder Charge; Preacher Held; Eight Others Bitten

ADEL, Ga., Aug. 1 (AP) — Search continued in the sun-baked pine woods and tobacco fields of this south Georgia rural section today for a mother and her snake-bitten six-year old daughter as authorities began an investigation of "snake-handling" by a religious cult.

Unconfirmed reports were that the child, Leitha Ann Rowan, had died of the bite inflicted on the palm of her hand a week ago while she hanided a copperhead moccasin during services being conducted by the group known as members of the Free Holiness church.

Father and Preacher Held

The girl's father, Albert Rowan, was jailed Monday along with Farmer-Preacher W. T. Lipham, identified as a leader of the cult "who demonstrates the ability of himself and his followers to handle deadly snakes when "the power is upon them."

Rowan, a tenant farmer, given a commitment hearing today, was ordered held until the young daughter is located. Lipham also was held, and Judge W. R. Smith of Cook county directed that if the child is found dead, or if it later dies, the two men be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder.

British-Japanese Crisis Impending

Belief Expressed Military Pressure Will Be Exerted

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 1 — The fear that British-Japanese relations might grow so "progressively worse" that Japan would resort to military pressure — although probably not to general war — was expressed today in authoritative British quarters.

There was little likelihood in any case, these sources said, that the Japanese would take the full long step to total war, lest other powers —the United States, perhaps, or Russia — then become involved.

These informants speculated that if the current strains between the governments persisted and were heightened, the Japanese might try first to oust the British from North China and then from Hongkong. They acknowledged it was not possible to defend the colony indefinitely.

Summing up, it was declared that the nature of future British-Japanese relations depended on whether Japanese "extremists" retained

Propaganda Takes Place Of Explosives in Parts Of the British Empire

Air Raiders Drop Thousands of Copies of Fuehrer's Speech in Widely Separated Cities; Also Let Loose a Few Heavy Explosives and Bombs; British Officers Pick Up Literature

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 2 (Friday) (AP) — Striking at England for the first time with leaflets instead of bombs, Nazi air raiders today showered a southeastern port with thousands of four-page pamphlets containing Adolf Hitler's "last appeal to reason" for Britain to talk peace.

Within a few minutes the "pamphlet bombers" appeared over another town, this time in southwestern England, and poured down thousands more of the papers which contained a verbatim account of Hitler's July speech to the Reichstag which mingled a bid for peace with ominous threats of what war would bring to Britain.

The pre-dawn raiders, however, were not all on a propaganda mission.

ALSO DROP BOMBS

Near one northeastern town heavy explosives and thirty to forty incendiary bombs were dropped while British defense planes battled with the raiders.

Big explosives and fire bombs also crashed down near a town in northeastern Scotland and raiders circled over several other communities in that section. The bombs fell near houses, but none was set afire.

Pamphlets Collected

While the Hitler pamphlets still fluttered in the air, British air raid wardens, policemen and constables hustled out with flashlights and torches to gather them.

As soon as daylight comes larger forces will be turned out to make sure that not one is left.

One warden decided too late that the papers might have a curio value. He said regretfully "if I could get back the copies turned over to police I could sell them at a shilling each."

Hitler's "Last Appeal"

The leaflets measured 12x8 inches, bore the caption "a last appeal to reason by Adolf Hitler," and suggested pointedly that the British public might not have had opportunity to read the fuehrer's speech of July 19.

In that talk Hitler declared the British empire would be destroyed if England insisted upon continuing the war.

The propaganda shower was the Nazis' first try at the "message for the people" tactics of British airmen who dropped plane-loads of leaflets into Germany at the outset of the war.

The pamphlet and bomb-bearing raiders swept over England and Scotland from the east before daybreak after an overnight lull in the daily air attacks.

The planes were heard crossing the coast in northeastern Scotland, nnortheast England and southeastern England.

Attacked by British

Frequently the sound of motors mingled with the rattle of machine gun fire, indicating that the Royal Air Force was battling with the raiders in the darkness.

British Cruiser Badly Damaged in Short Sea Clash

Commander Claims Victory against Fleeing German Raider

By The Associated Press

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 1 —The 22,209-ton British armed merchant cruiser Alcantara put in today at Vianna island naval shipyard to repair damage suffered in a short but sharp battle with a Nazi raider.

Her chief officer said the engagement was fought outside the American neutrality belt—and not inside as previouslly reported.

The commander clung to the British claim of victory, asserting that the raider fled rather than close in for combat.

But in Berlin, DNB, official German news agency, contended the Alcantara broke off the fight to nurse her damage in a neutral harbor while the German raider continued on her campaign against British shipping.

Although twenty-four hours is the normal period which a belligerent ship may remain in a neutral port, the Brazilian government authorized the Alcantara to remain more than forty-eight hours.

She steamed in with seven wound-

Duke and Duchess of Windsor Sail After He Holds Ship 40 Minutes

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 1 (AP) — The Duchess of Windsor and other passengers aboard the U. S.-bound American export liner Excalibur tapped their collective heels for forty minutes past sailing time tonight while waiting for the Duke of Windsor.

The Excalibur sailed at 8:15 p. m. (2 p. m. E.S.T.) after the tardy duke arrived to join his duchess, three dogs and fifty-two pieces of baggage. It is due in New York Aug. 9.

Presumably British warships lurked behind the Excalibur to protect the duke from seizure by German or Italian raiders.

Notables Await Duke

Lord Selby, British ambassador to Portugal, Lady Selby, and British minister Sir Noel Charles also awaited the duke to wish him well in his new post as governor of the British Bahamas off the Florida coast.

The Windsors' accommodations aboard the small liner consisted of a simple comfortable veranda suite on a deck which has a small hall with six two-bed cabins.

Crowds who gathered on the dock were surprised to see a sewing machine among the Windsors' luggage.

The couple traveled as "Mr. and Mrs. Windsor," although the reservations originally were made for "Captain and Mrs. Wood."

The forty-four-year old Baltimore-born duchess has not been in her native land for many years. She was in Baltimore in 1926 and 1927 while awaiting her divorce from her first husband, Commander Earl Winfield Spencer of the U. S. navy.

U. S. Diplomats Aboard

Traveling with the Windsors were four U. S. diplomats, William Phillips, ambassador to Italy, Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., ambassador to Poland, John Cudahy, ambassador to Belgium, and George Gordon, minister to The Netherlands.

British authorities especially were perturbed over the duke's safety because of at least one German raider known to be roaming the Atlantic ocean. The Nazi ship crippled the 22,209-ton British armed merchant cruiser Alcantara Sunday

Summary of War News

By The Associated Press

Russian Premier-Foreign Commissar Molotoff, bitterly attacking the United States and Britain and heaping praise on Germany, suggested yesterday (Thursday) American "imperialistic designs" might turn Europe's conflict into "a world imperialistic war."

Addressing the Russian parliament, Molotoff predicted "a new stage of intensification" in the war with Britain," assisted by the United States," against the Axis power, and assured Germany she could enjoy a "calm feeling of security in the east" as a result of the Russian-German non-aggression pact.

He told of "improved" Soviet-Italian relations, then turned his oratorical guns on the United States, with particular digs at the Havana declaration dealing with European-owned possessions in the Western Hemisphere.

"Imperialist appetites are growing," he said. "Not only in Japan but also in the United States, where there are not a few people who like to conceal their imperialist designs behind well-advertised 'concern' for the interests of the entire 'Western Hemisphere' which these gentlemen are prepared to turn into their property.

Sees Danger of War

"All this harbors the danger of future extension and fanning of the war and of its being turned into a world imperialist war."

In another thrust at the United States, Molotoff said "we have learned that certain people in the United States who are not pleased with our foreign policy in the Baltic countries.

"However, the fact that the authorities in the United States unlawfully placed an embargo on the gold which our state bank recently purchased from the banks of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia meets with the most energetic protest on our part.

Roosevelt and Army and Navy Men Discuss Problems of Pan-Americas

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—Problems which would be posed for the United States is events forced the pan-American nations to establish a trusteeship over European possessions in this hemisphere were canvassed today by President Roosevelt and army and navy heads.

Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, also attended the conference with Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff.

While they were meeting, another phase of the administration's program for defense of the Western Hemisphere was advanced a step at the capital.

The Senate Banking Committee approved, eight to six, the president's proposal to increase the Export-Import bank's capital by $500,000,000 so that it could make loans to assist Latin-American nations in meeting wartime trade problems.

There was no word from the White House conference as to the details of the problems discussed.

Discuss Army, Navy Plans

Presumably, however, Mr. Roosevelt and his defense advisers were concerned chiefly with the military and naval problems which would be involved in the establishment of a trusteeship over any western hemisphere territory threatened with a change of sovereignty from one European nation to another.

The recent Havana conference provided for the American nations to assume such a trusteeship jointly. Any dispatch of armed forces, however, would have to be by the United States since no other American nation is in a position to take such a step.

The trusteeship proposal was advanced at the Havana meeting by Secretary Hull. Returning here today, the secretary of state warmly praised the attitude of the Havana conferees.

Praises Diplomats

The attending diplomats, he said, all exhibited a full sense of the responsibilities, emergencies and problems with which they were faced, and the work accomplished was on a parity with the seriousness of the problems.

The close vote in the Senate

British Cruiser Badly Damaged in Short Sea Clash

Commander Claims Victory against Fleeing German Raider

By The Associated Press

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 1 —The 22,209-ton British armed merchant cruiser Alcantara put in today at Vianna island naval shipyard to repair damage suffered in a short but sharp battle with a Nazi raider.

Her chief officer said the engagement was fought outside the American neutrality belt—and not inside as previously reported.

The commander clung to the British claim of victory, asserting that the raider fled rather than close in for combat.

But in Berlin, DNB, official German news agency, contended the Alcantara broke off the fight to nurse her damage in a neutral harbor while the German raider continued on her campaign against British shipping.

Although twenty-four hours is the normal period which a belligerent ship may remain in a neutral port, the Brazilian government authorized the Alcantara to remain more than forty-eight hours.

She steamed in with seven wound-

Summary of War News

By The Associated Press

Russian Premier-Foreign Commissar Molotoff, bitterly attacking the United States and Britain and heaping praise on Germany, suggested yesterday (Thursday) American "imperialistic designs" might turn Europe's conflict into "a world imperialistic war."

Addressing the Russian parliament, Molotoff predicted "a new stage of intensification" in the war with Britain," assisted by the United States," against the Axis power, and assured Germany she could enjoy a "calm feeling of security in the east" as a result of the Russian-German non-aggression pact.

He told of "improved" Soviet-Italian relations, then turned his oratorical guns on the United States, with particular digs at the Havana declaration dealing with European-owned possessions in the Western Hemisphere.

"Imperialist appetites are growing," he said. "Not only in Japan but also in the United States, where there are not a few people who like to conceal their imperialist designs behind well-advertised 'concern' for the interests of the entire 'Western Hemisphere' which these gentlemen are prepared to turn into their property.

Sees Danger of War

"All this harbors the danger of future extension and fanning of the war and of its being turned into a world imperialist war."

In another thrust at the United States, Molotoff said "we have learned that certain people in the United States who are not pleased with our foreign policy in the Baltic countries.

"However, the fact that the authorities in the United States unlawfully placed an embargo on the gold which our state bank recently purchased from the banks of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia meets with the most energetic protest on our part.

"In this case we can only remind both the government of the United States and the government of Great Britain, which adopted the same procedure, of their responsibility for these illegal acts."

The American and British governments froze securities held in the two countries by Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, the Baltic states recently Sovietized following their oc-

Roosevelt and Army and Navy Men Discuss Problems of Pan-Americas

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—Problems which would be posed for the United States is events forced the pan-American nations to establish a trusteeship over European possessions in this hemisphere were canvassed today by President Roosevelt and army and navy heads.

Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, also attended the conference with Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff.

While they were meeting, another phase of the administration's program for defense of the Western Hemisphere was advanced a step at the capital.

The Senate Banking Committee approved, eight to six, the president's proposal to increase the Export-Import bank's capital by $500,000,000 so that it could make loans to assist Latin-American nations in meeting wartime trade problems.

There was no word from the White House conference as to the details of the problems discussed.

Discuss Army, Navy Plans

Presumably, however, Mr. Roosevelt and his defense advisers were concerned chiefly with the military and naval problems which would be involved in the establishment of a trusteeship over any western hemisphere territory threatened with a change of sovereignty from one European nation to another.

The recent Havana conference provided for the American nations to assume such a trusteeship jointly. Any dispatch of armed forces, however, would have to be by the United States since no other American nation is in a position to take such a step.

The trusteeship proposal was advanced at the Havana meeting by Secretary Hull. Returning here today, the secretary of state warmly praised the attitude of the Havana conferees.

Praises Diplomats

The attending diplomats, he said, all exhibited a full sense of the responsibilities, emergencies and problems with which they were faced, and the work accomplished was on a parity with the seriousness of the problems.

Traveling with the Windsors were four U. S. diplomats, William Phillips, ambassador to Italy, Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., ambassador to Poland, John Cudahy, ambassador to Belgium, and George Gordon, minister to The Netherlands.

British authorities especially were perturbed over the duke's safety because of at least one German raider known to be roaming the Atlantic ocean. The Nazi ship crippled the 22,209-ton British armed merchant cruiser Alcantara Sunday

Trainman Blamed For 43 Deaths in Wreck Near Akron

Disobeyed Order, Copy of Which Is Found on His Body

AKRON, O., Aug. 1 (AP)—A crumpled copy of trainmen's orders, found on the conductor of a Pennsylvania railroad motor coach in which forty three persons perished, tonight baked up the road's declaration that the crew's "disregard" of instructions was responsible for the tragedy.

The order provided that the motor coach should take a siding and allow a seventy-three-car freight train to pass. Instead, the coach's crew continued for a mile past the siding, down the Pennsylvania's Hudson-Akron single track, and crashed head-on with the freight.

Investigators said a copy of the order issued to the freight train crew was found in the clothing of conductor Harry Shafer, 57, one of the trio who survived the fiery crash. Similar orders had been issued to the coach crew, the railroad said, explaining that each crew of trains ordered to "meet" gets a copy of the instructions issued to the other crew.

Railroad's Statement

The railroad said in a statement:

"The crew of the motor coach not only disregarded their orders to stop at switch No. 1 at Silver Lake and to wait in the siding, but, in continuing on the main track from Silver Lake toward Akron, disregarded another rigid rule, as permission was required from the block (signal) operator at Hudson to make this further movement. This permission was not obtained."

Finding of the order, said F. W. Krick, division superintendent of the Pennsylvania, "proves conclusively that the crew had received its orders and is at fault.

"It just seems to be one of those inexplicable mental lapses," Krick informed Coroner R. E. Amos.

The seventy-seat motor coach, built of steel and powered with gasoline stored in 250-gallon tanks, was in shuttle service on the twelve-mile line between Hudson and Akron. The freight train was bound from Columbus to Cleveland.

At impact the gasoline tanks exploded and enveloped the coach in flames, giving its occupants "not a chance in the world," said Coroner Amos.

The telescoped 122,000 - pound coach became a virtual pyre for the forty-three victims, eleven of them Pennsylvania railroad employes. The car was thrust 200 yards back by the impact.

Engineman Thomas L. Murtough, 49, (the coach carried a single engineman) and a railroad section hand were the only others besides Conductor Shafer to leap to safety. Shafer and Murtough, both seriously injured, were unable to tell their stories.

Banking Committee on the proposed $500,000,000 increase in the Export-Import bank's capital was accepted as an indication that there would be a warm debate in the Senate.

Chairman Wagner (D-NY) said there had been "an unfortunate difference of opinion" and that Senator Taft (R-Ohio) would file a minority opinion in opposition.

Senator Adams (D-Colo) joined Taft and four other Republicans, Frazier of North Dakota, Townsend of Delaware, Danaher of Connecticut and Tobey of New Hampshire, in opposing the bill.

In addition to Wagner, senators supporting the measure, all Democrats, were Barkley of Kentucky, Bankhead of Alabama, Maloney of Connecticut, Radcliffe of Maryland, Smathers of New Jersey, Miller of Arkansas, and Clark of Idaho.

Plans Mobilization

Major-Gen. Milton A. Reckord, adjutant general of Maryland and commander of the twenty-ninth division, said that Maryland troops—if and when the president calls the national guard into active service for training—would be mobilized at Fort George G. Meade.

Reckord said the war department had consented to mobilization of the twenty-ninth division there, and then added:

"We are facing an emergency which is more serious than some people apparently believe. The thought has gotten out that the guard is going to be ordered out for a year. That probably is correct as far as it goes, but I think, however, that the guard will be out for longer than a year."

Creation of a secondary force or home guard in event the national guard is called out was urged by Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor at the opening session of the twenty-three member council.

"The time may not be far distant when we will be required to create this home guard for the safeguarding of property and supplies and, even more important, the lives of our citizens," he said.

Urges Coordination

O'Conor emphasized coordination of state and federal plans for national defense.

Objectives of the council, he declared, are to accomplish unity in Maryland's effort for national defense; enlist public support in this work; survey Maryland's resources; to consider steps against "fifth columns" and sabotage, at the same time guarding against any hysteria and injustice; to consider a "public information program;" and to consider policies to eliminate profiteering or unfair practices in industry as relating to national defense.

their power, and that British reaction to Japanese pressure would be determined by the state of things in Europe itself.

"Extremist" pressure upon Britain was described as illustrated by the arrest of fourteen Britons in Japan's investigation of alleged spy activities. Seven Britons still are in custody.

A source who told of representations made by Britain concerning the arrests said steps might be taken unless the seven were released. He gave no hint as to what these steps might be.

3,000 Terrapin Distributed in Eleven State Tidewater Counties

SOLOMON'S ISLAND, Md., Aug. 1 (AP)—Diamondback terrapin—which provide one of Maryland's choicest and most famous foods—are receiving a helping hand from science in making a comeback in the state's tidewater regions.

Three thousand young diamondbacks are being distributed this week in eleven tidewater counties by the conservation department.

U. S. Bureau Helps.

The supply produced at the laboratory was increased by 1,000 young terrapin contributed by the U. S Bureau of Fisheries.

Production of stock to rehabilitate Terrapin in tidewater creeks and marshes was made possible, laboratory officials said, by securing eggs from the Holland company's Terrapin pens at Crisfield.

The Terrapin that are being released are considered by laboratory directors to be sufficiently strong and mature to fend for themselves against their natural enemies, with a greatly reduced natural mortality.

Spawn in Early June

Diamondback Terrapin lay their eggs in early June, usually producing from 7 to 12 in a clutch. The mother terrapin deposits her eggs in a hole five or six inchess deep, then covers them with dirt.

Seven or eight weeks later, depending on temperature and moisture conditions, the young terrapin hatch and dig their way to the surface. It is then middle or late August, but in some cases the young do not leave the nest until the following April.

When Terrapin hatch they are about an inch an da quarter long and their shell is comparatively soft. In the period immediately following their emergency, and while working their way to the nearest body of water, they fall prey to a number of natural enemies.

Dr. Truitt sai dthat by taking Terrapin eggs from commercial pens and holding them in hatchery beds or artificial nests until they hatch and then placing the young in holding pens, it was possible to rear them to the age of one year virtually without mortality and at little expense for food and care.

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Sudden soft peddling of the invasion-of-England idea in Berlin and Rome may or may not be a highly significant development of the war news.

Yet the emphasis laid in Rome on the difficulties of invading a seamoated island like England, and the prompt concurrence expressed by Nazi military spokesmen, suggested that both comments were primarily for home consumption. They threw a lot of very cold water on what has been the most favored theme of the Nazi and Fascist press ever since the battle of Britain began.

There have been hints of friction within Hitler's high command over the strategy to be followed.

Failure or even a serious reverse at the outset of an invasion could change the whole picture, perhaps let loose pent-up hatred of Germany in conquered regions from Norway to the Franco-Spanish border. It would certainly put to the test Russo-German relations which Hitler boasted to the Reichstag had been "finally established" beyond possibility of disruption.

There is only his word for that, and such limited confirmation as the supreme Soviet meeting affords.

Stalin for Russia Only

Even Hitler cannot doubt that Stalin is playing the game only in Russian interest, not for the purpose of helping Nazi Germany establish complete domination of Europe.

In setting forth their new thesis of the way to attack England the Nazis cite as an example the alleged blocking of the port of Dover and the destruction of its dockage facilities. That certainly sounds like a more logical course than to risk invasion. The bombing of English port facilities around the whole 5,000-mile perimeter of the island would immensely increase the difficulties of supplying the island, even if the convoy system kept cargo craft moving at sea in sufficient tonnage.

Britain Well Prepared

Yet the coasts of England, north, south, east and west, are spotted with big and little ports virtually all equipped to some extent to handle heavy cargoes in an emergency. The network of hard-paved British highways bring them all into quick service for motor transport as well as rail distribution.

It would take a tremendous stepping-up of the German air attack on English ports to bring her to a near starvation status by that means alone. Yet the implication of recent German and Italian comments is that it is upon that siege that axis strategists are primarily counting for victory.

Previously German and Italian expectations of a sudden Blitzkrieg to crush England had been built up by insistent press predictions in both countries. Hitler himself added to that expectation in his recent Reichstag speech.

If invasion is not in early prospect, it was time the idea of such an attempt was deflated somehow. The fact that it is not to be attempted, if that is the fact, could not much longer be concealed from the German-Italian publics cupation by Red Army troops.

With Josef Stalin listening, Molotoff declared recent events had served only to strengthen rather than weaken, German-Soviet relations.

Japan England Near Break

Authoritative London quarters expressed the fear that British-Japan relations might grow so "progressively worse" and that Japan would resort to military pressure although probably not to general war.

In Tokyo the new totalitarian-inclined government of Prince Konoye announced an aggressive expansive Japanese foreign policy, which seeks domination not only in east Asia as heretofore but also in "Greater East Asia"—including French Indo-China and the Dutch East Indies.

The Germans, keeping up their daily attacks on Britain, killed several persons and damaged industrial establishments in one raid at Norwich, while the British lashed back with day and night air raids on Germany and German-held continental points.

The Nazis, insisting the "major attack" on Britain already is under way, claimed victories for a south Atlantic raider and for their air force. The unnamed raider engaged in a battle last Sunday which sent the British armed cruiser Alcantara into Rio de Janeiro harbor Thursday for repairs.

In Washington Secretary of War Stimson announced eighty-one foreign agents had been detained for deportation in the Panama Canal zone, vital key to the United States naval defenses. Stimson said those held had been staying "illegally" in the Canal Zone.

By The Associated Press

A state baked by nearly two weeks of a ninety-to-100 degree heat wave welcomed a forecast today (Friday) of "continued moderately cool."

Temperatures turned downward yesterday on the heels of rain and cool breezes, giving the first respite in thirteen days from sweltering heat.

Maximum temperatures ranged in the eighties rather than the nineties yesterday, with Baltimore having a maximum of eighty-three, Cumberland eighty-six, Cambridge eighty-one, and Salisbury seventy-nine in early afternoon.

The highest temperature today will be around eighty-eight degrees, the weather bureau said, with moderate to fresh north and northeast winds as cooling breezes.

Molotoff

France treated too lightly the role and weight of the Soviet union in European affairs."

He ridiculed those who saw in Russia's recent expansion in the Baltic and Danubian region the seeds of an early conflict between Russia and Germany, or attempted to "intimidate us with the prospect of Germany's growing might." He declared that Russo-German friendship was based "not on fortuitous considerations of a transient nature but on fundamental state interests."

Molotoff conceded that Britain's recent appointment of one of her left-wing politicians, sir Stafford Cripps, as ambassador in Moscow seems to "reflect a desire on the part of Britain to improve relations." But he said Britain's previous "hostile acts against the U. S. S. R." made it "difficult to expect that the Soviet-British relations would develop favorably."

England, he said, repected Adolf Hitler's peace appeal because she "does not wish to give up colonies" and prefers to "continue the war for world supremacy." Although her French allly is gone, she has "decided to continue the war relying on the assistance of the United States.

There are also indications of a desire of Japan to improve relations with the Soviet Union, Molotoff said, and in this case an improvement "is feasible."

Does Not Predict Victory

While his references to Britain were far from cordial, Molotoff made no prediction of early German victory. He said the "end of the war is not yet in sight," and observed that while Germany has "achieved great successes, she has not yet achieved her principal objection—termination of the war on terms which she considers desirable."

Of Russo-Finnish relations, Molotoff said their improvement "depends mainly on Finland herself." He added a warning that these relations would become worse instead of better unless "Finnish ruling circles do not cease their persecution" of elements in Finland working for "good neighborly relations with the USSR."

About Norway he said "nothing definite" could be stated, and as for Sweden "the particularly important point to be noted is that both our countries are interested in a considerable development of trade and economic relations."

Referring to Rumania's surrender of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina to the Soviet Union, Molotoff expressed gratification that this problem had been peacefully settled and mentioned the "tremendous joy" with which inhabitants of the ceded areas welcomed Soviet rule.

He described as equally pleased the inhabitants of the Baltic states, whose formal acceptance into the Soviet Union is on the agenda of the present session.

As a result of territory acquired since the beginning of the war in Poland, in Finland, the Baltic states and Rumania, Russia's frontiers have reached the Danube, Molotoff proudly reminded his hearers, and her population has been increased in less than a year by more than 23,000,000.

England Shifting

London, and on the southeastern coast.

These withdrawals in advance, to prevent clogging of roads with refugees which would come with an enemy landing, would clear the way for Britain's own swift "offensive defense" movement of armies.

Plan "Total Defense"

Dubious of almost too frank statements from both ends of the Rome-Berlin axis that blitz invation of British soil is not immediately contemplated, the British chinked their fortifications, deployed their troops and cleared the way for a "total defense."

There is little in the day's reports of German air activity to indicate any change from the harassment that has been under way now for a month and a half.

The ministry of home security announced that several persons were killed and injured and "industrial premises" damaged at Norwich, on the east coast, by a single bomber. The British press association reported five killed in the raid.

Two German planes and one British fighter were lost in flights over the channel.

British airmen bombed military objectives in Germany and shipping off The Netherlands and German coasts in daylight attacks yesterday. During the night they attacked other points of the German and Dutch interior, the air ministry said.

Japanese Seek To Dominate Dutch East Indies, French Indo China

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Aug. 1 — An aggressively expansive Japanese foreign policy, which seeks domination not merely in "east Asia" as formerly but in "greater east Asia" — including French Indo-China and the Dutch East Indies — was announced to the people today.

The statement, by the regime of Premier-Prince Fumimaro Konoye, did not directly bring Japan closer than it already had been to Germany and Italy, but apparently widened the breach between the empire and other western powers.

It disclosed these intentions:

1. Creation of "a new order for greater east Asia," with the ultimate aim as explained by Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka to be "establishment of a stabilizing force for a self-sufficiency embracing not only Japan, Manchoukuo and China, but also Indo-China and the East Indies."

2. Rearmament at a scale "adequate for execution of the national policies by taking into consideration the new developments both at home and abroad."

3. Construction of a government in which every person must serve the state, with national economy to be planned toward strengthening national defense, and a "unitary control system" set up "covering production, distribution and consumption of important commodities."

4. Changes in the educational system to emphasize "service to the state" and "eradication of all selfish and materialistic thoughts."

5. An end of "toadyism" to other powers, with the explanation:

"We strive to make whatever friends we can under the prevailing environment, but henceforth we will not make a vain effort to grasp the hands of those countries which cannot be turned into friends." It was implied by Matsuoka that Britain and the United States were meant.

The government's statement followed by some hours an assertion by an admiralty spokesman that President Roosevelt's ban on export of aviation gasoline was directed against Japan, Germany and Italy.

"If America continues on the same lines it is bound to cause repercussions," he said.

Panama canal projects. His response was a prepared statement which he read to assembled newspapermen.

Wheeler, in a formal statement, recalled that earlier this week, he had said all presidential candidates should make their position on conscription known. President Roosevelt, he added, had indicated his approval of the pending bill, and eastern newspapers were reporting that "there is no difference between the president and Mr. Willkie on foreign policy, including intervention in Europe and Asia."

How Country Divides

Further he said that the eastern newspapers were generally supporting the conscription bill, while farm organizations, the churches, labor organizations, and peace groups were opposing it.

"Under the circumstances, Mr. Willkie," the senator asked, "don't you think you should let the people and the Congress know your position? It is stated that some of the leading financial institutions in New York supporting your candidacy will refuse to support you if you oppose the legislation. This would be a good time to let the people know on which side you are going to stand."

The proposal to limit conscripts to 1,000,000 was made by Senators Lee (D-Okla) and Bridges (R-NH). Their amendment would give President Roosevelt the power to draft 500,000 men twenty-one to thirty years old, inclusive, next October for a twelve-month period of training. Early next year, the exact date not set, he could call up another 500,000.

Many Will Not Serve

Bridges, who told reporters that war department officials would testify on the proposal tomorrow, said its effect would be to impose an exact limitation on the number of conscripts.

Under the measure as it now stands, about 12,000,000 men would be called up to register. Army officials estimate that after granting exemptions because of physical disabilities, dependents or special skills more needed in industry, about 4,500,000 would be eligible for service.

Nazi Blitzkieg Well under Way, Berlin Declares

Germany Confident Sea and Air Attacks Will Force Surrender

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Aug. 1—Germany claimed victories tonight for a western Atlantic raider and for the luftwaffe (air arm) with which she hopes to stagger Britain sufficiently for a knockout blow or, short of that, force her into surrender.

German military observers insist that the "major attack" on Britain now is under way, indicating that increased pressure by sea and air is the present strategy—rather than immediate land invasion.

At the same time Germany moved to avert any suggestion of disorder in the Dutch part of her vast, war-worn military domain in western Europe by warning Netherlanders not to demonstrate in favor of the refugee royal family when Dutch memorial day is celebrated next week, under penalty of severe prosecution.

Germany's war reports were classified thus:

Western Atlantic

A German auxiliary cruiser (converted merchant ship) heavily damaged and put to flight the armed British cruiser Alcantara in battle off the Brazilian coast last Sunday and is continuing a hit-and-run warfare on British shipping.

DNB, official news agency, said heavy hits forced the 22,209-ton former Royal mail liner quickly to break off the running gun duel and seek the shelter of neutral Rio De Janeiro harbor. (The British declared the raider fled after a "lucky shot" reduced the Alcantara's speed.)

British Isles:

Despite adverse weather, Nazi airmen yesterday and last night bombed shipping in the English channel and on the Atlantic side of the Scilly islands, of land's end, southernmost England, and southern English ports and searchlight positions. Explosions and fires were "observed."

Messerschmitts and Spitfires, German and British pursuit planes—fought above the straits of Dover, five of the British planes being shot down along with two barrage balloons.

On The Continent:

A British plane, flying above the clouds last night, bombed the center of Hanover, in northwestern Germany "far from any military objective," as the high command put it.

A "number" of persons killed and injured.

Other parts of northwestern Germany were bombed with "little property damage."

British bombers invaded Norwegian, Danish and Dutch territory. Three were shot down.

German military observers, giving the impression that the Reich's strategy calls for no immediate land invasion of Britain said:

"With the sea and air forces sinking more ships in a week than can be replaced in months, Germany can be satisfied that excellent progress is being made."

Definite new lines strike dramatically across the Fur picture for this season. Let us define them clearly. There is the bishop sleeve . . . a full, graceful melon sleeve, that slopes to a snug wrist. There is the square back yoke, giving a free, young swing to the new back fullness. There is the spiral sleeve, with the fur worked in opposite lines to the markings in the coat proper. There is the trim, young jacket, tuxedo style, that is equally lovely for street or evening. And there is the great coat . . . a 36-inch model, that is strikingly smart and effective. The seventy-seat motor coach, built of steel and powered with gasoline stored in 250-gallon tanks, was in shuttle service on the twelve-mile line between Hudson and Akron. The freight train was bound from Columbus to Cleveland.

At impact the gasoline tanks exploded and enveloped the coach in flames, giving its occupants "not a chance in the world," said Coroner Amos.

The telescoped 122,000 - pound coach became a virtual pyre for the forty-three victims, eleven of them Pennsylvania railroad employes. The car was thrust 200 yards back by the impact.

Engineman Thomas L. Murtough, 49, (the coach carried a single engineman) and a railroad section hand were the only others besides Conductor Shafer to leap to safety. Shafer and Murtough, both seriously injured, were unable to tell their stories.

FORTY-THREE DIE IN FLAMING RAIL MOTORCOACH

Forty-three persons burned to death in the flame-enveloped wreckage of this Pennsylvania motor coach which crashed headon into a freight train near Cuyahoga Falls, O. The impact set fire to the coach's gasoline tanks, setting off the holocaust. Three apparently dazed onlookers are watching.

Banking Committee on the proposed $500,000,000 increase in the Export-Import bank's capital was accepted as an indication that there would be a warm debate in the Senate.

Chairman Wagner (D-NY) said there had been "an unfortunate difference of opinion" and that Senator Taft (R-Ohio) would file a minority opinion in opposition.

Senator Adams (D-Colo) joined Taft and four other Republicans, Frazier of North Dakota, Townsend of Delaware, Danaher of Connecticut and Tobey of New Hampshire, in opposing the bill.

In addition to Wagner, senators supporting the measure, all Democrats, were Barkley of Kentucky, Bankhead of Alabama, Maloney of Connecticut, Radcliffe of Maryland, Smathers of New Jersey, Miller of Arkansas, and Clark of Idaho.

Plans Mobilization

Major.-Gen. Milton A. Reckord, adjutant general of Maryland and commander of the twenty-ninth division, said that Maryland troops—if and when the president calls the national guard into active service for training—would be mobilized at Fort George G. Meade.

Reckord said the war department had consented to mobilization of the twenty-ninth division there, and then added:

"We are facing an emergency which is more serious than some people apparently believe. The thought has gotten out that the guard is going to be ordered out for a year. That probably is correct as far as it goes, but I think, however, that the guard will be out for longer than a year."

Creation of a secondary force or home guard in event the national guard is called out was urged by Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor at the opening session of the twenty-three member council.

"The time may not be far distant when we will be required to create this home guard for the safeguarding of property and supplies and, even more important, the lives of our citizens," he said.

Urges Coordination

O'Conor emphasized coordination of state and federal plans for national defense.

Objectives of the council, he declared, are to accomplish unity in Maryland's effort for national defense; enlist public support in this work; survey Maryland's resources; to consider steps against "fifth columns" and sabotage, at the same time guarding against any hysteria and injustice; to consider a "public information program;" and to consider policies to eliminate profiteering or unfair practices in industry as relating to national defense.

their power, and that British reaction to Japanese pressure would be determined by the state of things in Europe itself.

"Extremist" pressure upon Britain was described as illustrated by the arrest of fourteen Britons in Japan's investigation of alleged spy activities. Seven Britons still are in custody.

A source who told of representations made by Britain concerning the arrests said steps might be taken unless the seven were released. He gave no hint as to what these steps might be.

3,000 Terrapin Distributed in Eleven State Tidewater Counties

SOLOMON'S ISLAND, Md., Aug. 1 (AP)—Diamondback terrapin—which provide one of Maryland's choicest and most famous foods—are receiving a helping hand from science in making a comeback in the state's tidewater regions.

Three thousand young diamondbacks are being distributed this week in eleven tidewater counties by the conservation department.

The year-old Terrapin were hatched and grown under laboratory conditions at the Chesapeake biological laboratory here, of which Dr. R. V. Truitt is director.

U. S. Bureau Helps.

The supply produced at the laboratory was increased by 1,000 young terrapin contributed by the U. S Bureau of Fisheries.

Production of stock to rehabilitate Terrapin in tidewater creeks and marshes was made possible, laboratory officials said, by securing eggs from the Holland company's Terrapin pens at Crisfield.

The Terrapin that are being released are considered by laboratory directors to be sufficiently strong and mature to fend for themselves against their natural enemies, with a greatly reduced natural mortality.

Spawn in Early June

Diamondback Terrapin lay their eggs in early June, usually producing from 7 to 12 in a clutch. The mother terrapin deposits her eggs in a hole five or six inchess deep, then covers them with dirt.

Seven or eight weeks later, depending on temperature and moisture conditions, the young terrapin hatch and dig their way to the surface. It is then middle or late August, but in some cases the young do not leave the nest until the following April.

When Terrapin hatch they are about an inch an da quarter long and their shell is comparatively soft. In the period immediately following their emergency, and while working their way to the nearest body of water, they fall prey to a number of natural enemies.

Dr. Truitt sai dthat by taking Terrapin eggs from commercial pens and holding them in hatchery beds or artificial nests until they hatch and then placing the young in holding pens, it was possible to rear them to the age of one year virtually without mortality and at little expense for food and care.

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Sudden soft peddling of the invasion-of-England idea in Berlin and Rome may or may not be a highly significant development of the war news.

Yet the emphasis laid in Rome on the difficulties of invading a seamoated island like England, and the prompt concurrence expressed by Nazi military spokesmen, suggested that both comments were primarily for home consumption. They threw a lot of very cold water on what has been the most favored theme of the Nazi and Fascist press ever since the battle of Britain began.

There have been hints of friction within Hitler's high command over the strategy to be followed.

Failure or even a serious reverse at the outset of an invasion could change the whole picture, perhaps let loose pent-up hatred of Germany in conquered regions from Norway to the Franco-Spanish border. It would certainly put to the test Russo-German relations which Hitler boasted to the Reichstag had been "finally established" beyond possibility of disruption.

There is only his word for that, and such limited confirmation as the supreme Soviet meeting affords.

Stalin for Russia Only

Even Hitler cannot doubt that Stalin is playing the game only in Russian interest, not for the purpose of helping Nazi Germany establish complete domination of Europe.

In setting forth their new thesis of the way to attack England the Nazis cite as an example the alleged blocking of the port of Dover and the destruction of its dockage facilities. That certainly sounds like a more logical course than to risk invasion. The bombing of English port facilities around the whole 5,000-mile perimeter of the island would immensely increase the difficulties of supplying the island, even if the convoy system kept cargo craft moving at sea in sufficient tonnage.

Britain Well Prepared

Yet the coasts of England, north, south, east and west, are spotted with big and little ports virtually all equipped to some extent to handle heavy cargoes in an emergency. The network of hard-paved British highways bring them all into quick service for motor transport as well as rail distribution.

It would take a tremendous stepping-up of the German air attack on English ports to bring her to a near starvation status by that means alone. Yet the implication of recent German and Italian comments is that it is upon that siege that axis strategists are primarily counting for victory.

Previously German and Italian expectations of a sudden Blitzkrieg to crush England had been built up by insistent press predictions in both countries. Hitler himself added to that expectation in his recent Reichstag speech.

If invasion is not in early prospect, it was time the idea of such an attempt was deflated somehow. The fact that it is not to be attempted, if that is the fact, could not much longer be concealed from the German-Italian publics cupation by Red Army troops.

With Josef Stalin listening, Molotoff declared recent events had served only to strengthen rather than weaken, German-Soviet relations.

Japan England Near Break

Authoritative London quarters expressed the fear that British-Japan relations might grow so "progressively worse" and that Japan would resort to military pressure although probably not to general war.

In Tokyo the new totalitarian-inclined government of Prince Konoye announced an aggressive expansive Japanese foreign policy, which seeks domination not only in east Asia as heretofore but also in "Greater East Asia"—including French Indo-China and the Dutch East Indies.

The Germans, keeping up their daily attacks on Britain, killed several persons and damaged industrial establishments in one raid at Norwich, while the British lashed back with day and night air raids on Germany and German-held continental points.

The Nazis, insisting the "major attack" on Britain already is under way, claimed victories for a south Atlantic raider and for their air force. The unnamed raider engaged in a battle last Sunday which sent the British armed cruiser Alcantara into Rio de Janeiro harbor Thursday for repairs.

In Washington Secretary of War Stimson announced eighty-one foreign agents had been detained for deportation in the Panama Canal zone, vital key to the United States naval defenses. Stimson said those held had been staying "illegally" in the Canal Zone.

By The Associated Press

A state baked by nearly two weeks of a ninety-to-100 degree heat wave welcomed a forecast today (Friday) of "continued moderately cool."

Temperatures turned downward yesterday on the heels of rain and cool breezes, giving the first respite in thirteen days from sweltering heat.

Maximum temperatures ranged in the eighties rather than the nineties yesterday, with Baltimore having a maximum of eighty-three, Cumberland eighty-six, Cambridge eighty-one, and Salisbury seventy-nine in early afternoon.

The highest temperature today will be around eighty-eight degrees, the weather bureau said, with moderate to fresh north and northeast winds as cooling breezes.

Molotoff

France treated too lightly the role and weight of the Soviet union in European affairs."

He ridiculed those who saw in Russia's recent expansion in the Baltic and Danubian region the seeds of an early conflict between Russia and Germany, or attempted to "intimidate us with the prospect of Germany's growing might." He declared that Russo-German friendship was based "not on fortuitous considerations of a transient nature but on fundamental state interests."

Molotoff conceded that Britain's recent appointment of one of her left-wing politicians, sir Stafford Cripps, as ambassador in Moscow seems to "reflect a desire on the part of Britain to improve relations." But he said Britain's previous "hostile acts against the U. S. S. R." made it "difficult to expect that the Soviet-British relations would develop favorably."

England, he said, repected Adolf Hitler's peace appeal because she "does not wish to give up colonies" and prefers to "continue the war for world supremacy." Although her French allly is gone, she has "decided to continue the war relying on the assistance of the United States.

There are also indications of a desire of Japan to improve relations with the Soviet Union, Molotoff said, and in this case an improvement "is feasible."

Does Not Predict Victory

While his references to Britain were far from cordial, Molotoff made no prediction of early German victory. He said the "end of the war is not yet in sight," and observed that while Germany has "achieved great successes, she has not yet achieved her principal objection—termination of the war on terms which she considers desirable."

Of Russo-Finnish relations, Molotoff said their improvement "depends mainly on Finland herself." He added a warning that these relations would become worse instead of better unless "Finnish ruling circles do not cease their persecution" of elements in Finland working for "good neighborly relations with the USSR."

About Norway he said "nothing definite" could be stated, and as for Sweden "the particularly important point to be noted is that both our countries are interested in a considerable development of trade and economic relations."

Referring to Rumania's surrender of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina to the Soviet Union, Molotoff expressed gratification that this problem had been peacefully settled and mentioned the "tremendous joy" with which inhabitants of the ceded areas welcomed Soviet rule.

He described as equally pleased the inhabitants of the Baltic states, whose formal acceptance into the Soviet Union is on the agenda of the present session.

As a result of territory acquired since the beginning of the war in Poland, in Finland, the Baltic states and Rumania, Russia's frontiers have reached the Danube, Molotoff proudly reminded his hearers, and her population has been increased in less than a year by more than 23,000,000.

England Shifting

London, and on the southeastern coast.

These withdrawals in advance, to prevent clogging of roads with refugees which would come with an enemy landing, would clear the way for Britain's own swift "offensive defense" movement of armies.

Plan "Total Defense"

Dubious of almost too frank statements from both ends of the Rome-Berlin axis that blitz invation of British soil is not immediately contemplated, the British chinked their fortifications, deployed their troops and cleared the way for a "total defense."

There is little in the day's reports of German air activity to indicate any change from the harassment that has been under way now for a month and a half.

The ministry of home security announced that several persons were killed and injured and "industrial premises" damaged at Norwich, on the east coast, by a single bomber. The British press association reported five killed in the raid.

Two German planes and one British fighter were lost in flights over the channel.

British airmen bombed military objectives in Germany and shipping off The Netherlands and German coasts in daylight attacks yesterday. During the night they attacked other points of the German and Dutch interior, the air ministry said.

Four British planes were reported lost

Japanese Seek To Dominate Dutch East Indies, French Indo China

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Aug. 1 — An aggressively expansive Japanese foreign policy, which seeks domination not merely in "east Asia" as formerly but in "greater east Asia" — including French Indo-China and the Dutch East Indies — was announced to the people today.

The statement, by the regime of Premier-Prince Fumimaro Konoye, did not directly bring Japan closer than it already had been to Germany and Italy, but apparently widened the breach between the empire and other western powers.

It disclosed these intentions:

1. Creation of "a new order for greater east Asia," with the ultimate aim as explained by Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka to be "establishment of a stabilizing force for a self-sufficiency embracing not only Japan, Manchoukuo and China, but also Indo-China and the East Indies."

2. Rearmament at a scale "adequate for execution of the national policies by taking into consideration the new developments both at home and abroad."

3. Construction of a government in which every person must serve the state, with national economy to be planned toward strengthening national defense, and a "unitary control system" set up "covering production, distribution and consumption of important commodities."

4. Changes in the educational system to emphasize "service to the state" and "eradication of all selfish and materialistic thoughts."

5. An end of "toadyism" to other powers, with the explanation:

"We strive to make whatever friends we can under the prevailing environment, but henceforth we will not make a vain effort to grasp the hands of those countries which cannot be turned into friends." It was implied by Matsuoka that Britain and the United States were meant.

The government's statement followed by some hours an assertion by an admiralty spokesman that President Roosevelt's ban on export of aviation gasoline was directed against Japan, Germany and Italy.

"If America continues on the same lines it is bound to cause repercussions," he said.

Panama canal projects. His response was a prepared statement which he read to assembled newspapermen.

Wheeler, in a formal statement, recalled that earlier this week, he had said all presidential candidates should make their position on conscription known. President Roosevelt, he added, had indicated his approval of the pending bill, and eastern newspapers were reporting that "there is no difference between the president and Mr. Willkie on foreign policy, including intervention in Europe and Asia."

How Country Divides

Further he said that the eastern newspapers were generally supporting the conscription bill, while farm organizations, the churches, labor organizations, and peace groups were opposing it.

"Under the circumstances, Mr. Willkie," the senator asked, "don't you think you should let the people and the Congress know your position? It is stated that some of the leading financial institutions in New York supporting your candidacy will refuse to support you if you oppose the legislation. This would be a good time to let the people know on which side you are going to stand."

The proposal to limit conscripts to 1,000,000 was made by Senators Lee (D-Okla) and Bridges (R-NH). Their amendment would give President Roosevelt the power to draft 500,000 men twenty-one to thirty years old, inclusive, next October for a twelve-month period of training. Early next year, the exact date not set, he could call up another 500,000.

Many Will Not Serve

Bridges, who told reporters that war department officials would testify on the proposal tomorrow, said its effect would be to impose an exact limitation on the number of conscripts.

Under the measure as it now stands, about 12,000,000 men would be called up to register. Army officials estimate that after granting exemptions because of physical disabilities, dependents or special skills more needed in industry, about 4,500,000 would be eligible for service.

25 Reasons Their Marriage Failed

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 1 (AP)—There were twenty-five reasons why the marriage of William and Della Besser didn't click.

"There was too much controversy over the children," Attorney Floyd V. Freeman explained today in divorce court.

So Mrs. Besser took her seven children by a previous marriage and moved to Shawnee to live with relatives. Besser and his eighteen children remained on their fifty-acre farm near here.

apparently flew to the attack alone, crossing the coast as high as they could carry their bomb load, then diving to drop their explosives.

One such lone flier struck boldly yesterday at Norwich, on the east coast, diving down through the clouds to bomb and machine gun the city's industrial area. The British press association said five were killed in that attack alone.

Nazi Blitzkieg Well under Way, Berlin Declares

Germany Confident Sea and Air Attacks Will Force Surrender

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Aug. 1—Germany claimed victories tonight for a western Atlantic raider and for the luftwaffe (air arm) with which she hopes to stagger Britain sufficiently for a knockout blow or, short of that, force her into surrender.

German military observers insist that the "major attack" on Britain now is under way, indicating that increased pressure by sea and air is the present strategy—rather than immediate land invasion.

At the same time Germany moved to avert any suggestion of disorder in the Dutch part of her vast, war-worn military domain in western Europe by warning Netherlanders not to demonstrate in favor of the refugee royal family when Dutch memorial day is celebrated next week, under penalty of severe prosecution.

Germany's war reports were classified thus:

Western Atlantic

A German auxiliary cruiser (converted merchant ship) heavily damaged and put to flight the armed British cruiser Alcantara in battle off the Brazilian coast last Sunday and is continuing a hit-and-run warfare on British shipping.

DNB, official news agency, said heavy hits forced the 22,209-ton former Royal mail liner quickly to break off the running gun duel and seek the shelter of neutral Rio De Janeiro harbor. (The British declared the raider fled after a "lucky shot" reduced the Alcantara's speed.

British Isles:

Despite adverse weather, Nazi airmen yesterday and last night bombed shipping in the English channel and on the Atlantic side of the Scilly islands, of land's end, southernmost England, and southern English ports and searchlight positions. Explosions and fires were "observed."

Messerschmitts and Spitfires—German and British pursuit planes—fought above the straits of Dover, five of the British planes being shot down along with two barrage balloons.

On The Continent:

A British plane, flying above the clouds last night, bombed the center of Hanover, in northwestern Germany "far from any military objective," as the high command put it.

A "number" of persons killed and injured.

Other parts of northwestern Germany were bombed with "little property damage."

British bombers invaded Norwegian, Danish and Dutch territory. Three were shot down.

German military observers, giving the impression that the Reich's strategy calls for no immediate land invasion of Britain said:

"With the sea and air forces sinking more ships in a week than can be replaced in months, Germany can be satisfied that excellent progress is being made."

Achieve New Silhouettes at Rosenbaum's

Definite new lines strike dramatically across the Fur picture for this season. Let us define them clearly. There is the bishop sleeve . . . a full, graceful melon sleeve, that slopes to a snug wrist. There is the square back yoke, giving a free, young swing to the new back fullness. There is the spiral sleeve, with the fur worked in opposite lines to the markings in the coat proper. There is the trim, young jacket, tuxedo style, that is equally lovely for street or evening. And there is the great coat . . . a 36-inch model, that is strikingly smart and effective. Mark these facts well . . . they are the fashion essentials for 1940 . . . and you'll find them all at Rosenbaum's in exclusive collections of magnifcent furs.

Oldest Hour-Long Radio Feature Is BeingStreamlined

George M. Cohan Will Be Guest and Introduce His New Song

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

New York, Aug. 1—The Oldest hour-long series of the network, the Friday night concert program now featuring Lucille Manners, undergoes a change tomorrow evening. It is reducing to thirty minutes under what it describes as "streamlining". As guest for the first broadcast under the new plan George M. Cohan will appear to introduce his new patriotic song, "This Is Our Side of the Ocean." It is on WEAF-NBC at 7.

Talk by Byrd

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, now back in this country, is to talk to his expeditionary crew in much-cooler-than-here Little America, when the semi-monthly salute to the Anarctic expedition comes to the WEAF-NBC network at 10:30 under auspices of the Bangor, Me., News. Doc Rockwell is to be the M. C. It will be Byrd's first radio appearance since his return to make a special report on his early investigations to Washington.

Other Specials

Some other features: WEAF-NBC 6:45, Rep. Emanuel Celler of New York on "Mercy Ships for Refugee Children;" WABC-CBS 7:30 Choose Up Sides sports quiz, guests to include Billy Conn, light heavyweight champion; MBS 8:30 Command Performance, "Pity Poor Phil," with Michael Whalen and Virginia Peine; MBS 9:30 Grant Park concert, all-Tschaikowsky program.

European schedule, subject to change: NBC 7 a. m., 12:45, 11 p. m.; CBS 7 a. m., 5:45, 7:55, 9:30 east p. m.; WEAF-NBC 6:15; WJZ-NBC 9; MBS 9, 9:15.

Another Left-Winger Who Should Go

THE FIVE-YEAR TERM of J. Warren Madden as chairman of the National Labor Relations Board will expire August 27 and the American Federation of Labor, through its president, William Green, is vigorously opposing his reappointment.

It hardly needs to be said that employers, generally, are strongly opposed to Madden and his policies.

In the meantime the executive board of the National Lawyers' Guild has adopted resolutions supporting Madden and declaring him to be fearless and impartial.

The National Lawyers' Guild, from the beginning, has been recognized as a left-wing organization. A few weeks ago A. A. Berle Jr., assistant secretary of state, resigned from the Guild with the following statement: "It is now obvious that the present management of the Guild is not prepared to take any stand which conflicts with the Communist party line."

The resignation of Mr. Berle was preceded by that of Attorney General Jackson and Nathan Margold, solicitor of Ickes's Interior department. Other lawyers have followed suit in the last few weeks.

When men like Berle and Jackson quit the organization because of its Communistic tendencies, there can be little doubt that the charges are well founded. The question many Americans are asking themselves is how did it come about that the attorney general of the United States and an assistant secretary of state joined an organization of this type?

At a time like this, when labor relations in American industry are of supreme importance, it seems almost incredible that Madden should be appointed for another term, but if his name goes before the Senate it should be rejected by unanimous vote.

It is just a plain fact that employers in this country do not trust the labor board, and business confidence is more essential than at any time in a generation.

Hitler May Be Waiting For Dark of the Moon

THE BIG GUESS everywhere now is whether Hitler is going to attempt his long-advertised blitzkrieg against the British Isles and if so, when.

A recognized expert points out that there are no political reasons, so far as anyone can see, why Hitler should further postpone his attempted invasion of Great Britain. His pilots have spied out the land until they know the British Isles as well as the natives know it. Despite British claims that little damage has been done, the "softening up" process in preparation for the big push has gone far.

It seems reasonable to suppose, therefore, that the one thing Hitler is waiting for now is the dark of the moon. The new moon comes on August 3. So it comes about that from then until August 10 there will be a period of dark nights over the British Isles.

It is obvious that the Germans would have a far better chance of success when the nights are dark. This is true in many respects. Darkness would facilitate the crossing of the Channel and the landing. The most alert British defense would be placed at a disadvantage if the Germans are able to gain air and water "bridgeheads," over which heavy reinforcements would be sent.

By this time the issue would be joined. Battleships, heavy shore batteries, hundreds of planes and thousands of troops would be locked in the deadly struggle.

Fathoming Hitler's mind is something no one yet has succeeded in doing, but it seems logical that he would prefer darkness to daylight for his invasion, as he prefers it for everything else.

Our Traffic Signals Make for Safety

SEVERAL CITIES are experimenting with plans to make observance of the street corner signal lights better and safer.

Out at Champaign, Ill., a rather novel plan is being tried out, although it is a bit expensive. A reported incident shows how it works. A group of pedestrians started to cross the main street just as the "go" light changed to green. All but one raced across the busy thoroughfare anyway. A lone observer of safety regulations, a woman, returned to the sidewalk, waited until the green signal flashed her way and then made the crossing in leisurely fashion.

But when she reached the other side, a police patrolman handed her a ticket! But, it wasn't a court summons. It entitled her to $15 in merchandise at a department store as a reward for her compliance with the laws.

Over at Altoona, Pa., the Tribune has been advocating double red lights for stopping all vehicular traffic in the downtown section in order to give pedestrians a chance. It sees no other way to abolish the fear of cars coming off side streets.

It may be wondered why these experimenting cities have not utilized the yellow caution light for the stoppage of all vehicular traffic for pedestrians, as is done here in Cumberland, a plan that has worked quite satisfactorily.

The reports given are of interest, but suggest a strict observance of the yellow "Walk" lights here by both pedestrians and motorists. Too many motorists plunge through the yellow light when they have no right to do so. Too many pedestrians start off on the "Walk" light when it is easily discernible that they will be caught part way by a change of the signals.

The three-color system as used here makes for safety and all should observe the signals as designed and with the head as well as with the feet and the wheels.

The Cursing Hitch-Hiker

MANY COMPLAINTS have reached the Keystone Automobile Club, Maryland, lately about hitch-hikers, motorists declaring that curses and coarse jibes often are hurled at drivers who refuse to stop for free ride-grabbers.

Edward P. Curran, safety director of the club, advises against compromise with the highway pest. "So long as some motorists give hitch-hikers a lift, so long will this form of parasite continue to thrive," he said. "Motorists have it well within their own power to squelch the hiker. Unanimous refusal of drivers to pick up the ride moochers would soon put an end to the practice.

"There is no reason why the tax-burdened motorist should feel under any obligation to give transportation to any ride beggar who makes the request with a jerk of the thumb. The hitch-hiker who confidently waggles his thumb at a motorist wouldn't think of getting a ride on a street car or train by the same means, because he knows it wouldn't work."

Warning is given by the club that motorists frequently have been repaid for their kindness "with a clout on the back of the head and robbed of car or money." Others have found themselves defendants in damage suits because of injury to the self-invited guests.

Aside from these serious considerations, motorists are jeopardized by the appearance of the hikers on the highways. Cars often are forced to swerve sharply to avoid them, and crashes with approaching vehicles sometimes result. It is a bad practice and should be discouraged, unless, of course, the hitch-hiker is known.

May Have Definite Bearing on War

THE PRESIDENT'S ORDER requiring the licensing of oil and scrap iron exports practically puts a ban on shipment of these war necessities to Germany, Italy or Japan.

In the case of the scrap iron, the president is a little tardy. Japan has been purchasing such large supplies that it can do doubt get along for a while without benefit of American co-operation. Still, it is a belated reminder to Tokyo that this nation doesn't like its continued invasion of China, or its treatment of Americans in China, or its insistence that Britain close the Burma road. It is also indirect notice that Washington is hardly in the mood to negotiate a new treaty with Japan to replace the old one denounced by Mr. Hull about a year ago.

Government control of oil exports may have a definite bearing on the war. It is reported that supplies of this vital product have been getting into Germany by devious routes, though no doubt the British blockade has shut off much of this commerce. But now the ports of France offer harbor to oil tankers. More important, Spain has virtually declared itself in sympathy with the axis states. Quantities of oil shipped to Spain would soon be put at the disposal of Germany and Italy.

Permission for American tankers to call at Spanish ports might easily lead to unfortunate incidents in connection with the British blockade. England, with its back to the wall, is not going to see oil for Hitler's planes and tanks and trucks slipping into Germany by way of Spain. So there is justification for including that country among the foreign nations to which export of contraband materials is banned.

Draft Measure Needs Correction, Johnson Says

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

Hugh Johnson

Washington, Aug. 1.—I can't see much the matter with the president's avoidance of a direct endorsement of the Burke-Wadsworth Conscription bill in its present form. He has at least twice indicated his belief in the principles of selective service. This particular bill is right in principle, but it needs promptly much more study, debate and correction than it has yet had. It is essential too, that the public learn a lot more about this subject. My mail indicated remarkably complete confusion. That confusion seems to extend also to the very highest in the seats of the mighty.

For example, the very alert and intelligent Senator Byrnes is reported to have remarked: "The government might be taking on a lot of additional expense if we began now to register men over 45 * * * we ought to register only those we need."

Registration Inexpensive

If the registration is conducted in the completely successful way it was in 1917 and 1918, the cost of registration is utterly negligible. You simply use the existing local machinery for registration for elections. The service is voluntary and uncompensated. The only expense is for forms, stationery, postal and telegraph bills. That will have to be borne whatever the age limits, and the additional cost for registering men up to 64 would hardly equal that of governmental mimeographed political handouts for one day.

How can you "register only those you need"? Registration isn't selection for service. You can't tell what you need—or rather what you ought to take—until you see what you've got.

Bill Is Confusing

What has just been said is important only as it shows how far from understanding this selective process is even the able and usually well-informed Senator Byrnes.

The Burke-Wadsworth bill is confusing and out of that confusion is growing a distinct, heart-sickening political approach to this subject. This column is not in the least in favor of any "coalition" departure from the two-party system. It certainly would oppose any such attempt to get unofficial bi-partisan agreements on such acts of war as furnishing Great Britain our government rifles, guns, destroyers and airplanes. That would be a coalition for war—which our people won't want.

Seen as Necessary

But this selective service business is absolutely necessary for defense—which our people do want. It would be patriotic statesmenship on both sides if conferees for the president and Mr. Willkie could agree on the principles of a much simpler selective service law which they could both approve and recommened to Congress. That would stop this beginning political clap-trap.

The Senate Military committee's approval of calling out the national guard for training before this question is settled, is putting the cart a little before the horse. The guard is a skeletonized organization. To get the best results in training and for defense it ought to be recruited to war strength. General Marshall says that can't be done without the selective draft. He is unquestionably correct.

Bum's Rush Not Speed

In the World war and after a vigorous whoop-la recruiting drive of seven months, the sixteen national guard divisions could be filled only by the assignment of 100,000 drafted men and, of course, all the tens of thousands of later replacements were all drafted men.

The "call" for the national guard, if authorized, is itself a draft of entire organizations. It may do little harm to let that go forward while the more general selective draft bill is being perfected. The early half-trained contingents will need shaking down before they can digest raw recruits.

Speed is essential all along the line but a hasty bums-rush approach to a bungled conscription bill is not real speed on the one hand and it does, as is now apparent, open the door to the most dangerous and despicable form of partisan politics on the other.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

THE ENDLESS VIGIL

Defense Policy Evasion by Roosevelt Starts Movement for a Liaison Plan

By MARK SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. — The most important matter before the government and people at this time is our military and naval policy—long range and short-range. "Policy" is not the exact word — we have reached the point where policy merges into action.

Mark Sullivan

Momentously, associated with this is another matter, about which just now there is increasing thought, and some steps toward action; about which there may be developments shortly. This is: cooperation — or consultation, or understanding, or what not—between Mr. Roosevelt and the Republican presidential nominee, Mr. Willkie. The problem of military policy necessarily overlaps the six months of the administration in office, and whatever administration will have power after January 20 next.

Shifts Delay Blame

A phase of the political problem arose this week. The Senate Foreign Relations committee had almost completed a bill for universal conscription, the Burke-Wadsworth bill. The committee was expected to report it to the full Senate about the middle of the week. At this point some senators, Republican and Democratic, suggested that Mr. Roosevelt be asked whether the bill met his views. This meant delay. The condition was reported to Mr. Roosevelt. At a press conference he was asked if he had any comment.

Mr. Roosevelt took a defensive attitude. Rather sharply he said he did not think he was called upon to go into the details of pending legislation; that he had expressed his views in general in his defense message to Congress; that if there is delay now, the blame will be on other shoulders than his.

The effect of the president's attitude on Congress will be to irritate them, Republicans and Democrats alike. To the ordinary feeling between Democrats as such and Republicans as such, is added feeling between Congress as such and the White House as such—the feeling in both cases making for delay, awkwardness, lack of quick efficiency.

Not Consistent

Congress will feel that if the president is shy about discussing the details of a pending bill, that shyness is something new, and not consistent. They know that as to many measures pending from time to time, the president does not hesitate about discussion. They know that in the early days of the New Deal, the practice of the White House was diametrically opposite to the stand now taken. They know the White House, far from showing deference to the prerogative of Congress, actually followed a practice which put Congress in the position of a rubber stamp. They know it was the custom for New Dealers around the president to write out bills in minute detail, and for Mr. Roosevelt to send them to Congress, and to put pressure on Congress to pass them as written, and to resist changes proposed by Congress. They recall that Mr. Roosevelt's famous bill to change the supreme court was written by persons around him, complete to the last comma ;that it was read by Mr. Roosevelt to a press conference before it was read in Congress; that not one Member of Congress had any knowledge of the bill until Mr. Roosevelt handed it to the Democratic leaders and told them to pass it.

Political Motive Seen

Congress, recalling all this, will feel that Mr. Roosevelt's new-found reluctance to discuss a pending bill has a political motive. They will feel that Mr. Roosevelt wishes to "pass the buck" to them, to make Congress bear whatever public resentment may arise to the conscription bill or any details of it. Congress is the more disposed to feel this when it recalls that something of the same kind arose last winter, about the bill to give financial aid to Finland—the aid was delayed for weeks while president and Congress each sought to make the other take responsibility for it.

Now this sort of thing is characteristic of our form of government. It goes with a representative republic. Even if the unusual condition present in this case did not exist, even if Mr. Roosevelt were perfectly willing to take a position, even if there were ready cooperation between Congress and president, there would be delay. Democracy takes time.

Scorned by Dictators

This the dictators know, and scorn, and take advantage of. The dictators do not need to consult any Congress. The dictators could decide on conscription and announce it and put it in effect, within a day, an hour. For this reason the dictators say they can always conquer the democracies, whether by war or by economic means. For this reason, the dictators say, confidently and sneeringly, democracies must die, everywhere.

Without much doubt, Hitler timed this war to occur when the United States was involved in a presidential election; and timed the attack upon Britain with relation to the dates of our two party conventions.

Meanwhile, Rome burns—meaning that Britain is in imminent danger, and that, with Britain gone, we stand before the guns.

To overcome some of the delay, a movement is under way which originates largely outside politics. It is a movement mainly of political neutrals. They aim to set up some kind of neutral liaison between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr Willkie. The immediate purpose is to get agreement upon prompt aid for Britain in the form of certain destroyers and other armament, which we now have, which we do not have immediate need for, which is very much needed by Britain, but which can only be transferred to Britain after action by Congress

Beating the War Jitters

They Will Help Hitler unless Controlled, Noted Psychologist Says

War jitters, if unchecked, will take a serious toll of American happiness, health and human lives, warns William Moulton Marston, noted psycholigist.

"The increasing seriousness of American war jitters," declares Dr. Marston in an article in Your Life Magazine, "makes it important to understand the nature and source of this mentally contagious malady. Certainly its origin is not to be found in any immediate threat of devastation like that which England faced after Hitler occupied the Channel ports. It was too late then to indulge in war jitters.

"With us it is a question, first, whether German invasion will come at all; and, second, if it comes, whether the painstaking German planners will require two years or twenty to perfect their elaborate preparations."

"That gives us time to stage a few emotional tantrums and still get ready to meet the worst that Nazi desructionists can produce. But what Americans fail to realize is that uncontrolled war jitters may do more for Hitler than all the Stukas and 80-ton tanks that German factories can turn out in twenty years."

To meet—and beat—the war jitters, Dr. Marston suggests:

If you can't help the people you feel sorry for, think about something else.

2. Face the worst thing that can happen and prepare for it.

3. Recognize the fact that strong might often conquers weak right, and remember that you can neither kill nor reform the devil.

4. Remember the wars Americans have jittered themselves into and put a stern check-rein on your hates and enthusiasms.

5. Relieve your unhappy war feelings by doing something—work for Red Cross and refugees, keep tabs on how our defense billions are spent.

6. Remember nature's law that trees cannot grow to the sky, and be comforted.

Advertising Is The Builder

From the Connellsville, Pa., Courier

Nothing in the world sells until it is known. No successful commodity blunders its own way into a store and waits until somebody by some strange chance blunders into buying it, says Nation's Business. If merchants and factory managers had not hired salesmen, and had not placed advertising, our America would still be what it was in 1940, a handful of poor villages and penniless farmers, dotted on the edges of enormous forests.

National distribution, in its simplest terms, means that you can get your favorite foods, beverages, clothes, shoes, cigarettes, soaps, cosmetics, books, magazines and all other manufactured articles, wherever in the country you are. Bringing this about, in a country 3,000 miles wide, and once apparently divided forever by the Rocky Mountains, has been no child's play. It would never have taken place without national advertising.

Railroads and steamship lines and highways provide the means of transport. But what is the use of transporting goods from a factory in Delaware to a store near a family in Oregon if the goods are not known and, therefore, are not bought?

Advertising is the dissemination of news about better and less costly goods than people could make for themselves at home.

If the local merchant who neglects this important phase of conducting business would give more thought to getting his name before the public—making it a byword—sales would take care of themselves.

Invasion Is Not Likely in Belief Of De Seversky

By EDWIN C. HILL

Edwin C. Hill

Major Alexander P. De Seversky airplane builder and American citizen, who concludes, after diligent study, that Germany's all-out onslaught on Britain isn't coming off, may well speak with authority. He engaged in more than 100 dogfights with the Germans, when he was flying for Imperial Russia, and dropped thirteen enemy planes.

They finally dropped him, but in this adventure, and in later years of intensive application to plane designing and manufacturing, he gained the right to be heard in the matter of who's going to drop whom when it comes to air-fighting. His is informed and studious opinion. Writing of the forthcoming blitzkrieg, still withheld at this moment, Major De Seversky says:

"I remain convinced that there will be no such invasion, unless Germany possesses a huge secret armada of new types of aircraft about which the outside world has as yet no inkling."

Dropped into Baltic

The water around him was red when he regained consciousness, clinging to the pontoon of his fallen ship. The Germans had dropped him into the Baltic. One of his own forty-pound bombs had exploded when he hit the water. One leg was terribly injured. He shifted his good leg over the pontoon, and tore up his trouser-leg to make a tourniquet. Hours later, he swooned again when a Russian destroyer picked him up.

In 1918, considering the Major somewhat offside under their new ideological ground rules, the Bolsheviks were fixing to shoot him. The trim-rigged young war ace was persuasive. He said the least they could do would be to let him go to America to pick up a wooden leg. They reluctantly agreed. Washington received him hospitably, in April, 1918, and here he got not only a wooden leg, but a beautiful wife, a $5,000,000 airplane factory, and, as the years passed, supplemented all this with racing and stunting records, including an East-West transcontinental record of ten hours and three minutes, made in August, 1938.

Romantic Stuff

E. B. White, who writes "One Man's Meat" for Harper's Magazine, holds forth in the current issue for a spirited, adventurous, imaginative army, with uniforms designed by Hollywood, not above a bit of romantic stunting on occasion, ready to meet all-comers. He probably would sign up Major De Seversky right at the start.

The Major, while a master of power and precision, first mandate of plane designing, is also the impresario of the dancing airplane. Employing an alarm clock, a dry battery and a pair of headphones, in 1931, he rigged a plane which swoops and swirls rhythmically to one-two-three waltz time, played by a band down below and responsive only to the music. The Major likes waltzing and found a way to enjoy its exhilarating rhythm in spite of his wooden leg. He has worked it out so a fairly ambitious band could waltz 10,000 planes in the sky, all at once. That's the kind of war one could go for. The French might have done better if a big band playing "The Marseillaise" had belched their planes up into the sky in rhythmic accord.

To Presidency

Arriving in Washington, Major De Seversky became consulting engineer for the United States Air Service. That misadventure with his own bomb had made him cautious but he did not stop branching out. He became the only man in the world to do stunt flying with a dead motor. Rigidly trained in aeronautics he applied himself diligently to airplane design and that led to the presidency of the Seversky Aircraft Corporation, all in waltz time.

Several months ago, he visited Europe, studying military planes, and his current finding that England has a splendid fighting chance to ward off Germany's air attack is based upon closely observed technical information. In 1926, Major De Seversky married Evelyn Oliphant, a New York society girl. Once, in the absence of her husband, she piloted a guest home in the family plane, although she had had only a few hours in the air. Since then they fly tandem. The Major says the airplane levels barriers between the sexes, that men dare not patronize a woman who can fly.—Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Another Left-Winger Who Should Go

THE FIVE-YEAR TERM of J. Warren Madden as chairman of the National Labor Relations Board will expire August 27 and the American Federation of Labor, through its president, William Green, is vigorously opposing his reappointment.

It hardly needs to be said that employers, generally, are strongly opposed to Madden and his policies.

In the meantime the executive board of the National Lawyers' Guild has adopted resolutions supporting Madden and declaring him to be fearless and impartial.

The National Lawyers' Guild, from the beginning, has been recognized as a left-wing organization. A few weeks ago A. A. Berle Jr., assistant secretary of state, resigned from the Guild with the following statement: "It is now obvious that the present management of the Guild is not prepared to take any stand which conflicts with the Communist party line."

The resignation of Mr. Berle was preceded by that of Attorney General Jackson and Nathan Margold, solicitor of Ickes's Interior department. Other lawyers have followed suit in the last few weeks.

When men like Berle and Jackson quit the organization because of its Communistic tendencies, there can be little doubt that the charges are well founded. The question many Americans are asking themselves is how did it come about that the attorney general of the United States and an assistant secretary of state joined an organization of this type?

At a time like this, when labor relations in American industry are of supreme importance, it seems almost incredible that Madden should be appointed for another term, but if his name goes before the Senate it should be rejected by unanimous vote.

It is just a plain fact that employers in this country do not trust the labor board, and business confidence is more essential than at any time in a generation.

Hitler May Be Waiting For Dark of the Moon

THE BIG GUESS everywhere now is whether Hitler is going to attempt his long-advertised blitzkrieg against the British Isles and if so, when.

A recognized expert points out that there are no political reasons, so far as anyone can see, why Hitler should further postpone his attempted invasion of Great Britain. His pilots have spied out the land until they know the British Isles as well as the natives know it. Despite British claims that little damage has been done, the "softening up" process in preparation for the big push has gone far.

It seems reasonable to suppose, therefore, that the one thing Hitler is waiting for now is the dark of the moon. The new moon comes on August 3. So it comes about that from then until August 10 there will be a period of dark nights over the British Isles.

It is obvious that the Germans would have a far better chance of success when the nights are dark. This is true in many respects. Darkness would facilitate the crossing of the Channel and the landing. The most alert British defense would be placed at a disadvantage if the Germans are able to gain air and water "bridgeheads," over which heavy reinforcements would be sent.

By this time the issue would be joined. Battleships, heavy shore batteries, hundreds of planes and thousands of troops would be locked in the deadly struggle.

Fathoming Hitler's mind is something no one yet has succeeded in doing, but it seems logical that he would prefer darkness to daylight for his invasion, as he prefers it for everything else.

Our Traffic Signals Make for Safety

SEVERAL CITIES are experimenting with plans to make observance of the street corner signal lights better and safer.

Out at Champaign, Ill., a rather novel plan is being tried out, although it is a bit expensive. A reported incident shows how it works. A group of pedestrians started to cross the main street just as the "go" light changed to green. All but one raced across the busy thoroughfare anyway. A lone observer of safety regulations, a woman, returned to the sidewalk, waited until the green signal flashed her way and then made the crossing in leisurely fashion.

But when she reached the other side, a police patrolman handed her a ticket! But, it wasn't a court summons. It entitled her to $15 in merchandise at a department store as a reward for her compliance with the laws.

Over at Altoona, Pa., the Tribune has been advocating double red lights for stopping all vehicular traffic in the downtown section in order to give pedestrians a chance. It sees no other way to abolish the fear of cars coming off side streets.

It may be wondered why these experimenting cities have not utilized the yellow caution light for the stoppage of all vehicular traffic for pedestrians, as is done here in Cumberland, a plan that has worked quite satisfactorily.

The reports given are of interest, but suggest a strict observance of the yellow "Walk" lights here by both pedestrians and motorists. Too many motorists plunge through the yellow light when they have no right to do so. Too many pedestrians start off on the "Walk" light when it is easily discernible that they will be caught part way by a change of the signals.

The three-color system as used here makes for safety and all should observe the signals as designed and with the head as well as with the feet and the wheels.

The Cursing Hitch-Hiker

MANY COMPLAINTS have reached the Keystone Automobile Club, Maryland, lately about hitch-hikers, motorists declaring that curses and coarse jibes often are hurled at drivers who refuse to stop for free ride-grabbers.

Edward P. Curran, safety director of the club, advises against compromise with the highway pest. "So long as some motorists give hitch-hikers a lift, so long will this form of parasite continue to thrive," he said. "Motorists have it well within their own power to squelch the hiker. Unanimous refusal of drivers to pick up the ride moochers would soon put an end to the practice.

"There is no reason why the tax-burdened motorist should feel under any obligation to give transportation to any ride beggar who makes the request with a jerk of the thumb. The hitch-hiker who confidently waggles his thumb at a motorist wouldn't think of getting a ride on a street car or train by the same means, because he knows it wouldn't work."

Warning is given by the club that motorists frequently have been repaid for their kindness "with a clout on the back of the head and robbed of car or money." Others have found themselves defendants in damage suits because of injury to the self-invited guests.

Aside from these serious considerations, motorists are jeopardized by the appearance of the hikers on the highways. Cars often are forced to swerve sharply to avoid them, and crashes with approaching vehicles sometimes result. It is a bad practice and should be discouraged, unless, of course, the hitch-hiker is known.

This particular bill is right in principle, but it needs promptly much more study, debate and correction than it has yet had. It is essential too, that the public learn a lot more about this subject. My mail indicated remarkably complete confusion. That confusion seems to extend also to the very highest in the seats of the mighty.

For example, the very alert and intelligent Senator Byrnes is reported to have remarked: "The government might be taking on a lot of additional expense if we began now to register men over 45 * * * we ought to register only those we need."

Registration Inexpensive

If the registration is conducted in the completely successful way it was in 1917 and 1918, the cost of registration is utterly negligible. You simply use the existing local machinery for registration for elections. The service is voluntary and uncompensated. The only expense is for forms, stationery, postal and telegraph bills. That will have to be borne whatever the age limits, and the additional cost for registering men up to 64 would hardly equal that of governmental mimeographed political handouts for one day.

How can you "register only those you need"? Registration isn't selection for service. You can't tell what yon need—or rather what you ought to take—until you see what you've got.

Bill Is Confusing

What has just been said is important only as it shows how far from understanding this selective process is even the able and usually well-informed Senator Byrnes.

The Burke-Wadsworth bill is confusing and out of that confusion is growing a distinct, heart-sickening political approach to this subject. This column is not in the least in favor of any "coalition" departure from the two-party system. It certainly would oppose any such attempt to get unofficial bi-partisan agreements on such acts of war as furnishing Great Britain our government rifles, guns, destroyers and airplanes. That would be a coalition for war—which our people won't want.

Seen as Necessary

But this selective service business is absolutely necessary for defense—which our people do want. It would be patriotic statesmenship on both sides if conferees for the president and Mr. Willkie could agree on the principles of a much simpler selective service law which they could both approve and recommened to Congress. That would stop this beginning political clap-trap.

The Senate Military committee's approval of calling out the national guard for training before this question is settled, is putting the cart a little before the horse. The guard is a skeletonized organization. To get the best results in training and for defense it ought to be recruited to war strength. General Marshall says that can't be done without the selective draft. He is unquestionably correct.

Bum's Rush Not Speed

In the World war and after a vigorous whoop-la recruiting drive of seven months, the sixteen national guard divisions could be filled only by the assignment of 100,000 drafted men and, of course, all the tens of thousands of later replacements were all drafted men.

The "call" for the national guard, if authorized, is itself a draft of entire organizations. It may do little harm to let that go forward while the more general selective draft bill is being perfected. The early half-trained contingents will need shaking down before they can digest raw recruits.

Speed is essential all along the line but a hasty bums-rush approach to a bungled conscription bill is not real speed on the one hand and it does, as is now apparent, open the door to the most dangerous and despicable form of partisan politics on the other.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

THE ENDLESS VIGIL

By MARK SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. — The most important matter before the government and people at this time is our military and naval policy—long range and short-range. "Policy" is not the exact word — we have reached the point where policy merges into action.

Mark Sullivan

Momentously, associated with this is another matter, about which just now there is increasing thought, and some steps toward action; about which there may be developments shortly. This is: cooperation — or consultation, or understanding, or what not—between Mr. Roosevelt and the Republican presidential nominee, Mr. Willkie. The problem of military policy necessarily overlaps the six months of the administration in office, and whatever administration will have power after January 20 next.

Shifts Delay Blame

A phase of the political problem arose this week. The Senate Foreign Relations committee had almost completed a bill for universal conscription, the Burke-Wadsworth bill. The committee was expected to report it to the full Senate about the middle of the week. At this point some senators, Republican and Democratic, suggested that Mr. Roosevelt be asked whether the bill met his views. This meant delay. The condition was reported to Mr. Roosevelt. At a press conference he was asked if he had any comment.

Mr. Roosevelt took a defensive attitude. Rather sharply he said he did not think he was called upon to go into the details of pending legislation; that he had expressed his views in general in his defense message to Congress; that if there is delay now, the blame will be on other shoulders than his.

The effect of the president's attitude on Congress will be to irritate them, Republicans and Democrats alike. To the ordinary feeling between Democrats as such and Republicans as such, is added feeling between Congress as such and the White House as such—the feeling in both cases making for delay, awkwardness, lack of quick efficiency.

Not Consistent

Congress will feel that if the president is shy about discussing the details of a pending bill, that shyness is something new, and not consistent. They know that as to many measures pending from time to time, the president does not hesitate about discussion. They know that in the early days of the New Deal, the practice of the White House was diametrically opposite to the stand now taken. They know the White House, far from showing deference to the prerogative of Congress, actually followed a practice which put Congress in the position of a rubber stamp. They know it was the custom for New Dealers around the president to write out bills in minute detail, and for Mr. Roosevelt to send them to Congress, and to put pressure on Congress to pass them as written, and to resist changes proposed by Congress. They recall that Mr. Roosevelt's famous bill to change the supreme court was written by persons around him, complete to the last comma ;that it was read by Mr. Roosevelt to a press conference before it was read in Congress; that not one Member of Congress had any knowledge of the bill until Mr. Roosevelt handed it to the Democratic leaders and told them to pass it.

Political Motive Seen

Congress, recalling all this, will feel that Mr. Roosevelt's new-found reluctance to discuss a pending bill has a political motive. They will feel that Mr. Roosevelt wishes to "pass the buck" to them, to make Congress bear whatever public resentment may arise to the conscription bill or any details of it. Congress is the more disposed to feel this when it recalls that something of the same kind arose last winter, about the bill to give financial aid to Finland—the aid was delayed for weeks while president and Congress each sought to make the other take responsibility for it.

Now this sort of thing is characteristic of our form of government. It goes with a representative republic. Even if the unusual condition present in this case did not exist, even if Mr. Roosevelt were perfectly willing to take a position, even if there were ready cooperation between Congress and president, there would be delay. Democracy takes time.

Scorned by Dictators

This the dictators know, and scorn, and take advantage of. The dictators do not need to consult any Congress. The dictators could decide on conscription and announce it and put it in effect, within a day, an hour. For this reason the dictators say they can always conquer the democracies, whether by war or by economic means. For this reason, the dictators say, confidently and sneeringly, democracies must die, everywhere.

Without much doubt, Hitler timed this war to occur when the United States was involved in a presidential election; and timed the attack upon Britain with relation to the dates of our two party conventions.

Meanwhile, Rome burns—meaning that Britain is in imminent danger, and that, with Britain gone, we stand before the guns.

To overcome some of the delay, a movement is under way which originates largely outside politics. It is a movement mainly of political neutrals. They aim to set up some kind of neutral liaison between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr Willkie. The immeidate purpose is to get agreement upon prompt aid for Britain in the form of certain destroyers and other armament, which we now have, which we do not have immediate need for, which is very much needed by Britain, but which can only be transferred to Britain after action by Congress

Beating the War Jitters

They Will Help Hitler unless Controlled, Noted Psychologist Says

War jitters, if unchecked, will take a serious toll of American happiness, health and human lives, warns William Moulton Marston, noted psycholigist.

"The increasing seriousness of American war jitters," declares Dr. Marston in an article in Your Life Magazine, "makes it important to understand the nature and source of this mentally contagious malady. Certainly its origin is not to be found in any immediate threat of devastation like that which England faced after Hitler occupied the Channel ports. It was too late then to indulge in war jitters.

"With us it is a question, first, whether German invasion will come at all; and, second, if it comes, whether the painstaking German planners will require two years or twenty to perfect their elaborate preparations."

"That gives us time to stage a few emotional tantrums and still get ready to meet the worst that Nazi desructionists can produce. But what Americans fail to realize is that uncontrolled war jitters may do more for Hitler than all the Stukas and 80-ton tanks that German factories can turn out in twenty years."

To meet—and beat—the war jitters, Dr. Marston suggests:

If you can't help the people you feel sorry for, think about something else.

2. Face the worst thing that can happen and prepare for it.

3. Recognize the fact that strong might often conquers weak right, and remember that you can neither kill nor reform the devil.

4. Remember the wars Americans have jittered themselves into and put a stern check-rein on your hates and enthusiasms.

5. Relieve your unhappy war feelings by doing something—work for Red Cross and refugees, keep tabs on how our defense billions are spent.

6. Remember nature's law that trees cannot grow to the sky, and be comforted.

From the Connellsville, Pa., Courier

Nothing in the world sells until it is known. No successful commodity blunders its own way into a store and waits until somebody by some strange chance blunders into buying it, says Nation's Business. If merchants and factory managers had not hired salesmen, and had not placed advertising, our America would still be what it was in 1940, a handful of poor villages and penniless farmers, dotted on the edges of enormous forests.

National distribution, in its simplest terms, means that you can get your favorite foods, beverages, clothes, shoes, cigarettes, soaps, cosmetics, books, magazines and all other manufactured articles, wherever in the country you are. Bringing this about, in a country 3,000 miles wide, and once apparently divided forever by the Rocky Mountains, has been no child's play. It would never have taken place without national advertising.

Railroads and steamship lines and highways provide the means of transport. But what is the use of transporting goods from a factory in Delaware to a store near a family in Oregon if the goods are not known and, therefore, are not bought?

Advertising is the dissemination of news about better and less costly goods than people could make for themselves at home.

If the local merchant who neglects this important phase of conducting business would give more thought to getting his name before the public—making it a byword—sales would take care of themselves.

Invasion Is Not Likely in Belief Of De Seversky

Edwin C. Hill

Major Alexander P. De Seversky airplane builder and American citizen, who concludes, after diligent study, that Germany's all-out onslaught on Britain isn't coming off, may well speak with authority. He engaged in more than 100 dogfights with the Germans, when he was flying for Imperial Russia, and dropped thirteen enemy planes.

They finally dropped him, but in this adventure, and in later years of intensive application to plane designing and manufacturing, he gained the right to be heard in the matter of who's going to drop whom when it comes to air-fighting. His is informed and studious opinion. Writing of the forthcoming blitzkrieg, still withheld at this moment, Major De Seversky says:

"I remain convinced that there will be no such invasion, unless Germany possesses a huge secret armada of new types of aircraft about which the outside world has as yet no inkling."

Dropped into Baltic

The water around him was red when he regained consciousness, clinging to the pontoon of his fallen ship. The Germans had dropped him into the Baltic. One of his own forty-pound bombs had exploded when he hit the water. One leg was terribly injured. He shifted his good leg over the pontoon, and tore up his trouser-leg to make a tourniquet. Hours later, he swooned again when a Russian destroyer picked him up.

In 1918, considering the Major somewhat offside under their new ideological ground rules, the Bolsheviks were fixing to shoot him. The trim-rigged young war ace was persuasive. He said the least they could do would be to let him go to America to pick up a wooden leg. They reluctantly agreed. Washington received him hospitably, in April, 1918, and here he got not only a wooden leg, but a beautiful wife, a $5,000,000 airplane factory, and, as the years passed, supplemented all this with racing and stunting records, including an East-West transcontinental record of ten hours and three minutes, made in August, 1938.

Romantic Stuff

E. B. White, who writes "One Man's Meat" for Harper's Magazine, holds forth in the current issue for a spirited, adventurous, imaginative army, with uniforms designed by Hollywood, not above a bit of romantic stunting on occasion, ready to meet all-comers. He probably would sign up Major De Seversky right at the start.

The Major, while a master of power and precision, first mandate of plane designing, is also the impresario of the dancing airplane. Employing an alarm clock, a dry battery and a pair of headphones, in 1931, he rigged a plane which swoops and swirls rhythmically to one-two-three waltz time, played by a band down below and responsive only to the music. The Major likes waltzing and found a way to enjoy its exhilarating rhythm in spite of his wooden leg. He has worked it out so a fairly ambitious band could waltz 10,000 planes in the sky, all at once. That's the kind of war one could go for. The French might have done better if a big band playing "The Marseillaise" had belched their planes up into the sky in rhythmic accord.

To Presidency

Arriving in Washington, Major De Seversky became consulting engineer for the United States Air Service. That misadventure with his own bomb had made him cautious but he did not stop branching out. He became the only man in the world to do stunt flying with a dead motor. Rigidly trained in aeronautics he applied himself diligently to airplane design and that led to the presidency of the Seversky Aircraft Corporation, all in waltz time.

Several months ago, he visited Europe, studying military planes, and his current finding that England has a splendid fighting chance to ward off Germany's air attack is based upon closely observed technical information. In 1926, Major De Seversky married Evelyn Oliphant, a New York society girl. Once, in the absence of her husband, she piloted a guest home in the family plane, although she had had only a few hours in the air. Since then they fly tandem. The Major says the airplane levels barriers between the sexes, that men dare not patronize a woman who can fly.—Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

THE DAILY STORY

YELLOW FEATHER

Two Heads Are Better than One, Especially When One Is Dark and the Other Very, Very Blonde

By NEVA COCHRAN

The editor scribbled something on a scrap of paper, clipped it to the manuscript and tossed it back across the desk.

"Sorry," he informed the young man.

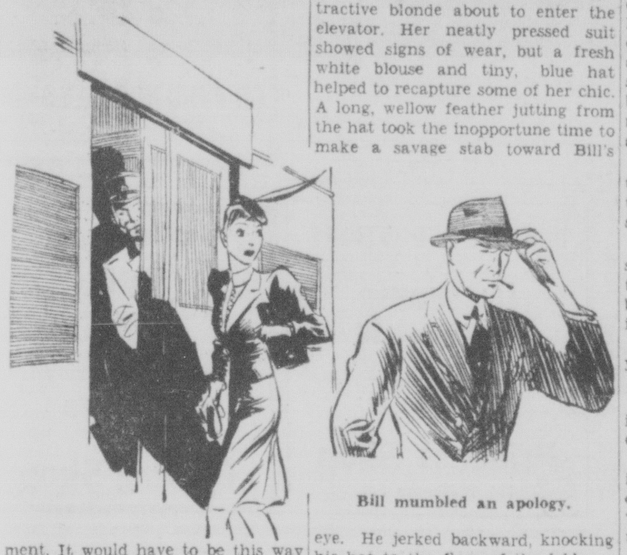
Bill Corey picked up the story with a feeling of keen disappointment. It would have to be this way just when he was down to his last dollar. He read what the editor had written, "Ending lacks punch."

"You can't use it then?" he asked.

"No. It's okay except for the ending. Change that and maybe I'll reconsider it."

Bill's customary nonchalance was replaced with something akin to dejection as he passed through the small reception room.

He stuffed the rejected story into his topcoat pocket and poked absently at the down button set in the marble wall in the corridor. As he squeezed into the crowded cage he reflected that several weeks of short rations made this comparatively easy to do.



Bill mumbled an apology.

On the main floor he rushed out and promptly collided with an attractive blonde about to enter the elevator. Her neatly pressed suit showed signs of wear, but a fresh white blouse and tiny, blue hat helped to recapture some of her chic. A long, wellow feather jutting from the hat took the inopportune time to make a savage stab toward Bill's eye. He jerked backward, knocking his hat to the floor of the lobby.

"Oh," the girl gasped in dismay, "pardon me."

Bill mumbled an apology, snatched up his hat and hurried out of the building. In the street the thought struck him that he really had nothing to do and no place in particular to go. The park was close by so he wandered over there and dropped down on a bench.

A stiff breeze played with the edges of his coat as he pondered the events of the morning. Why hadn't the story sold? The story had cost him many hours of work and he thought that it was pretty good. But now that the editor had mentioned it there did seem to be something wrong with the plot.

He got up abruptly to walk off the chill and then suddenly sat down again. His face assumed the startled expression that accompanied the arrival of an inspiration.

"I've got it," he shouted to the wind, "the surprise ending!"

Shoving his hand into the pocket where he had put the story, his fingers encountered nothing but space. Frantically he explored one pocket, after the other and still no story. He searched the ground around the bench and even examined the shrubbery near by, where the wind could have carried it, but there was no sign of anything resembling even part of a 5,000-word tale.

After one last look, Bill turned to go back the way he had come, nursing a forlorn hope that the wind might have deposited it in some corner where he could retrieve it. He never made carbon copies and he knew there was no use in trying to rewrite it from memory even if the editor would consent to read his species of longhand.

On the way back to the office building he looked carefully but didn't have any luck. In the lobby he glanced rather furtively around, thinking it might have been scuffed into a corner by someone rushing to or from the elevator. In turn he asked the cigar stand clerk, the starter and the elevator operator who had brought him down.

"I got all I can do, Buddy, hauling people up and down without watching the lobby for lost papers," this individual remarked callously.

The receptionist was just going out for lunch when Bill came in. He started to ask her, too, when the door to the inner sanctum opened and the little blonde, holding a sheaf of papers in her hand, stepped blithely out. She regarded Bill in mild wonder, then walked up to him and placed the papers in his hand.

"You dropped this on the floor in the lobby," she told him. "I tried to call you back but you left in such a hurry."

"Thanks," Bill mumbled and then started to read another page clipped to the front that hadn't been there befffore. The girl watched him, smiling uneasily.

"Did you write this page?" he yelled excitedly.

"Then you like it," she said.

"Like it? I'll say I do! Why, this is a perfect ending for this story. Can I use this??"

"Of course. That's why I attached it. I was going to mail it to you today. You see—" She hesitated. "Maybe you better go in and see if the editor likes it," she suggested.

In a few minutes Bill emerged from the inner office with a check in his hand. The girl breathed a happy sigh. Then she assumed a very businesslike attitude.

"Fifty-fifty on the check," she said.

"Yhy—" Bill stammered.

"Oh, I forgot to tell you," she murmured, "I tried to sell a story here, too, but the editor said it was terrible. Said the ending was swell, though. So I took the ending to my story and—"—Distributed by United Features Syndicate.

British Announce Total Ship Losses of Allies And Axis Powers

London, Aug. 1 (AP) — The axis powers have lost 1,162,000 tons of shipping since the war began, the British Admiralty reports, to 1,503,587 for Britain and her allies.

Germany's losses were set at 908,000 tons and Italy's at 254,000.

Acknowledged British losses up to July 21 were 283 ships of 1,193,411 tons; total Allied losses of 66 ships of 310,176 tons, and total neutral loses of 226 ships of 693,493 tons.

Nazi sea and air forces sank 49,857 tons of British, Allied and neutral shipping in the week ending July 21, the admiralty declared.

(The Berlin newspaper Borsen Zeitung listed British merchant marine losses at 257,000 tons for the week ending July 28).

Six Americans Now Prisoners in Germany

Vichy, France, Aug. 1 (AP)—James V. Sparks, commander of the now substantially disbanded American Volunteer Ambulance Corps which served with the French army, says that six Americans are believed still prisoners of war in Germany.

During the war, thirty-five drivers were captured, but twenty-nine were released. Of that number, all those making their homes in America are enroute to the United States. Ten others now in Vichy and eleven in the region of Clermont-Ferrand, Sparks said, will be sent to America on the first available vessel from Lisbon.

He added that nine Americans were killed in the course of the war.

Questioned by Japs

SHANGHAI, Aug. 1 (AP)—Domei, Japanese news agency, reported here that Relman Morin, formerly of Los Angeles, now chief of the Associated Press Bureau in Tokyo, had been summoned to headquarters of the Tokyo gendarmerie and questioned concerning his dispatches reporting the death of Melville James Cox, correspondent in Japan for Reuters (British news agency).

Morin was released after several hours.

Domei said the gendarmes accused Morin of sending dispatches intimating that Cox's death on July 29, was not a suicide, as the Japanese had stated, and also that the Japanese announcement asserted the farewell note bore Cox's signature whereas the note as published was unsigned.

(The Associated Press dispatches reported what the British embassy officials gave out concerning the affair and made no comment on the case.)

He added that nine Americans were killed in the course of the war.

Questioned by Japs

SHANGHAI, Aug. 1 (AP)—Domei, Japanese news agency, reported here that Reiman Morin, formerly of Los Angeles, now chief of the Associated Press Bureau in Tokyo, had been summoned to headquarters of the Tokyo gendarmerie and questioned concerning his dispatches reporting the death of Melville James Cox, correspondent in Japan for Reuters (British news agency).

Morin was released after several hours.

Domei said the gendarmes accused Morin of sending dispatches intimating that Cox's death on July 29, was not a suicide, as the Japanese had stated, and also that the Japanese announcement asserted the farewell note bore Cox's signature whereas the note as published was unsigned.

(The Associated Press dispatches reported what the British embassy officials gave out concerning the affair and made no comment on the case.)

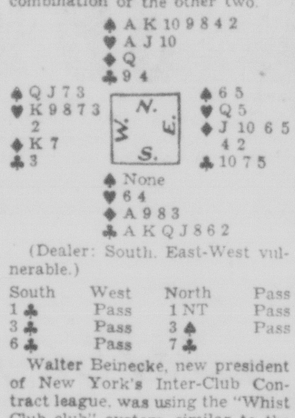
"The Authority on Authorities"

KNOW THE SQUEEZES

A PLAYER who learns the patterns of the various chief forms of squeeze plays will make a very fair number of contracts which otherwise would prove impossible. There are three main ones—the forward squeeze, with which you can bother only the first opponent to play after you lead the "squeeze card," the backward squeeze, with which you may wreck whichever opponent has to guard two suits, and the double squeeze, which is a combination of the other two.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	Pass
1 ♣	Pass	1 NT	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
6 ♣	Pass	7 ♣

Walter Beinecke, new president of New York's Inter-Club Contract league, was using the "Whist Club club" system, similar to the Vanderbilt, but with the opening club bid showing either three aces or an ace-king and an ace, and response of 1-No Trump showing the other two aces, any suit except diamonds showing the ace-king of the suit called.

The lead was the club 3. With any other the contract was easy. Two diamonds could be ruffed and the losing heart and last diamond could be thrown on the top spades. But the club lead made it hard. The A won it, then the diamond A and a ruff were followed by the two high spades for discards of one diamond and one heart. Came then a third spade, which East ruffed, forcing an over-ruff, so it was impossible to set up that suit, the dummy having only one entry left where two would be needed.

Mr. Beinecke then proceeded to build a double squeeze. If West's diamond K on the second round of that suit was not a false-card, then a squeeze was sure, no matter who held the heart honors, for then East would be trying to guard the diamonds and West the spades. When the last club was led to the eleventh trick, Mr. Beinecke also held the heart 6 and diamond 8, the dummy retaining two hearts and the spade 9. On the club West couldn't afford to throw his spade Q, which would set up the 9, so he trashed the heart 9. The spade was then tossed from dummy. East now had to try to guard both the diamond and the hearts, but couldn't. Whichever he discarded would build a trick for the declarer.

Permanents for Touched-Up Hair

By HELEN FOLLETT

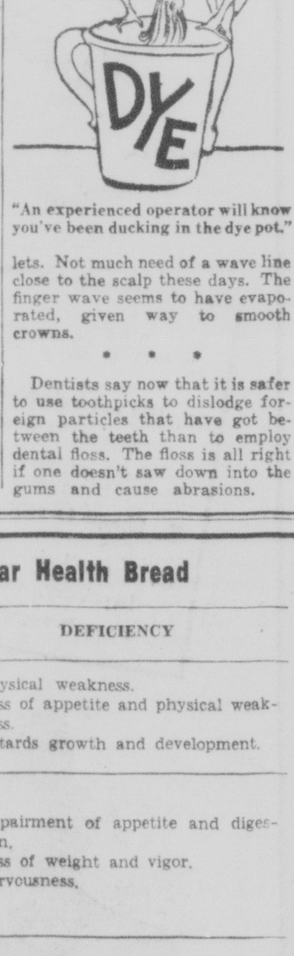
PERMANENT WAVE machines are going full blast. Hair dryers are puffing and snorting. Operators eat their luncheons on the gallop, because the world of women must be curly.

If you are due for a hard-boiled frizz and have been using any kind of a coloring agent on your celestial locks, up and confess. If you don't you may come out of the ordeal with hair that is any color of the rainbow. An experienced operator won't be fooled; she'll know you've been ducking in the dye pot. But beginners are not so wise.

The true Egyptian henna does not interfere with a wave, but henna compounds are something else again. They contain chemicals, henna is just the coloring agent. If peroxide rinses have been used, and the shafts are not impaired, a permanent can be given. Over-bleached hair that has become like jute must not be subjected to the boiling liquids. They can't stand the strain.

The permanent is a blessing to the girl with excessively oily hair and to the little dearheart whose locks are thin because it gives them bounce and an appearance of abundance.

The croquignole wind is to be preferred; it makes tighter ringlets. Not much need of a wave line close to the scalp these days. The finger wave seems to have evaporated, given way to smooth crowns.



"An experienced operator will know you've been ducking in the dye pot."

Teacher Forfeits Life When Snake Kills Boy

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Soon after a school teacher in the village of Oleo had locked a misbehaving pupil in the basement, she heard him crying out that he was being attacked by a huge snake.

Not believing him, the teacher went on with her classwork, and only later did she find the child dead in the coils of a serpent.

Learning of the tragedy, the boy's father ran to the school, and after gazing in horror at the gruesome spectacle he pulled out a revolver and shot the school-mistress dead.

Funds for Wedding Used To Pay Fine

PERRY, Okla. (AP)—A car made a U-turn at an intersection in violation of traffic rules, and an officer halted the driver.

The young man said he and the pretty girl beside him had just left the courthouse where they had obtained a marriage license, and were on their way to a parsonage to be married. In police court the couple was fined $3—the fee they had saved to pay the preached.

Tweed — the woolen cloth — was first made in villages along the Tweed ricer, in Scotland.

Soissons, France, has been the scene of thirty-two major battles since Julius Caesar's day.

Teacher Forfeits Life When Snake Kills Boy

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Soon after a school teacher in the village of Oleo had locked a misbehaving pupil in the basement, she heard him crying out that he was being attacked by a huge snake.

Not believing him, the teacher went on with her classwork, and only later did she find the child dead in the coils of a serpent.

Learning of the tragedy, the boy's father ran to the school, and after gazing in horror at the gruesome spectacle he pulled out a revolver and shot the school-mistress dead.

Funds for Wedding Used To Pay Fine

PERRY, Okla. (AP)—A car made a U-turn at an intersection in violation of traffic rules, and an officer halted the driver.

The young man said he and the pretty girl beside him had just left the courthouse where they had obtained a marriage license, and were on their way to a parsonage to be married. In police court the couple was fined $3—the fee they had saved to pay the preached.

Tweed — the woolen cloth — was first made in villages along the Tweed ricer, in Scotland.

Soissons, France, has been the scene of thirty-two major battles since Julius Caesar's day.

Permanents for Touched-Up Hair

By HELEN FOLLETT

PERMANENT WAVE machines are going full blast. Hair dryers are puffing and snorting. Operators eat their luncheons on the gallop, because the world of women must be curly.

If you are due for a hard-boiled frizz and have been using any kind of a coloring agent on your celestial locks, up and confess. If you don't you may come out of the ordeal with hair that is any color of the rainbow. An experienced operator won't be fooled; she'll know you've been ducking in the dye pot. But beginners are not so wise.

The true Egyptian henna does not interfere with a wave, but henna compounds are something else again. They contain chemicals, henna is just the coloring agent. If peroxide rinses have been used, and the shafts are not impaired, a permanent can be given. Over-bleached hair that has become like jute must not be subjected to the boiling liquids. They can't stand the strain.

The permanent is a blessing to the girl with excessively oily hair and to the little dearheart whose locks are thin because it gives them bounce and an appearance of abundance.

The croquignole wind is to be preferred; it makes tighter ringlets. Not much need of a wave line close to the scalp these days. The finger wave seems to have evaporated, given way to smooth crowns.

Men of 50 Are Urged To Take Some Exercise

Games in Open Do More than Develop Muscles

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The advantage of exercise in the form of games is not alone that it develops the muscles of the body. They get you out in the open air, they develop the eye, the ear, the equilibrium, the poise of the body—the senses and complicated nervous reactions as well as the muscles.

More they have a psychological effect. You can't play any games I know about unless you concentrate, and that means you forget your business, your domestic worries, your girl, your dyspepsia and the war. When King James got in trouble with the new game of "gowff," about 1457, because his ball got in a hole, and decided he would lick the game, he was lost to the Scottish people and their interests—some say forever.

Golf and tennis are antagonistic sports. The tennis player must keep his eye on the ball in flight. The golfer keeps his eye on the ball—at least theoretically — while it is lying on the ground in front of him. When it takes flight—if it does — he is taught, in fact begged, not to watch it but to keep looking at the place where it was.

Golf or Tennis After Fifty

It is advisable, therefore, not to try to play both games at the same time. Few athletes have concentration enough to play both well. This is a good thing in age differences. I am speaking now of the average not the professional athlete: I know the Scotch verdict, the one about the tyke who started golf too old—he was four when he began. Over forty-five if you really like tennis you needn't stop playing it, but play for recreation not competition.

I suppose theoretically you should have a physical examination before you are advised you can play golf or tennis after fifty, but I don't know. I would disregard medical advice in this. Life was given us to live to the fullest. What if you have a little high blood presure or a little heart murmur. (Unlike garlic there is such a thing as a little heart murmur.) Let's have fun. We may die on the barricades, not of albuminuria.

Book Describes Muscles

We are asked for information on a book which will describe the different muscles of the body, the idea being to be able to develop the proper ones for the sport in question. "An Anatomically Analysis of Sports," by Gertrude Hawley (A. S. Barnes, 1940), fills the bill for this kind of information. It describes the joints and muscles used in baseball, basketball, horseback riding, golf, swimming, tennis, skating and track athletics.

Whether the idea that certain groups of muscles should be developed for any particular sport is, however, debated both from the viewpoint of physiology and with the idea of becoming expert in the sport. The value of such exercises and games as have been mentioned above is that they de-velop the whole body—all the muscles. In this they differ from the monotonous bedroom exercises, which develop only the arms, shoulders, legs, abdomen, etc. If the tennis or golf aspirant decides to develop one set of muscles he may become muscle bound and spoil rather than improve his game.

Papier mache was originated in Paris during the 18th century. It was made by mashing paper in water, drying it and then molding it into small objects.

Late Dates Are Not Good Thing For Girls of 16

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage — Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

"Will you please write something about strict parents and how unfair they are to their daughters?" a girl asks. "I'm sixteen years old and have been going out with a charming boy for the past five months. We are fellow students in high school and care a good deal for each other.

"The other night we went to a movie, and this boy suggested that we go to a club in a nearby town to dance. We danced, not realizing how fast the time slipped by, and did not come home until 2 o'clock.

"Mother and father were both sitting up, straight as broomsticks in the living-room, waiting for me. And did I get it! Everything short of spanking, and I was told never to see this boy again. I don't want to go to college, as my parents have planned for me. I want to get married and have a home of my own.

"Lots of girls in our class think nothing of staying out until 2 o'clock, and this was only the first time I ever did it, and got talked to something awful. Please write something good and strong about strict parents."

Is Pretty Late

If you follow this column, my dear girl, I think you will realize I have frequently urged parents not to be too strict with their daughters. But like your mother and father, I think 2 a. m. is a pretty late hour for a girl of sixteen to stay out. And please don't get the impression that Miss Sweet Sixteen, staying out until 2 a. m., is on a short cut to marriage and a home of her own.

As the boy with whom you spent the evening is a fellow-student in hight school, and you say nothing about graduation, each of you may still be in school for a couple of years. This young man will then have to prepare himself for a profession or trade. From the present time until then, it's probable he may have a number of girls, some of whom he will be able to persuade to remain out till 2 o'clock; the others, the kind a boy finally marries, he's take home at a reasonable time, if they're not going to a party.

They Didn't "Take"

Not long ago, a scientific study was made of a very imposing fact. "When and where do men propose?"

About one-fourth, it was discovered, popped the question "in girl's homes." Another twenty-five per cent proposed in automobiles. But, to speak in the vernacular, "these didn't take," that is, the proposal went no further and never resulted in marriage.

Another twenty-five per cent proposed during summer vacations, and the remainder in various places—on the hikes, looking in shop windows, at exhibition rooms of furnished cottages, sitting on park benches, even buying supplies for the chafing dish supper.

Home is the best background for the genuine proposal which results in matrimony. The gay philanderer drops his phoney lovemaking when he discovers that a girl has a real home, background, parents—and don't forget the big brother. If my sixteen-year-old correspondent were to marary now and have this home of her own, she would probably bitterly resent the responsibilities of marriage in a year or two.

Should Learn How

If a home is the aim and ambition of her life, she'd be off to a good start by learning now how to keep one going. She should take a course in domestic science, which will teach her how to buy and how to make the best use of what she buys. A course in home decoration is available or she might send to the Government Printing Office for those bulletins which will give her complete instructions for being a good housekeeper and how to have and attractive home. I'll be glad to give her their numbers and costs, which are seldom more than five or ten cents.

Dangerous Handkerchief

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have three little girls of my own, and have everything I need to make my home happy except my husband's companionship. Naturally, he's away attending to his business all day, and he goes out every evening. I got to thinking that maybe he's out with some other woman, especially since a dainty handkerchief, which doesn't belong to me, fell out of his coat pocket the other day.

My friends advise me to leave him, but I'm waiting to hear what you have to say.

UNHAPPY WIFE.

Please don't think of robbing your three children of their comfortable home and chances in life because a handkerchief which doesn't belong to you fell out of your husband's pocket. His philandering, if he indulges in such a thing, may go not farther than snitching souvenirs. When old George IV of England died, hundreds of gloves and handkerchiefs, belonging to women, were found among his effects.

There may be nothing the matter with your husband worse than that he's approaching the Silly Age, which middle-aged men are likely to experience even as babies are troublesome when cutting teeth.

Don't discuss your affairs with friends. What would these people do for you if you broke up your comfortable home? Probably offer you a cup of tea or a cocktail, and their kind suggestions would stop there. Keep the home fires burning for your children's sake.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

She is 18 and I am 20. We've known each other for six years. They moved from this state four years ago, but returned lately and it was a surprise for me to meet her on the street one day. I fell in love right there, and asked her to go "steady", which she did for a few months.

My problem is that she isn't in love with me, but with a boy who lives in the town she returned from. He says he doesn't love her. She wants to forget him and love me instead. I've asked her to marry me in a couple of years and she said she would if she loved me. I've tried to take out other girls, hoping to forget her, but you just can't forget someone you love so dearly.

We areb oth out of school and I am working steadily. She knows I am writing, and we both will try our best to follow your advice. Do you think we ought to keep on seeing each other?

WAITING.

It seems to me the fates are playing right into your hands. You're on the spot. The boy she thinks she cares about is distant. Have you never heard a paraphrase of that worthy old platitude, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder." The paraphrase is, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder of the fellow near at hand."

Late Dates Are Not Good Thing For Girls of 16

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage — Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

"Will you please write something about strict parents and how unfair they are to their daughters?" a girl asks. "I'm sixteen years old and have been going out with a charming boy for the past five months. We are fellow students in high school and care a good deal for each other.

"The other night we went to a movie, and this boy suggested that we go to a club in a nearby town to dance. We danced, not realizing how fast the time slipped by, and did not come home until 2 o'clock.

"Mother and father were both sitting up, straight as broomsticks in the living-room, waiting for me. And did I get it! Everything short of spanking, and I was told never to see this boy again. I don't want to go to college, as my parents have planned for me. I want to get married and have a home of my own.

"Lots of girls in our class think nothing of staying out until 2 o'clock, and this was only the first time I ever did it, and got talked to something awful. Please write something good and strong about strict parents."

Is Pretty Late

If you follow this column, my dear girl, I think you will realize I have frequently urged parents not to be too strict with their daughters. But like your mother and father, I think 2 a. m. is a pretty late hour for a girl of sixteen to stay out. And please don't get the impression that Miss Sweet Sixteen, staying out until 2 a. m., is on a short cut to marriage and a home of her own.

As the boy with whom you spent the evening is a fellow-student in hight school, and you say nothing about graduation, each of you may still be in school for a couple of years. This young man will then have to prepare himself for a profession or trade. Broad, Flexible, Shoes Are Best For Baby's Feet

Physician Says Going Barefooted Does Not Cause Flatfeet

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Tots and runabouts who must go barefoot for want of shoes are rarely flatfooted. They are in danger, of course, from nails, glass, even hookworm. I never got hookworm but I did have my feet punctured with nails, glass and the like when I was a boy. I ought to have good arches, I have.

Just as the thermometer is sometimes used in deciding whether it shall be socks or stockings for your young school child, so the snow on the Tuscarora Mountains back of the farm home where I grew up in Little Cove, Pennsylvania, told us in the spring how long to wear shoes. As soon as no snow could be seen shoes and stockings came off. There was no doubt or argument. We children went barefoot from choice. I don't know why, but I even plowed over stony ground barefoot in spite of my parents' insistance that I wear shoes. I complained that the shoes cramped my feet. And late in September I remember driving the cows on frosty mornings through the stubble field to warm my bare feet. I also learned the art of walking comfortably barefoot against stubbles. It could be done.

Footprint Baby

Now back to baby's feet. You should make footprints of your baby as soon as he begins to stand and later as he walks. On beginning to walk he steps in a relatively straight line. His heels touch the ground first and his toes grip the ground as he pushes forward.

Even when this child begins walking the arch of the foot does not show. The entire foot area shows in the footprint as it does in an older child or adult who has flat feet. Some over-anxious mothers suppose the normal child, therefore, is destined to be flat-footed. Yet the child, even at birth, has the arches but they are concealed by the thick pad of fat on the bottom of the foot. This fat pad serves as a support until the muscles and tendons of the leg and foot are more fully developed.

In that excellent little book, "Let's Talk About Your Baby," by H. Kent Tenney, Jr., M. D., published by the University of Minnesota, we read: "Many of the shoes sold for infants are far too shallow to allow free action of the toes and have soles so stiff that proper exercise of the arch is impossible. To my mind the ideal shoe provides protection against injury from sharp objects but allows, and even encourages, free action of all the foot muscles."

Proper Shoes

Now let me quote from that new and excellent book full of illustrative photographs, by the eminent Dr. Lois Hayden Meek (Your Child's Development and Guidance, 1940, Lippincott, pp. 29-30):

"To have well-formed, strong feet children should go barefooted as much as possible and as long as possible, except on hard pavements, provided there is no danger from hookworm or rusty metal. . . . And stockings shrink, especially wool ones, so remember this when buying.

"Shoes for preschool children should have no heels, broad flexible soles, broad, round toes. Laced shoes are better than button ones, because they can be continually adjusted to a growing foot."

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Would you try to match toys for children near in age?

A. No; to do so encourages selfishness and quarreling. But if one child, for example, has a cart and the other a wagon, they naturally will be inclined to exchange toys and cooperate.

Love Without Music

by Helen Welshimer

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

AS SARAH MARKLEY asked Linda where Ronald was, her voice was so startled in its fright that it did not try to disguise the love which Sarah bore for Ronald.

Until now Linda had believed that Sarah had gone in gay pursuit of him because she could not have him. She had credited the girl with using audacity at first, and wistful resignation at the last.

But Sarah's voice was stripped of all synthetic qualities now. The man she loved was in danger and she wanted to help him. He might love her, he might not. That did not matter. All this Linda sensed.

Because she did, her voice was gentle as she answered. "Ronnie was taken to the police station, Sarah. It's a ghastly mistake, but everyone is being questioned, and it seems there was part of an hour when he wasn't at the theater this evening. He will get an alibi, of course. It's too impossible . . ."

It's too impossible that he should have tried to kill me so he could have you . . . that was what she was thinking, and she knew the words were in Sarah's mind, too.

Sarah spoke quickly. "He has an alibi. He was with me. In the alley back of the stage entrance, smoking his pipe."

"Oh-h-h! That's good. Then you can tell the police, can't you?"

"Of course. I'll go down right away. I wonder why he didn't mention it. I made him come out. He didn't want to."

Sarah hung up, but Linda did not go to bed. If Sarah really loved Ronald, then she became an even more formidable rival, for he would sense the reality in her part.

But Sarah was defenseless now. She had let the bars down, as dawn broke. She could not pretend to make love a gay pursuit any more.

Linda climbed into bed. The room was cool now and the sky was growing light. She was wide-eyed. She wondered how soon Ronald would be able to call. Almost in answer to her thoughts, her telephone rang again, and he spoke her name.

"Dearest, may I come up?" he asked. "I need some coffee."

"Of course you may. Hurry. By the way, has Sarah reached you?"

"No, what did she want?"

"She heard about everything and said she could establish an alibi for you."

"Sarah's all right. It's not needed, though. The doorman at the theater and two of the saxophone players did it. See you in a few minutes."

Caroline sat up and rubbed her eyes sleepily. "I'll get dressed quickly," she said. "Did I dream that Terry left two notes—or did he?"

"He did," Linda answered, slipping into a dark blue printed dress that was frilled with infinite minute tuckings and putting on navy sandals that matched. She might as well get ready for the office now, she decided.

By the time Ronald's taxicab stopped in front of the old red brick house she and Caroline had a table set by the balcony windows, with crisp yellow cloth and napkins, and cream colored plates and cups and saucers.

There were yellow roses in a low blue bowl and tall glasses of iced orange juice at the three places. The odor of coffee and frying bacon came from the kitchenette and Caroline was stirring up pop-overs.

"It's nearly half-past six," Linda said in amazement. "I haven't had any sleep at all."

Yet her eyes were as wide as though she had gone to bed at nine o'clock. Her body felt tired, though. She knew she would be glad when this day ended. She dreaded, too, to enter the office and sit down at the desk where Clarabell had been shot.

No one had been able to offer any clues as to the gun which had killed the girl. One bullet was lodged in her chest, and the other had entered her temple and come out. It had not been in the room. Apparently the murderer had picked it up and taken it away.

Waiting for Ronnie, Linda realized that the girl's body would be examined and the men would probe for the bullet. An identification of it would lead to the type of revolver from which it had been fired. Then the stores would be checked for past sales. She was glad she did not know how to shoot.

Down below a cab was stopping. Ronald got out, looked up, waved. He turned to assist someone. She recognized Sarah.

So Sarah had arrived just as Ronald was leaving, and out of kindness he had invited her. The silly, adorable nit-wit! Didn't he know that this was a special morning and Sarah had no part in it? Because she felt sorry, though, for any girl who loved Ronald and could not have him, she was gracious and hospitable to Sarah.

Sarah did not remove the thin black silk jacket she wore over her white silk frock or take off the silly, one-sided scrap of black straw that made her hat. She held out her hand instead.

"You win," she said to Linda. "And I apologize. It isn't something I do very often and I guess I do it badly. I asked Ronnie to let me come down for a minute, and now, good luck and goodby. Goodby, Ronnie."

Her smile was glowing, warm, shining, and her head was high. Her voice had not faltered. She turned and went toward the stairs. At the door she looked back, waved slightly.

Ronald gazed at her, his face perplexed. "What's the idea, Sarah? Sit down. The pop-overs look like pop-overs should look."

"Was this a grandstand gesture?" Caroline asked, her eyes a little serious. "It sounded genuine to me."

"It was real enough, I guess," Ronald said. "The coroner's investigation is to be at two o'clock and we all are to be there, Linda. Must you go to the office this morning?"

She nodded. "I'd rather. I have to face it some time. Mr. Bagley may want to talk to me."

As she went to the office in the taxicab which Ronald insisted on calling, she watched people buying newspapers at corner stands. She wondered what they would say about her. She asked Ronald, who was accompanying her, but he only shook his head.

"It will be a three-day wonder, and then it will die," he said. "And somehow the girl's real murderer will be found. Don't worry about it, Linda darling. Please!"

He took her hand and held it in his firm, hard, tanned ones until some of his courage flowed into her.

At the door of the building a curious crowd watched her. She was glad that the big white cartwheel of a hat that she had worn covered her face. She began to pull off her white gloves before she reached the elevator.

Joe, the operator of the night before, was running the car that she took.

"Been put back on day service again," he said. "Say, how do the papers find out so much so soon? All about that emerald you found in your room and Miss Nevins hating you and everything?"

The house party guests must have been interviewed and apparently some of them had talked.

The papers said little, though. Information was meager and scanty. The afternoon papers, which she received as she left the coroner's trial, had much more to tell. Most of them treated the story circumspectly. One, though, had dug into the triangle which connected her with Ronald and Sarah, and balanced it against the other more dangerous one in which she and Rob and Mina were featured.

One statement brought her to sudden swift attention.

Missing Doctor Believed Suicide

Johnstown, Pa., Man Disappears from Boat; Leaves Notes

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 1 (AP) — Despondent over ill health and other adversities, Dr. Alfonso N. Moufang, of 636 Park Ave., Johnstown, Pa., disappeared Wednesday from the Norfolk-bound Old Bay Line steamer, President Warfield, out of Baltimore, and a note found in his stateroom indicated that he had taken his own life.

Capt. R. S. Foster, master of the steamer, advised Detective Leon Nowitzky upon docking in Norfolk, two and a half hours behind schedule, that Dr. Moufang apparently had jumped overboard fro mthe stern of the gallery deck shortly after midnight. The vessel retraced its course in an effort to recover the body, he said.

A mysterious pistol shot was heard about the time of the disappearance and blood spots were discovered on the railing not far from where the doctor's bathrobe and slippers were found.

A note addressed to Capt. Foster, one of seven found in the missing man's stateroom, stated that Dr. Moufang "had for many years a well-established professional office in Johnstown. Consistent ill health," it continued, "accompanied by two severe accidents followed through by increasing adversities made it finally impossible for me to regain my balance and rehabilitate myself."

The note further stated that "constant illness and impossibility to find gainful employment completely exhausted my financial resources, and I had no other alternative nor choice but to end it all."

The other notes were addressed to Dr. F. L. Bower, Mrs. Nellie K. Lotz, and Emory Dodeon, all of Johnstown; Frank Frysinger, of York, Pa., and Millard Key, of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Moufang was last seen by a negro bellman who placed a chair on the aft gallery deck for him about midnight.

100,000 Cases of Flu In Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO, Aug. 1 (AP) — One hundred thousand cases of influenza, known locally as "monga," weer reported here in Puerto Rico, and the national guard was quarantined for the duration of its three-weeks' encampment.

Of the first 52,000 cases, 144 deaths were attributed by physicians to developing pneumonia.

Dr. Edwin H. Lennette of the Rockefeller Institute, and Dr. John H. Oliphant of the United States Health Service have been called in for consultation on the epidemic.

TODAY'S GARDENGRAPH

By DEAN HALLIDAY

(Distributed by Central Press Association)

From midsummer on it will be wise to maintain a watch for pesky white flies on heliotrope, nicotiana, hollyhocks and columbine. While these pests are considered to be only a greenhouse problem they often become a nuisance in the garden.

The white fly is a moth-like insect about one-sixteenth of an inch in length. It has four wings and is usually found on the under surface of a leaf as shown in the Garden-Graph. These flies suck the juices from leaves, causing them to turn yellow and die.

Since white flies are sucking insects they can be controlled by spraying infected plants with a nicotine solution. A good mixture consists of one teaspoonful of liquid nicotine to 1 gallon of water. Add one ounce of soap to the mixture to help spread the spray. Take pains to spray the undersides of the leaves. Repeat the spray in several days.

Root cuttings of coleus, begonias, geraniums and other plants needed for Winter's house plants can now be started in damp sand and kept shaded until rooted.

Suckers on granted plants such as lilacs, floweding almonds, Japanese cherries and garden roses should be removed as soon as they are discovered.

Attention Note

When one wishes to bring a business letter to a certain person's attention, write, "Attention of Mr. (or Mrs.)"—on the envelope, or, if the letter has been opened, on the same line as the salutation or beneath it to the right.

WIFE PRESERVERS

In cooking rice, you will find that if cooked in hard water it will not be as white as that cooked in soft water. If your household water is hard, therefore, add one teaspoon lemon juice, one-half teaspoon cream of tartar or one tablespoon vinegar to the water in which you cook the rice to insure snowy-whiteness.

Broad, Flexible, Shoes Are Best For Baby's Feet

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Tots and runabouts who must go barefoot for want of shoes are rarely flatfooted. They are in danger, of course, from nails, glass, even hookworm. I never got hookworm but I did have my feet punctured with nails, glass and the like when I was a boy. I ought to have good arches, I have.

Just as the thermometer is sometimes used in deciding whether it shall be socks or stockings for your young school child, so the snow on the Tuscarora Mountains back of the farm home where I grew up in Little Cove, Pennsylvania, told us in the spring how long to wear shoes. As soon as no snow could be seen shoes and stockings came off. There was no doubt or argument. We children went barefoot from choice. I don't know why, but I even plowed over stony ground barefoot in spite of my parents' insistance that I wear shoes. I complained that the shoes cramped my feet. And late in September I remember driving the cows on frosty mornings through the stubble field to warm my bare feet. I also learned the art of walking comfortably barefoot against stubbles. It could be done.

Footprint Baby

Now back to baby's feet. You should make footprints of your baby as soon as he begins to stand and later as he walks. On beginning to walk he steps in a relatively straight line. His heels touch the ground first and his toes grip the ground as he pushes forward.

Even when this child begins walking the arch of the foot does not show. The entire foot area shows in the footprint as it does in an older child or adult who has flat feet. Some over-anxious mothers suppose the normal child, therefore, is destined to be flat-footed. Yet the child, even at birth, has the arches but they are concealed by the thick pad of fat on the bottom of the foot. This fat pad serves as a support until the muscles and tendons of the leg and foot are more fully developed.

In that excellent little book, "Let's Talk About Your Baby," by H. Kent Tenney, Jr., M. D., published by the University of Minnesota, we read: "Many of the shoes sold for infants are far too shallow to allow free action of the toes and have soles so stiff that proper exercise of the arch is impossible. To my mind the ideal shoe provides protection against injury from sharp objects but allows, and even encourages, free action of all the foot muscles."

Proper Shoes

Now let me quote from that new and excellent book full of illustrative photographs, by the eminent Dr. Lois Hayden Meek (Your Child's Development and Guidance, 1940, Lippincott, pp. 29-30):

"To have well-formed, strong feet children should go barefooted as much as possible and as long as possible, except on hard pavements, provided there is no danger from hookworm or rusty metal. . . . And stockings shrink, especially wool ones, so remember this when buying.

"Shoes for preschool children should have no heels, broad flexible soles, broad, round toes. Laced shoes are better than button ones, because they can be continually adjusted to a growing foot."

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Would you try to match toys for children near in age?

A. No; to do so encourages selfishness and quarreling. But if one child, for example, has a cart and the other a wagon, they naturally will be inclined to exchange toys and cooperate.

Love Without Music

by Helen Welshimer

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

AS SARAH MARKLEY asked Linda where Ronald was, her voice was so startled in its fright that it did not try to disguise the love which Sarah bore for Ronald.

Until now Linda had believed that Sarah had gone in gay pursuit of him because she could not have him. She had credited the girl with using audacity at first, and wistful resignation at the last.

But Sarah's voice was stripped of all synthetic qualities now. The man she loved was in danger and she wanted to help him. He might love her, he might not. That did not matter. All this Linda sensed.

Because she did, her voice was gentle as she answered. "Ronnie was taken to the police station, Sarah. It's a ghastly mistake, but everyone is being questioned, and it seems there was part of an hour when he wasn't at the theater this evening. He will get an alibi, of course. It's too impossible . . ."

It's too impossible that he should have tried to kill me so he could have you . . . that was what she was thinking, and she knew the words were in Sarah's mind, too.

Sarah spoke quickly. "He has an alibi. He was with me. In the alley back of the stage entrance, smoking his pipe."

"Oh-h-h! That's good. Then you can tell the police, can't you?"

"Of course. I'll go down right away. I wonder why he didn't mention it. I made him come out. He didn't want to."

Sarah hung up, but Linda did not go to bed. If Sarah really loved Ronald, then she became an even more formidable rival, for he would sense the reality in her part.

But Sarah was defenseless now. She had let the bars down, as dawn broke. She could not pretend to make love a gay pursuit any more.

Linda climbed into bed. The room was cool now and the sky was growing light. She was wide-eyed. She wondered how soon Ronald would be able to call. Almost in answer to her thoughts, her telephone rang again, and he spoke her name.

"Dearest, may I come up?" he asked. "I need some coffee."

"Of course you may. Hurry. By the way, has Sarah reached you?"

"No, what did she want?"

"She heard about everything and said she could establish an alibi for you."

"Sarah's all right. It's not needed, though. The doorman at the theater and two of the saxophone players did it. See you in a few minutes."

Caroline sat up and rubbed her eyes sleepily. "I'll get dressed quickly," she said. "Did I dream that Terry left two notes—or did he?"

"He did," Linda answered, slipping into a dark blue printed dress that was frilled with infinite minute tuckings and putting on navy sandals that matched. She might as well get ready for the office now, she decided.

By the time Ronald's taxicab stopped in front of the old red brick house she and Caroline had a table set by the balcony windows, with crisp yellow cloth and napkins, and cream colored plates and cups and saucers.

There were yellow roses in a low blue bowl and tall glasses of iced orange juice at the three places. The odor of coffee and frying bacon came from the kitchenette and Caroline was stirring up pop-overs.

"It's nearly half-past six," Linda said in amazement. "I haven't had any sleep at all."

Yet her eyes were as wide as though she had gone to bed at nine o'clock. Her body felt tired, though. She knew she would be glad when this day ended. She dreaded, too, to enter the office and sit down at the desk where Clarabell had been shot.

No one had been able to offer any clues as to the gun which had killed the girl. One bullet was lodged in her chest, and the other had entered her temple and come out. It had not been in the room. Apparently the murderer had picked it up and taken it away.

Waiting for Ronnie, Linda realized that the girl's body would be examined and the men would probe for the bullet. An identification of it would lead to the type of revolver from which it had been fired. Then the stores would be checked for past sales. She was glad she did not know how to shoot.

Down below a cab was stopping. Ronald got out, looked up, waved. He turned to assist someone. She recognized Sarah.

So Sarah had arrived just as Ronald was leaving, and out of kindness he had invited her. The silly, adorable nit-wit! Didn't he know that this was a special morning and Sarah had no part in it? Because she felt sorry, though, for any girl who loved Ronald and could not have him, she was gracious and hospitable to Sarah.

Sarah did not remove the thin black silk jacket she wore over her white silk frock or take off the silly, one-sided scrap of black straw that made her hat. She held out her hand instead.

"You win," she said to Linda. "And I apologize. It isn't something I do very often and I guess I do it badly. I asked Ronnie to let me come down for a minute, and now, good luck and goodby. Goodby, Ronnie."

Her smile was glowing, warm, shining, and her head was high. Her voice had not faltered. She turned and went toward the stairs. At the door she looked back, waved slightly.

Ronald gazed at her, his face perplexed. "What's the idea, Sarah? Sit down. The pop-overs look like pop-overs should look."

Sarah didn't answer. She was going out of the door, down the stairway, and Linda heard her steps growing fainter and fainter.

"Was this a grandstand gesture?" Caroline asked, her eyes a little serious. "It sounded genuine to me."

"It was real enough, I guess," Ronald said. "The coroner's investigation is to be at two o'clock and we all are to be there, Linda. Must you go to the office this morning?"

She nodded. "I'd rather. I have to face it some time. Mr. Bagley may want to talk to me."

As she went to the office in the taxicab which Ronald insisted on calling, she watched people buying newspapers at corner stands. She wondered what they would say about her. She asked Ronald, who was accompanying her, but he only shook his head.

"It will be a three-day wonder, and then it will die," he said. "And somehow the girl's real murderer will be found. Don't worry about it, Linda darling. Please!"

He took her hand and held it in his firm, hard, tanned ones until some of his courage flowed into her.

At the door of the building a curious crowd watched her. She was glad that the big white cartwheel of a hat that she had worn covered her face. She began to pull off her white gloves before she reached the elevator.

Joe, the operator of the night before, was running the car that she took.

"Been put back on day service again," he said. "Say, how do the papers find out so much so soon? All about that emerald you found in your room and Miss Nevins hating you and everything?"

The house party guests must have been interviewed and apparently some of them had talked.

The papers said little, though. Information was meager and scanty. The afternoon papers, which she received as she left the coroner's trial, had much more to tell. Most of them treated the story circumspectly. One, though, had dug into the triangle which connected her with Ronald and Sarah, and balanced it against the other more dangerous one in which she and Rob and Mina were featured.

One statement brought her to sudden swift attention.

Missing Doctor Believed Suicide

Johnstown, Pa., Man Disappears from Boat; Leaves Notes

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 1 (AP) — Despondent over ill health and other adversities, Dr. Alfonso N. Moufang, of 636 Park Ave., Johnstown, Pa., disappeared Wednesday from the Norfolk-bound Old Bay Line steamer, President Warfield, out of Baltimore, and a note found in his stateroom indicated that he had taken his own life.

Capt. R. S. Foster, master of the steamer, advised Detective Leon Nowitzky upon docking in Norfolk, two and a half hours behind schedule, that Dr. Moufang apparently had jumped overboard fro mthe stern of the gallery deck shortly after midnight. The vessel retraced its course in an effort to recover the body, he said.

A mysterious pistol shot was heard about the time of the disappearance and blood spots were discovered on the railing not far from where the doctor's bathrobe and slippers were found.

A note addressed to Capt. Foster, one of seven found in the missing man's stateroom, stated that Dr. Moufang "had for many years a well-established professional office in Johnstown. Consistent ill health," it continued, "accompanied by two severe accidents followed through by increasing adversities made it finally impossible for me to regain my balance and rehabilitate myself."

The note further stated that "constant illness and impossibility to find gainful employment completely exhausted my financial resources, and I had no other alternative nor choice but to end it all."

The other notes were addressed to Dr. F. L. Bower, Mrs. Nellie K. Lotz, and Emory Dodeon, all of Johnstown; Frank Frysinger, of York, Pa., and Millard Key, of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Moufang was last seen by a negro bellman who placed a chair on the aft gallery deck for him about midnight.

100,000 Cases of Flu In Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO, Aug. 1 (AP) — One hundred thousand cases of influenza, known locally as "monga," weer reported here in Puerto Rico, and the national guard was quarantined for the duration of its three-weeks' encampment.

Of the first 52,000 cases, 144 deaths were attributed by physicians to developing pneumonia.

Dr. Edwin H. Lennette of the Rockefeller Institute, and Dr. John H. Oliphant of the United States Health Service have been called in for consultation on the epidemic.

'Why, Ann, How You've Changed!'

By ROBBIN COONS
AP Feature Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD — A statuesque brunette walked into a producer's office, where they were testing.

The producer gave instructions, then asked, "By the way, what's your name?"

"Ann Miller," she said, startled. A girl expects the man who gave her her first job to remember her name.

"Miller," mused the producer. "Hm-m-m. . . . What did you say? Did you say Ann Miller! Well, I'll be . . !"

The producer—Pandro S. Berman—wasn't the only one who didn't know little Annie when she came back after a triumphal whirl on Broadway in "George White's Scandals."

ANN MILLER
To Hollywood And Back

The harum-scarum girl was gone. In her place is an exotic beauty, with a new sophisticated hair-do, a new poise, a new ambition.

Ann got five studio bids the opening night of the "Scandals." (She had left Hollywood because the opportunities weren't coming her way.) She's working now at the studio which had her under contract before—for five times her old salary.

Ann got into pictures the first time from a San Francisco night club. She had a good start with Ginger Rogers in "Stage Door" and her comedy dance in "You Can't Take It With You" was a hit. Then came her role with the Marxes in "Room Service," and the jinx on the picture seemed to jinx her, too.

"So I went to New York, just for the experience," she says. "Now I really want to be a dramatic actress. If you're a dancer, your days as a big name—even if you get to be a big name—are few. As an actress, though, you can keep right on."

13 Indicted on Bribery Charges

CLEVELAND, Aug. 1 (AP) — The Cuyahoga county grand jury has indicted twelve officials of coal companies for bribery and a former Cleveland municipal combustion engineer for accepting bribes in connection with a $130,000 fleecing of the city in coal purchases from 1931 to 1937.

Those named in the indictment, charged with bribing John L. Abbott when he occupied the engineer's post, are:

A. L. Bringman, director of the Denison Coal & Supply Co.; Frank Costanzo, president of the Costanzo Coal Mining Co., of Wheeling, W. Va.; R. L. Berry, vice president of Costanzo; R. L. Crow, Cleveland representative for Costanzo; Ralph C. Harris, president of the Harris Coal Corp.;

Also Robert D. Cowan, district sales manager for the Hillman Coal & Coke Co.; William Achhammer of the Hillman Co.; D. N. Snetsinger, sales manager for the Pittsburgh & Ohio Coal Mining Co.; J. Z. Brady, vice president of Osage Coal Co.; E. G. Mathiot, former vice president of the Valley Camp Coal Co., and Howard B. Sakeld and H. J. Collins of the Tasa Coal Co.

PATTERN 9452

Tailored but soft . . . youthful but slenderizing . . . practical but light-hearted—in other words, here's your dress! Marian Martin has planned this becoming style so simply that with the Sew Chart's all-knowing guidance you'll snip, stitch and finish Pattern 9452 in record-time. The two front panels of the skirt give a tall-and-slim illusion. The bodice is full-cut, with darts at the shoulders and waistline to keep your silhouette trim. You may choose from three sleeve versions—long, short or cap style. The scalloped edges of the short sleeves and the collar have a feminine, gay effect, especially with the collar in fresh contrast.

Pattern 9452 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards 39 inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Order the latest Marian Martin Pattern Book of up-to-the-minute styles for mid-summer days . . . each one designed to make you look your prettiest. Clothes for working, playing, traveling, dancing, with accent on coolness. Romantic evening gowns, daytime sheers and cottons, action free sportsters, a lovely bridal gown and sunshine styles for the tiny tots . . . available in patterns that even a beginner can use with success. Order a copy of the book today. Book Fifteen cents. Pattern Fifteen cents, book and Pattern together, twenty-five cents.

'Why, Ann, How You've Changed!'

By ROBBIN COONS
AP Feature Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD — A statuesque brunette walked into a producer's office, where they were testing.

The producer gave instructions, then asked, "By the way, what's your name?"

"Ann Miller," she said, startled. A girl expects the man who gave her her first job to remember her name.

"Miller," mused the produced. "Hm-m-m. . . . What did you say? Did you say Ann Miller! Well, I'll be . . !"

The produced—Pandro S. Berman—wasn't the only one who didn't know little Annie when

ANN MILLER
To Hollywood And Back

she came back after a triumphal whirl on Broadway in "George White's Scandals."

The harum-scarum girl was gone. In her place is an exotic beauty, with a new sophisticated hair-do, a new poise, a new ambition.

Ann got five studio bids the opening night of the "Scandals." (She had left Hollywood because the opportuntities weren't coming her way.) She's working now at the studio which had her under contract before—for five times her old salary.

Ann got into pictures the first time from a San Francisco night club. She had a good start with Ginger Rogers in "Stage Door" and her comedy dance in "You Can't Take It With You" was a hit. Then came her role with the Marxes in "Room Service," and the jinx on the picture seemed to jinx her, too.

"So I went to New York, just for the experience," she says. "Now I really want to be a dramatic actress: If you're a dancer, your days as a big name—even if you get to be a big name—are few. As an actress, though, you can keep right on."

Daily Worker No Longer Communist

New York Labor Paper Passes into Hands of Three Women

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP) — The Daily Worker today will cease to be the official organ of the American Communist party when its ownership passes—with the blessing and best wishes of the party—to three women, two of them of distinguished colonial ancestry.

The new owners, Mrs. Ferdinanda W. Reed, Mrs. Caro Lloyd Strobell, and Mrs. Susan H. Woodruff, announced today that they had acquired the newspaper from the Comprodaily Publishing Co., Inc., and would begin publishing it tomorrow "as a medium of free expression in the interests of the working people of America."

At the same time, the National Committee of the Communist party in a statement signed by William Z. Foster, party chairman, and Earl R. Browder, general secretary, announced that it "heartedly approved of the transaction and pledged the new owners "whole hearted" party support.

As a result of the sale, the national committee said it did "not regard the Daily Worker as, and it in fact ceases to be, the official central organ of the Communist party.

The new owners announced the management and editorship would be in the hands of an executive board.

This board will be comprised of Louis F. Budenz, former editor of the Midwest People's Record of Chicago and convention president for the Communist party in 1938; Benjamin J. Davis, Jr., negro staff member of the old Daily Worker; and Howard G. Boldt, described only as a newspaperman "of proven ability."

EARN WINGS FOR U. S. DEFENSE

American Turned Back by Germans

VICHY, France, Aug. 1 (AP) — The American naval attache, Commander Roscoe H. Illenkoetter, was turned back today by Germans at Moulins when he tried to enter the occupied zone with a car loaded with mail for the United States embassy in Paris.

He was accompanied by Sergt. John Cook.

The German officer said no member of a diplomatic mission accredited to Vichy is permitted to go to Paris unless equipped with special credentials issued by German authorities.

A few remaining refugees were getting through into the occupied area but reports in Vichy said postal as well as telegraphic and telephonic communications were suspended.

Aged County Farm Couple Will Wed

Pair, 71, Will Culminate Romance after Two Years

HAMLIN, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP)—George Adkins and Mrs. Susanna Merritt, both 71, who have been "going together steady" ever since they were admitted to the Lincoln county farm for the aged three years ago, are going to culminate their romance Friday with a wedding, Millard F. Adkins, farm supervisor, disclosed here.

The ceremony, he said, is being arranged by the Lincoln county office of the department of public assistance, and the elderly couple plan to honeymoon in a one-room cottage on the farm.

"Uncle George," who has never married, and Mrs. Merritt, several years a widow, explained the courtship was "one of those things that just happen."

"Up to now I've always managed to get along by myself," the prospective bridegroom added.

Employes in the office of County Clerk J. M. Marcum chipped in for the marriage license, and a wedding reception, with a cake and cigars and all the trimmings, is being arranged by William Chafin of the DPA office.

Supervisor Adkins (no relation) said the couple had told him "we just wouldn't be satisfied if we couldn't get married."

"So I told them to go ahea.," he related. "They always sat up and talked so late at night the others couldn't sleep."

Medical Facilities To Be Organized As Preparedness Move

CHICAGO, Aug. 1 (AP)—The plan to have the nation's medical facilities organized and ready in event of war was extended to each state today with the naming of 50 chairmen to help direct the work.

The American Medical Association's national committee on medical preparedness, in announcing the names of state chairmen, said their duties would be to co-ordinate the activities of state, county and district medical societies and in other ways assist in the program.

One of the next steps, it said, will be the organization of county committees on medical preparedness.

The state chairman named in the A. M. A. journal's medical preparedness section included Dr. Harry V. Paryzek of Cleveland and Dr. Benjamin H. Swint of Charleston, W. Va.

EARN WINGS FOR U. S. DEFENSE

American Turned Back by Germans

VICHY, France, Aug. 1 (AP) — The American naval attache, Commander Roscoe H. Illenkoetter, was turned back today by Germans at Moulins when he tried to enter the occupied zone with a car loaded with mail for the United States embassy in Paris.

He was accompanied by Sergt. John Cook.

The German officer said no member of a diplomatic mission accredited to Vichy is permitted to go to Paris unless equipped with special credentials issued by German authorities.

A few remaining refugees were getting through into the occupied area but reports in Vichy said postal as well as telegraphic and telephonic communications were suspended.

Aged County Farm Couple Will Wed

Pair, 71, Will Culminate Romance after Two Years

HAMLIN, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP)—George Adkins and Mrs. Susanna Merritt, both 71, who have been "going together steady" ever since they were admitted to the Lincoln county farm for the aged three years ago, are going to culminate their romance Friday with a wedding, Millard F. Adkins, farm supervisor, disclosed here.

The ceremony, he said, is being arranged by the Lincoln county office of the department of public assistance, and the elderly couple plan to honeymoon in a one-room cottage on the farm.

"Uncle George," who has never married, and Mrs. Merritt, several years a widow, explained the courtship was "one of those things that just happen."

"Up to now I've always managed to get along by myself," the prospective bridegroom added.

Employes in the office of County Clerk J. M. Marcum chipped in for the marriage license, and a wedding reception, with a cake and cigars and all the trimmings, is being arranged by William Chafin of the DPA office.

Supervisor Adkins (no relation) said the couple had told him "we just wouldn't be satisfied if we couldn't get married."

"So I told them to go ahea.," he related. "They always sat up and talked so late at night the others couldn't sleep."

Medical Facilities To Be Organized As Preparedness Move

CHICAGO, Aug. 1 (AP)—The plan to have the nation's medical facilities organized and ready in event of war was extended to each state today with the naming of 50 chairmen to help direct the work.

The American Medical Association's national committee on medical preparedness, in announcing the names of state chairmen, said their duties would be to co-ordinate the activities of state, county and district medical societies and in other ways assist in the program.

One of the next steps, it said, will be the organization of county committees on medical preparedness.

The state chairman named in the A. M. A. journal's medical preparedness section included Dr. Harry V. Paryzek of Cleveland and Dr. Benjamin H. Swint of Charleston, W. Va.

Beigel To Continue As Member of State Veterans' Commission

Thomas F. Conlon, of Cumberland, who is a member of the Maryland Veterans' Commission, announced yesterday that Walter N. Beigel, Baltimore, has reconsidered his resignation as assistant state service officer and will continue in that position, much to the satisfaction of the other commission members. Mr. Beigel is well known in Cumberland, Conlon said.

Another appointment to the commission was that of Richard C. Manning, of Baltimore, as state service officer and executive. He succeeds the late Maj. Winfield B. Harward, of Baltimore.

Winners Announced In Photo Contest

The most historic award went to Gussie Rawlings for a picture of Baltimore street, in Cumberland taken in 1858.

There were many interesting entries in both departments.

One Birth Reported

A son was born at noon yesterday at Memorial hospital to Mr. and Mrs. G. Wenrich, of Cresaptown.

Cumberland Man Has Unusual Ear of Corn

S. R. Blacklin, 203 Pennsylvania avenue, has in his possession a freak ear of corn, it is a huge ear containing seven ears in one. It is of the common field corn variety and was grown in 1939 on Long Run farm in Ritchie county, W. Va. It was given Mr. Blacklin when he visited in Ritchie county a few months ago.

The stalk contains a rather large ear in the center of a cluster of six smaller ones, normal in all respects.

Local Boy Receives Degree from Strayer

Louis H. Sell, of Cumberland and Lester Weller, formerly of this city have received degrees from Stayer College in Washington, D. C.

Sell, received a bachelor of commercial science in business administration and is now employed by the Lincoln Service Corporation in Washington.

Weller was one of nine successful candidates in the Certified Public Accountant examinations in the District of Columbia recently.

Petition Filed Here To Repossess Land

Johns Hopkins University, represented by Attorneys William S. Jenkins and Walter C. Capper, yesterday docketed a petition in circuit court seeking to repossess two parcels of land in Cumberland now in the hands of Charles S. Dickinson.

Since the whereabouts of Dickinson is unknown, Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan ordered that advertisements be published notifying him that he was ordered to appear in court.

Johnson Will Make Two Appearances Here This Month

Walter Johnson, former "Big Train" of baseball and candidate for Congress on the Republican ticket, will definitely make two visits to Cumberland this month, Nelson W. Russler announced last night.

Johnson will attend Cumberland day at the fair Wednesday, August 14, and will be on hand at the Community Ball park August 18 for the game between the Colts and Frostburg.

Forum Lectures Will Be Held at Allegany High Auditorium

The Cumberland Community Forum lectures will be held during the 1940-41 season in Allegany High school's new auditorium beginning late in October, according to Thomas B. Finan, Jr., chairman of the Junior Association Forum committee.

Mr. Finan also said, following a meeting of the committee last night, that it has been definitelly decided to hold six lectures. The first will be in October of this year with one each month through and including March of 1941.

Contracts are being completed with the six speakers, but the committee declined to announce their names until the contracts are returned and dates agreed upon.

There will be no change in prices for the annual Forum subscription, Mr. Finan stated, despite the fact that the Junior Association is spending about twenty-five percent more money than is usually spent for Forum speakers here. This is done, he explained, because the calibre of the speakers in the highest and the program for the season will be well balanced and interesting as well as informative.

The committee met at Allegany Inn, where they were dinner guests of J. E. Fowler, manager of the Inn and a member of the committee.

Hampshire Raises $828 in Campaign For War Relief

Romney To Be Scene of Farm Security Administration Meeting

ROMNEY, W. Va., Aug. 1 — The Hampshire county chapter of the American Red Cross has just completed a successful drive for funds for emergency war relief.

With Attorney Ralph Haines as the chairman of the relief campaign, the local chapter has sent to national headquarters $828.78, collected from individuals, organizations and business concerns throughout the county. Hampshire county was one of the first counties to reach its doubled quota.

In Romney, Mrs. Ward W. Hibbs was chairman of the relief drive, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Cilley, Mrs. Brady Gunn, Mrs. C. O. Kackley, Mrs. J. B. Thompson, Mrs. S. R. Harris, Mrs. Mamie Kenney, Mrs. Harold Walker, Mrs. John Dailey, Mrs. Dan Harmison, Miss Jean Kittle, Miss Ruth Virginia Sanders, R. A. Gibson, Eugene Ailes, Miss Ruth Coffman, S. R. Harris, Miss Hannah Mary Cowgill and Mrs. E. B. Flanders.

There were community workers in each of the communities in the county.

Romney individuals, civic organizations and business concerns donated $434.44 of the grand total. The high school raised $35.26, the graded school, $10.20, Romney churches, $41.93, West Romney, $36.04, Alpine theater collections, $36.11, collection cups, $14.45, Hampshire Farm Bureau, $10, and the booth at School Pupils Day, $18.70. The remainder of the $828.78 was raised in county communities.

FSA Officials To Hold Meeting in Romney

The Farm Security Administration which serves the Eastern Panhandle counties of the state — Hampshire, Hardy, Morgan, Mineral, Grant, Pendleton, Jefferson and Berkeley — will hold a meeting at the court house in Romney Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, August 12, 13 and 14, Fred B. Price, Hampshire county supervisor states.

The meeting, says Mr. Price, will be devoted to the discussion of FSA problems and the program for the coming year. The tenant purchase program of the FSA will be the chief topic for discussion.

County supervisors, home management supervisors, state and district personnel and county committeemen will attend from each of the counties in the Eastern Panhandle.

Hope Seen for Heat Wave Abatement As Temperatures Drop in W. Va.

By The Associated Press

Temperatures in West Virginia dropped nearer the normal summer levels yesterday, indicating that the heat wave which took nineteen lives in two weeks might be abating.

Fourteen persons seeking relief from the blistering heat drowned during the period, while three dropped dead from additional strain on faulty hearts, and two were killed by lightning.

In Charleston, the unofficial maximum reading was only 87 degrees at 2:30 p. m., a 17-point rise from the level at 8 a. m.

In the capital, as in Huntington, there were breezes.

Meanwhile, from two points in the state there came reports that July brought extremes in rainfall—Charleston had 2.99 inches of precipitation, the lowest in twenty-nine years, and Bluefield's rainfall during the month of 10.11 inches was "the heaviest in many years."

In the Mercer county "air-conditioned city," O. C. Keeney, weather observer, said the rainfall to date in 1940 amounted to 32.23 inches, almost equal to the normal annuel precipitation of 36 inches.

Bluefield, however, made good on its Chamber of Commerce assertions that the temperature, even while the rest of the east sweltered in the heat wave, would not rise above 90 in Bluefield.

It missed that mark by a hairline.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Parkersburg reported the "abnormal warmth and high humidity" during the week ended July 30 aided farm vegetation.

Crope generally were reported as "fair to good" as farm work, mostly harvesting, went forward. The report said "a fine crop of hay" is being stacked.

Train Wreck Kills West Virginian Hurrying to Bedside of Daughter

Crash Near Akron also Claims Life of Young Charleston Girl

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP)—The Pennsylvania railroad train wreck near Akron, O., in which forty three persons died prevented one West Virginian from reaching his daughter's bedside and turned a 15-year-old girl's visit to her aunt into a fatal trip.

Both West Virginians were listed among the dead in the year's second major train disaster.

Mrs. Dave Simpson of Charleston, mother of Delores Simpson, was asked by Lieutenant Edgar C. Bourne today to call at the city police detective bureau.

She went down and was informed that Charleston officers had checked and verified a report from the sheriff's office at Akron that a Charleston girl was among the wreck victims.

It was Delores.

At McMechen, 20-year-old Nellie Mae Schmitz, whom surgeons had prepared for an appendicitis operation, was kept ignorant of the wreck or her father's whereabouts.

William Schmitz, 47, of Wheeling, World War veteran and Baltimore and Ohio official who was hurrying to his daughter's bedside, took the train that crashed and was killed.

Delores Simpson was a junior high school student who had been visiting her mother's sister in Cleveland.

11 Polio Cases Are Reported In Huntington

Health Officer Asks Sunday Schools and Playgrounds To Close

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP)—Reporting eleven cases of infantile paralysis in Huntington, Dr. W. W. Strange, city health officer, tonight asked the city and churches to close all playgrounds and Sunday schools to prevent the spread of the disease.

Dr. Strange emphasized there was no epidemic, but said the situation was serious enough to warrant closing of the Sunday school and playgrounds and warned parents to keep their children away from crowds.

"Four new cases have been reported in the past four days," he said, adding that eight cases were under quarantine in the city and others in the county. Three cases, he said, "are past the infectious stage."

Claro Fizer, WPA recreational director, and members of the City Park Commission, said WPA and municipal playgrounds would be closed at once. Dr. P. B. Taylor, president of the Huntington Ministerial Association, said the churches were ready to cooperate by closing the Sunday schools.

Man Wanted in Stabbing, Fights Extradition

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP)—Peter Cline Buffington III, held at Phoenix, Ariz., is fighting extradition to West Virginia to answer an indictment charging him with stabbing a Huntington furniture dealer, Prosecutor E. E. Winters Jr. said today.

Buffington, grandson of Huntington's first mayor, was arrested last week by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents.

Miss Betty Schneider

Miss Betty Schneider Named to Teaching Post at Catonsville

FROSTBURG, Aug. 1—Miss Betty Schneider, a 1940 graduate of State Teachers College, was notified today of her appointment to a teaching position at Catonsville, Baltimore county, effective in September. She is a daughter o fMr. and Mrs. Alvin Schneider, 158 Maple street, and was one of a small group of students recommended by the college faculty for inclusion in "Who's Who Among College Students."

Miss Schneider was vice-president of the Women's Athletic Association of the college in 1937-38 and president in 1938-39; treasurer of the sophomore class, an attendant to the May Queen and chosen by the student as the queen of the Winter Carnival in 1940. She was active in athletics, taking special interest in basketball. She was also a member of the Nemacolin staff and a popular member of the Phi Omicrom Delta sorority.

Miss Schneider was also active in community life and Reformed church.

Man Accused of Selling Bonds on Non-Existent Buildings Faces Trial

FAYETTEVILLE, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP) — Special Judge Frank Haman issued a capias today for the arrest of Fred V. Person when Person failed to appear in court to answer indictments charging three counts of fraudulent bond sales.

Judge Haman, from Marion county, denied a motion of Defense Attorney F. G. Musgrave for continuance on the ground Person was ill in a Washington hospital, and declared forfeited the defendant's bond of $2,500.

Assistant Prosecutor R. J. Thrift and Deputy Sheriff Virgil Lyons left for Washington to return Person, and Judge Haman reset the case for Friday at 1 o'clock.

Deputy Securities Commissioner Robert F. Brown said earlier in the week at Charleston that charges that Person sold bonds to West Virginians on buildings that did not exist were brought in Fayette county after the chief witness in a case in Mason county had died.

Brown explained the action was taken after Person had lost a one-year fight against extradition, after serving a term in Leavenworth prison for using the mails to defraud.

Population of Oakland Increased Only Five, Census Figures Show

OAKLAND, Aug. 1 — The population of Oakland, as shown by preliminary census returns taken as of April 1, 1940, is 1,588 as compared with 1,583 on April 1, 1930, an increase of only five. The figures are preliminary and subject to correction.

This announcement came as a surprise to citizens here who felt that the increased population in this area in recent years would show up in the census returns.

However, it was pointed out that ten years ago, in taking the town's census, the enumerators included all the outlying homes that are considered in Oakland but are in reality outside the corporation limits. There are at least fifty families just outside the corporation limits that would increase the population figures to around 1,900.

Garrett county itself showed an increase of 1982, and all other towns in the county have likewise showed increases over the 1930 figures.

Unique Parade Tonight

Preparations for the unique parade of children ten years of age and under with their toy wagons, tricycles, bicycles and scooters, have continued during the week, and everything appears now to be in readiness for the event which is scheduled to take place tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock.

Homer Griffith Buys Frostburg Bank Building

First National Structure To Be Converted into Apartments

FROSTBURG, Aug. 1—Homer C. Griffith announced today that he and his wife had purchased the First National Bank building, corner of Main street and Broadway.

The building, considered one of the most valuable in the community, was once owned by the late Peter Payne, one of Frostburg's picturesque merchants of a half-century ago. It was later purchased by the First National Bank, whose directors had the brick facing of the structure veneered with marble in 1911. The first floor was used by the bank until it went into receivership. The second floor was used as offices, and the third floor, as a lodge room, being the home of the Masonic fraternity for over a quarter of a century.

Mr. Griffith stated today that the second floor will be remodeled into apartments. He said no definite plans had been made for the use of the main floor.

Frostburg Briefs

Hope Seen for Heat Wave Abatement As Temperatures Drop in W. Va.

By The Associated Press

Temperatures in West Virginia dropped nearer the normal summer levels yesterday, indicating that the heat wave which took nineteen lives in two weeks might be abating.

Fourteen persons seeking relief from the blistering heat drowned during the period, while three dropped dead from additional strain on faulty hearts, and two were killed by lightning.

In Charleston, the unofficial maximum reading was only 87 degrees at 2:30 p. m., a 17-point rise from the level at 8 a. m.

In the capital, as in Huntington, there were breezes.

Meanwhile, from two points in the state there came reports that July brought extremes in rainfall — Charleston had 2.99 inches of precipitation, the lowest in twenty-nine years, and Bluefield's rainfall during the month of 10.11 inches was "the heaviest in many years."

In the Mercer county "air-conditioned city," O. C. Keeney, weather observer, said the rainfall to date in 1940 amounted to 32.23 inches, almost equal to the normal annuel precipitation of 36 inches.

Bluefield, however, made good on its Chamber of Commerce assertions that the temperature, even while the rest of the east sweltered in the heat wave, would not rise above 90 in Bluefield.

It missed that mark by a hairline.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Parkersburg reported the "abnormal warmth and high humidity" during the week ended July 30 aided farm vegetation.

Crope generally were reported as "fair to good" as farm work, mostly harvesting, went forward. The report said "a fine crop of hay" is being stacked.

Train Wreck Kills West Virginian Hurrying to Bedside of Daughter

Crash Near Akron also Claims Life of Young Charleston Girl

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP)—The Pennsylvania railroad train wreck near Akron, O., in which forty three persons died prevented one West Virginian from reaching his daughter's bedside and turned a 15-year-old girl's visit to her aunt into a fatal trip.

Both West Virginians were listed among the dead in the year's second major train disaster.

Mrs. Dave Simpson of Charleston, mother of Delores Simpson, was asked by Lieutenant Edgar C. Bourne today to call at the city police detective bureau.

She went down and was informed that Charleston officers had checked and verified a report from the sheriff's office at Akron that a Charleston girl was among the wreck victims.

It was Delores.

At McMechen, 20-year-old Nellie Mae Schmitz, whom surgeons had prepared for an appendicitis operation, was kept ignorant of the wreck or her father's whereabouts.

William Schmitz, 47, of Wheeling, World War veteran and Baltimore and Ohio official who was hurrying to his daughter's bedside, took the train that crashed and was killed.

Delores Simpson was a junior high school student who had been visiting her mother's sister in Cleveland.

11 Polio Cases Are Reported In Huntington

Health Officer Asks Sunday Schools and Playgrounds To Close

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP)—Reporting eleven cases of infantile paralysis in Huntington, Dr. W. W. Strange, city health officer, tonight asked the city and churches to close all playgrounds and Sunday schools to prevent the spread of the disease.

Dr. Strange emphasized there was no epidemic, but said the situation was serious enough to warrant closing of the Sunday school and playgrounds and warned parents to keep their children away from crowds.

"Four new cases have been reported in the past four days," he said, adding that eight cases were under quarantine in the city and others in the county. Three cases, he said, "are past the infectious stage."

Claro Fizer, WPA recreational director, and members of the City Park Commission, said WPA and municipal playgrounds would be closed at once. Dr. P. B. Taylor, president of the Huntington Ministerial Association, said the churches were ready to cooperate by closing the Sunday schools.

Man Wanted in Stabbing, Fights Extradition

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP)—Peter Cline Buffington III, held at Phoenix, Ariz., is fighting extradition to West Virginia to answer an indictment charging him with stabbing a Huntington furniture dealer, Prosecutor E. E. Winters Jr. said today.

Miss Schneider was vice-president of the Women's Athletic Association of the college in 1937-38 and president in 1938-39; treasurer of the sophomore class, an attendant to the May Queen and chosen by the student as the queen of the Winter Carnival in 1940. She was active in athletics, taking special interest in basketball. She was also a member of the Nemacolin staff and a popular member of the Phi Omicrom Delta sorority.

Miss Schneider was also active in community life and Reformed church.

Man Accused of Selling Bonds on Non-Existent Buildings Faces Trial

FAYETTEVILLE, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP) — Special Judge Frank Haman issued a capias today for the arrest of Fred V. Person when Person failed to appear in court to answer indictments charging three counts of fraudulent bond sales.

Judge Haman, from Marion county, denied a motion of Defense Attorney F. G. Musgrave for continuance on the ground Person was ill in a Washington hospital, and declared forfeited the defendant's bond of $2,500.

Assistant Prosecutor R. J. Thrift and Deputy Sheriff Virgil Lyons left for Washington to return Person, and Judge Haman reset the case for Friday at 1 o'clock.

Deputy Securities Commissioner Robert F. Brown said earlier in the week at Charleston that charges that Person sold bonds to West Virginians on buildings that did not exist were brought in Fayette county after the chief witness in a case in Mason county had died.

Brown explained the action was taken after Person had lost a one-year fight against extradition, after serving a term in Leavenworth prison for using the mails to defraud.

Population of Oakland Increased Only Five, Census Figures Show

OAKLAND, Aug. 1 — The population of Oakland, as shown by preliminary census returns taken as of April 1, 1940, is 1,588 as compared with 1,583 on April 1, 1930, an increase of only five. The figures are preliminary and subject to correction.

This announcement came as a surprise to citizens here who felt that the increased population in this area in recent years would show up in the census returns.

However, it was pointed out that ten years ago, in taking the town's census, the enumerators included all the outlying homes that are considered in Oakland but are in reality outside the corporation limits. There are at least fifty families just outside the corporation limits that would increase the population figures to around 1,900.

Garrett county itself showed an increase of 1982, and all other towns in the county have likewise showed increases over the 1930 figures.

Homer Griffith Buys Frostburg Bank Building

First National Structure To Be Converted into Apartments

FROSTBURG, Aug. 1—Homer C. Griffith announced today that he and his wife had purchased the First National Bank building, corner of Main street and Broadway.

The building, considered one of the most valuable in the community, was once owned by the late Peter Payne, one of Frostburg's picturesque merchants of a half-century ago. It was later purchased by the First National Bank, whose directors had the brick facing of the structure veneered with marble in 1911. The first floor was used by the bank until it went into receivership. The second floor was used as offices, and the third floor, as a lodge room, being the home of the Masonic fraternity for over a quarter of a century.

Mr. Griffith stated today that the second floor will be remodeled into apartments. He said no definite plans had been made for the use of the main floor.

Former License Clerk Guilty of Conspiracy

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP)—Joseph K. Thome, 25, former Bureau of Receipts clerk, pleaded guilty today to conspiracy in an alleged illegal perforation of auto license applications, and was sentenced to one day's imprisonment.

At the same time, it was learned eleven other persons had been presented by the grand jury yesterday on tax irregularity charges, including Robert J. Peters, a chief clerk in the Bureau of Receipts.

Thome asserted in court today that the first time he had perforated applications before taxes were paid by the applicants was when Peters instructed him to do so.

Prosecuting attorneys said afterwards that Peters was among those presented yesterday. The names of the other ten were brought to light when they posted bail today. All but one were said to be citizens and taxpayers, not public employes.

Thome, held in jail since March because he could not post bond, had asked for a speedy trial because he was ill.

CLEARED BY SISTER

Lucy Uchansky, who worked 18 months to clear her brother Max of a holdup charge is embraced by him after his release from a ten-to-thirty year sentence. District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey asked the New York judge who sentenced Max to set aside the verdict and the judge complied. Others connected with the holdup had declared Max innocent, but a jury had found otherwise.

Russian Woman and American Held under British Defense Act

LONDON, Aug. 1 (AP) —A beautiful Russian dressmaker said to have had family connections with a high officer in the Czarist regime was arraigned and remanded today with Tyler Kent, 29, former U. S. embassy clerk here, on charges under the official secrets act.

The woman, Anna Wolkoff, also was charged under the defense act. The specific offenses were not disclosed; the hearing was secret.

Kent was born in Manchuria of American parents. His father, A. K. P. Kent, is dead; his mother lives in the United States. He attended St. Albans school in Washington and Princeton University.

Fattens Buck, but Another Shoots It

HAYWARD, Calif., Aug. 1. (AP)—Night and morning for eight months, Sheriff's Deputy O. W. Ebright watched a three-point buck fatten himself on the officer's ranch in nearby Niles Canyon. He could hardly wait for deer season to open.

Last night Deputy Ebright set his alarm clock at an early hour, and oiled up his rifle for the season's opening today.

The alarm failed to go off; Deputy Ebright was almost late for work and his first duty was to register the kill of Joe Perni of San Leandro.

It was Ebright's buck.

Oldest Resident of Grantsville Marks Ninety-fourth Birthday

Mrs. Lucretia Messersmith Is Honored by Daughter at Party

GRANTSVILLE, Aug. 1 — The honored guest at a dinner party today was Mrs. Lucretia Messersmith, the oldest resident of Grantsville, who passed her ninety-fourth milestone today. The party was arranged by her only daughter, Mrs. Joseph Livengood, with whom she makes her home. Numerous greeting cards, flowers and other gifts continued to arrive for her throughout the day.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Messersmith and James Evans, Lester, Pa.; James W. Messersmith, Hagerstown; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Paul, Frostburg; Mr. and Mrs. David Paul and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Loschel. Other relatives and friends were also expected today.

Mrs. Messersmith was born at Towanda, Pa., August 1, 1846. She and her family moved to Jennings in 1900, since which time she contiuously made her home in this section. For the past fourteen years she has lived in Grantsville.

Until recent months, Mrs. Messersmith's hobby has been making patchwork quilts. Her fingers have become less flexible of late, however, and she has been forced to give up this pleasure. She sewed and now reads without glasses, and is in every way unusually active, both mentally and physically.

Mrs. Messersmith was the mother or six children, five of whom are now living. They are Charles H. Messersmith, Lester, Pa.; J. W. and J. L. Messersmith, Hagerstown; David H. Messersmith, Marathon, N. Y.; and Mrs. Joseph Livengood, Grantsville. She has nineteen grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren.

Revival To Close

Revival services which have been conducted at the Maple Grove Church of the Brethren during the past week will be concluded Sunday evening. The Rev. Howard Whitacre, Flintstone, who is in charge, is an interesting speaker, and all the meetings have been well attended. For his topic tomorrow (Friday) evening he has chosen "Regeneration."

W. Va. Highway Accidents Kill 25 in July

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP)—Highway accidents killed twenty-five persons in West Virginia during July, the State Police Bureau of Accident Prevention reported today, as compared with thirty-nine for June and forty-one for May — the year's high month.

Captain H. N. Rexroad attributed the decline to "better compliance with the traffic laws of West Virginia."

He said through highway patrols have been maintained all summer and esserted that no special enforcement drive had been started during the month.

The July, 1940, death toll was still well above that of eighteen recorder for July, 1939, but below the thirty-three for July, 1938. The total for the first seven months was 197, compared with 160 for last year's comparable period.

Riggs and Kovacs Meet Again Today

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP)—While Bobby Riggs, for a change, won a straight-set victory in the quarter-final round of the Meadow Club invitation tennis tournament, Frank Kovacs, of Oakland, Cal., borrowed a leaf from the national champion's book and staved off six match points before defeating George Toley of Los Angeles, 4-6, 14-12, 6-1.

On a half-dozen occasions in the second set, Toley needed only one point to upset his follow Californian, and each time Kovacs managed to beat him off. Toley folded completely in the final set and Kovacs quickly won the right to meet Riggs in the semi-final round tomorrow.

Riggs, a bit chastened after his narrow escape yesterday against Eddie Alloo, never allowed the situation to get out of hand today as he eliminated big Hank Prusoff of Seattle, 6-4, 8-6.

The lower-bracket semi-final berths were taken by Edwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., and Don McNeill of Oklahoma City. Cooke turned back young Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Cal., 6-4, 6-4, while McNeill ousted Frank Guernsey of Orlando, Fla., 6-3, 6-2.

McNeill, who came up at the beginning of the tournament with an attack of poison oak, showed evidence of having regained his best form as he peppered Guernsey's court with a diversified attack.

Riggs and Frank Froehling of Chicago, were eliminated in the quarter-final round of the doubles by Jack Kramer of Los Angeles and Schroeder, 12-10, 6-1. Bitsy Grant of Atlanta and Hal Surface of Kansas City defeated Bill Canning of Berkeley, Cal., and Bill Gillespie of Atlanta, 7-5, 6-3.

Baseball Banter

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP) — Everything happens to the Boston Bees. . . .That stolen base by Johnny Mize of the St. Louis Cardinals against them yesterday was his first in three years. . . .The latest release from Judge Landis revealed for the first time that Lou Chiozza is one of the New York Giants' coaches. . . .This is the latest dodge the clubs have for keeping injured players on the payroll when they aren't able for active duty. . . .The Dodgers are doing the same for Van Lingle Mungo, giving Brooklyn the fancy total of four coaches.

—o—

When the Dodgers bought rookie Ed Head, strikeout artist from Elmira, scribe Ed Murphy of the New York Sun bet catcher Al Lopez of the Pirates a quarter that he would fan him the first time they met. . .Head worked the first two innings of a night game Tuesday and the only man he struck out was—you guessed it—Lopez. . . Then the Pittsburgh catcher hit a home run off Vito Tamulis his next time up.

—o—

The only thing that is holding up completion of the Yankee sale is the multitude of accounting details, which may be disposed of within a week. . .Jim Farley won't have a nickel of his own money in the deal. . . .Cincinnati writers report their town is making this year's pennant parade of the Reds calmly in contrast to the excitement of 1939. . . No effor will be made to enlarge Crosley Field. . .Detroit also is a bit skeptical about its Tigers.

—o—

Alex Kampouris, whom the Giants sent to Newark in the deal for Nick Witek last winter, is about to become the Bears' leading home run hitter of all time and is putting on a great fielding show at second base, starting more double plays than any other player in the International League. . .Head, the Brooklyn rookie mentioned above, was a lefthanded sensation at the age of 15 in high school. . .Then he broke his arm in an auto accident and came up to the big leagues as righthander. . .how's that.

—o—

Red Rolfe of the Yankees has gone to bat 22 times without a hit. . . and here's the tipoff in the floundering of the world champions: They have lost nine out of ten extra-inning games and dropped 18 of the 26 games that have been decided by one run.

Union Grove Girl Receives Honor

Virginia Slonaker, 17, of Union Grove, has been awarded the Land Ladies' scholarship to the Boys and Girls Week program at College Park, Aug. 5-10.

The award is made yearly for outstanding 4-H club work by the Land Ladies, a group of women who are the wives of men who work in one section of the United States Department of Agriculture. Since their husbands work on projects that deal with the land, they call themselves the "Land Ladies."

Recipients of the scholarship in previous years were Anna Mae Cook, of Ellerslie, in 1936; Pauline House, Pleasant Grove, 1937; Jessie Bryant, Piney Grove, 1938; and Eloise Wilson, Union Grove, 1939.

Former License Clerk Guilty of Conspiracy

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP)—Joseph K. Thome, 25, former Bureau of Receipts clerk, pleaded guilty today to conspiracy in an alleged illegal perforation of auto license applications, and was sentenced to one day's imprisonment.

At the same time, it was learned eleven other persons had been presented by the grand jury yesterday on tax irregularity charges, including Robert J. Peters, a chief clerk in the Bureau of Receipts.

Thome asserted in court today that the first time he had perforated applications before taxes were paid by the applicants was when Peters instructed him to do so.

Prosecuting attorneys said afterwards that Peters was among those presented yesterday. The names of the other ten were brought to light when they posted bail today. All but one were said to be citizens and taxpayers, not public employes.

Thome, held in jail since March because he could not post bond, had asked for a speedy trial because he was ill.

CLEARED BY SISTER

Lucy Uchansky, who worked 18 months to clear her brother Max of a holdup charge is embraced by him after his release from a ten-to-thirty year sentence. District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey asked the New York judge who sentenced Max to set aside the verdict and the judge complied. Others connected with the holdup had declared Max innocent, but a jury had found otherwise.

Russian Woman and American Held under British Defense Act

LONDON, Aug. 1 (AP) —A beautiful Russian dressmaker said to have had family connections with a high officer in the Czarist regime was arraigned and remanded today with Tyler Kent, 29, former U. S. embassy clerk here, on charges under the official secrets act.

The woman, Anna Wolkoff, also was charged under the defense act. The specific offenses were not disclosed; the hearing was secret.

Kent was born in Manchuria of American parents. His father, A. F. P. Kent, is dead; his mother lives in the United States. He attended St. Albans school in Washington and Princeton University.

Fattens Buck, but Another Shoots It

HAYWARD, Calif., Aug. 1. (AP)—Night and morning for eight months, Sheriff's Deputy O. W. Ebright watched a three-point buck fatten himself on the officer's ranch in nearby Niles Canyon. He could hardly wait for deer season to open.

Last night Deputy Ebright set his alarm clock at an early hour, and oiled up his rifle for the season's opening today.

The alarm failed to go off; Deputy Ebright was almost late for work and his first duty was to register the kill of Joe Perni of San Leandro.

Oldest Resident of Grantsville Marks Ninety-fourth Birthday

Mrs. Lucretia Messersmith Is Honored by Daughter at Party

GRANTSVILLE, Aug. 1 — The honored guest at a dinner party today was Mrs. Lucretia Messersmith, the oldest resident of Grantsville, who passed her ninety-fourth milestone today. The party was arranged by her only daughter, Mrs. Joseph Livengood, with whom she makes her home. Numerous greeting cards, flowers and other gifts continued to arrive for her throughout the day.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Messersmith and James Evans, Lester, Pa.; James W. Messersmith, Hagerstown; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Paul, Frostburg; Mr. and Mrs. David Paul and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Loschel. Other relatives and friends were also expected today.

Mrs. Messersmith was born at Towanda, Pa., August 1, 1846. She and her family moved to Jennings in 1900, since which time she contiuously made her home in this section. For the past fourteen years she has lived in Grantsville.

Until recent months, Mrs. Messersmith's hobby has been making patchwork quilts. Her fingers have become less flexible of late, however, and she has been forced to give up this pleasure. She sewed and now reads without glasses, and is in every way unusually active, both mentally and physically.

Mrs. Messersmith was the mother or six children, five of whom are now living. They are Charles H. Messersmith, Lester, Pa.; J. W. and J. L. Messersmith, Hagerstown; David H. Messersmith, Marathon, N. Y.; and Mrs. Joseph Livengood, Grantsville. She has nineteen grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren.

Revival To Close

Revival services which have been conducted at the Maple Grove Church of the Brethren during the past week will be concluded Sunday evening. The Rev. Howard Whitacre, Flintstone, who is in charge, is an interesting speaker, and all the meetings have been well attended. For his topic tomorrow (Friday) evening he has chosen "Regeneration."

Grantsville Personals

The Rev. and Mrs. Roy L. Kinsinger and children are spending a few days at Martinsburg, Pa., where Mr. Kinsinger is attending the annual meeting of the Southwestern Pennsylvania district of the Mennonite Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Getty returned yesterday from Washington, where they spent several weeks as guests of Mr. Getty's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Getty.

Mrs. Lena S. Bender has gone to Deep Creek Lake, where she will spend the remainder of the week as the guest of Mrs. Harvey Gortner.

Mrs. Birdie Warnick, Marvin Warnick and Mrs. Beachy left yesterday for Akron, O., to be gone several days. Mrs. Warnick is postmistress at Jennings, and her daughter, Mrs. Charles Main, Essex, came to look after the office for her during her absence.

Mrs. Jeannette Statleh took her daughter, Hope, and Alta Nicklow, Friendsville, and Ruth Houck, Grantsville, to the Reeves Clinic at Westernport, where they will each undergo tonsil operations.

After spending the past two weeks here visiting their mother, Mrs. Etta V. Engle, at Engilewood, Mr. and Mrs. William Nielson and son, Billy, Hartford, Conn., Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Willets and daughters, Joan and Joyce, Bloomington, N. J., have returned to their homes. Miss Mary Clark and Harold DuPont, who were also guests, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Nielson to Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Taylor, Mrs. Fred Livengood and Mrs. Marshall Beachy went to Connellsville today for a brief visit with Mrs. John Collins.

W. Va. Highway Accidents Kill 25 in July

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP)—Highway accidents killed twenty-five persons in West Virginia during July, the State Police Bureau of Accident Prevention reported today, as compared with thirty-nine for June and forty-one for May — the year's high month.

Captain H. N. Rexroad attributed the decline to "better compliance with the traffic laws of West Virginia."

He said through highway patrols have been maintained all summer and esserted that no special enforcement drive had been started during the month.

The July, 1940, death toll was still well above that of eighteen recorder for July, 1939, but below the thirty-three for July, 1938. The total for the first seven months was 197, compared with 160 for last year's comparable period.

Riggs and Kovacs Meet Again Today

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP)—While Bobby Riggs, for a change, won a straight-set victory in the quarter-final round of the Meadow Club invitation tennis tournament, Frank Kovacs, of Oakland, Cal., borrowed a leaf from the national champion's book and staved off six match points before defeating George Toley of Los Angeles, 4-6, 14-12, 6-1.

On a half-dozen occasions in the second set, Toley needed only one point to upset his follow Colifornian, and each time Kovacs managed to beat him off. Toley folded completely in the final set and Kovacs quickly won the right to meet Riggs in the semi-final round tomorrow.

Riggs, a bit chastened after his narrow escape yesterday against Eddie Alloo, never allowed the situation to get out of hand today as he eliminated big Hank Prusoff of Seattle, 6-4, 8-6.

The lower-bracket semi-final berths were taken by Edwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., and Don McNeill of Oklahoma City. Cooke turned back young Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Cal., 6-4, 6-4, while McNeill ousted Frank Guernsey of Orlando, Fla., 6-3, 6-2.

McNeill, who came up at the beginning of the tournament with an attack of poison oak, showed evidence of having regained his best form as he peppered Guernsey's court with a diversified attack.

Riggs and Frank Froehling of Chicago, were eliminated in the quarter-final round of the doubles by Jack Kramer of Los Angeles and Schroeder, 12-10, 6-1. Bitsy Grant of Atlanta and Hal Surface of Kansas City defeated Bill Canning of Berkeley, Cal., and Bill Gillespie of Atlanta, 7-5, 6-3.

Baseball Banter

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP) — Everything happens to the Boston Bees . . . .That stolen base by Johnny Mize of the St. Louis Cardinals against them yesterday was his first in three years. . . .The latest release from Judge Landis revealed for the first time that Lou Chiozza is one of the New York Giants' coaches. . .This is the latest dodge the clubs have for keeping injured players on the payroll when they aren't able for active duty. . .The Dodgers are doing the same for Van Lingle Mungo, giving Brooklyn the fancy total of four coaches.

—o—

When the Dodgers bought rookie Ed Head, strikeout artist from Elmira, scribe Ed Murphy of the New York Sun bet catcher Al Lopez of the Pirates a quarter that he would fan him the first time they met. . .Head worked the first two innings of a night game Tuesday and the only man he struck out was—you guessed it—Lopez. . . Then the Pittsburgh catcher hit a home run off Vito Tamulis his next time up.

—o—

The only thing that is holding up completion of the Yankee sale is the multitude of accounting details, which may be disposed of within a week. . .Jim Farley won't have a nickel of his own money in the deal . . .Cincinnati writers report their town is making this year's pennant parade of the Reds calmly in contrast to the excitement of 1939. . . No effor will be made to enlarge Crosley Field. . .Detroit also is a bit skeptical about its Tigers.

—o—

Alex Kampouris, whom the Giants sent to Newark in the deal for Nick Witek last winter, is about to become the Bears' leading home run hitter of all time and is putting on a great fielding show at second base, starting more double plays than any other player in the International League. . .Head, the Brooklyn rookie mentioned above, was a lefthanded sensation at the age of 15 in high school. . .Then he broke his arm in an auto accident and came up to the big leagues as righthander. . .how's that.

—o—

Red Rolfe of the Yankees has gone to bat 22 times without a hit. . . and here's the tipoff in the floundering of the world champions: They have lost nine out of ten extra-inning games and dropped 18 of the 26 games that have been decided by one run.

Union Grove Girl Receives Honor

Virginia Sionaker, 17, of Union Grove, has been awarded the Land Ladies' scholarship to the Boys and Girls Week program at College Park, Aug. 5-10.

The award is made yearly for outstanding 4-H club work by the Land Ladies, a group of women who are the wives of men who work in one section of the United States Department of Agriculture. Since their husbands work on projects that deal with the land, they call themselves the "Land Ladies."

Recipients of the scholarship in previous years were Anna Mae Cook, of Ellerslie, in 1936; Pauline House, Pleasant Grove, 1937; Jessie Bryant, Piney Grove, 1938; and Eloise Wilson, Union Grove, 1939.

great deal of a widow who is about my age. My wife died five years ago and I have no children. I'd marry this lady immediately if I had any money or a job. She has one son of 23 who disapproves of my affair with his mother, and as he supports her, she doesn't want to displease him. So she asks me to come over only when he is out. His chief concern seems to be what the neighbors might say about his mother and me.

T.

It seems more likely that the boy is concerned about your unemployment than the question of neighborhood gossip. Naturally, as she is supported by him, his sense of obligation stops there. Since you are unemployed, he does not wish to include a stepfather in this obligation. Better make sure you are earning a salary before you consider marrying.

With Parental Consent

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm in love with a boy who has a good job with a fair income, and comes from an excellent family. He has asked me to marry him, but I hesitate for fear I am not old enough to do it without my parents' consent. Please tell me how old a girl must be before she is allowed to marry without parents' consent. Do you think it advisable?

WAITING.

In the state from which you write, age limits for males as 21, females 18, without consent of parents or guardian. With consent of parents or guardians, males 16, females 14. License must be obtained from county clerk. A three-day wait for license is required.

The above are the legal requirements for which you ask. But if you'll take a good word from me, it is extremely unwise for a young girl to fly in the face of parental opposition and marry. There is probably some valid reason why you parents object to this particular young man.

Selective Issues Show Strength, But List Moves in Narrow Range

Several "Blue Chips" Up 1 to 2 Points on Earnings Reports

By FREDERICK GARDNER

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—Selective rising tendencies cropped up in today's stock market but many leaders loitered in narrow territory. At the close small losses and gains were almost evenly split.

Transfers totaled 326,990 shares.

A number of "blue chips" such as Westinghouse, du Pont and Eastman Kodak got up 1 to more than 2 points as the earnings outlook brightened for these concerns.

Retaining portions of early plus signs were International Paper Common and Preferred, Union Bag & Paper, General Electric, Boeing, Glen Martin, Sperry, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, Kennecott and General Motors.

In arrears were Texas Corp., Standard Oil of N. J., N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, American Smelting, American Telephone, U. S. Rubber and Western Union.

In the curb modest improvement was held by St. Regis Paper, Wright Hargreaves, Fairchild Engineering & Aircraft and Lake Shore. On the offside were Aluminum of America, Brewster Aero, Glen Alden Coal and Niagara Hudson Power. Volume here approximated 82,000 shares.

Three Pictures on Embassy Bill Today

Lawlessness in the "Panhandle" territory of what is now Oklahoma, forms the basis for the action of Republic's "Rocky Mountain Rangers," Three Mesquiteers starring vehicle which comes to the Embassy theater for a run of two days starting today.

This territory, abandoned by Texas as she entered the Union, became a haven for all forms of outlawry when the citizens of the region were reduced to virtual serfdom.

The "Three Mesquiteers," Stony, Rico and Rusty, become incensed when they discover a young lad, Danny Burke, cruelly wounded and left to die by the chief guerrilla of the panhandle strip, one King Barton. They nurse Danny back to health and become attached to the lad, but Barton outfit stages a bold raid, in the course of which Danny is killed. Stony vows to avenge his murder.

The second hit is Frank Morgan, Billie Burke and Ann Rutherford in "The Ghost Comes Home". The second chapter of "Terry and the Pirates" will be seen on the same bill.

"Our Town" Provides Unusual Entertainment

William Holden, who is co-starred with Martha Scott in Sol Lesser's production of "Our Town," now showing at the Maryland theater, went into the theater after he had decided that his profession should be in the field of bacteriology. At Pasadena Junior College, where he matriculated, young Holden started acting and was seen by a Paramount scout.

On this lot, he played odds and ends and posed for publicity stills. Anything might have happened if Rouben Mamoulian hadn't been looking for a hero for "Golden Boy." Holden became that hero. A part in "Invisible Stripes" and another in "Good Old Siwash" followed. Then Lesser, casting around for a suitable "George" for "Our Town" thought of Bill Holden and called him in. William got the coveted role opposite Martha Scott.

Holden was born William Beedle in O'Fallon, Illinois, and he was four years old when his father, a laboratory chemist, got a better job in California. The young actor lives in Hollywood in an apartment. His fan mail, however, goes to the home of his parents in South Pasadena. That's because his mother handles it for him.

IN "OUR TOWN"

Guy Kibbee, as he is seen in "Our Town" one of the year's most unusual pictures now showing at the Maryland theater. William Holden, Martha Scott and an all star cast are seen in the starring roles.

COMING TO MARYLAND

Dan Daily, Jr., and Virginia Grey in "The Captain Is a Lady," playing next Tuesday and Wednesday at the Maryland theater.

WILL APPEAR IN STRAND FILM

The revelation of a beautiful girl's experiences with the husband she thought she knew highlights the plot of Twentieth Century-Fox's "The Man I Married," coming Sunday to the Strand theater. Joan Bennett and Francis Lederer (above) have the roles of wife and husband while Anna Sten and Lloyd Nolan are also starred.

Baker Sings Original Numbers in Feature

Adding to his list of vocal presentations, Bob Baker, singing cowboy, again provides melodic entertainment in Universal's Johnny Mack Brown western, "West of Carson City," which starts today at the Garden theater.

Baker, who appeared on the National Barn Dance program for two years, sings two original numbers by Milt Rosen and Everett Carter entitled "On the Trail of Tomorrow" and "Let's Go."

Airplanes, automobiles, Pullman trains, gasoline speeders, logging trains and horses were used to transport members of the Warner Brothers troupe engaged in filming, "King of the Lumberjacks", the action drama now at the Garden.

The company spent more than a month on location in the virgin timberland of Southern Oregon which accounts for the wide variety of transports.

Barney Rapp Is Excellent Showman

One of the first stage bands to provide entertainment in the band was that of Barney Rapp and his New Englanders who will appear here today and tomorrow at the Strand Theater.

When theaters first began to realize that popular dance and radio bands used as a featured attraction upped the box-office receipts, their programs were a bit on the feeble side, and while musically good-seemed to leave something to be desired. Barney Rapp, along with Fred Waring and Paul Whiteman, was the first to introduce novelty features—injecting comedy to just the right degree. As a result, Barney Rapp was much sought after by the better known theaters from coast to coast—not only because of his musical ability but for his Ziegfeldian gift of showmanship.

The success which Barney Rapp and his bandsmen enjoyed at New York's Paramount theaters brought them a long engagement at the Astor Roof; and a series of repeat performances at the Hotel New Yorker's Terrace Room, aggregating forty-one weeks in all, a record for the late Ralph Hitz's ace hostelry.

Barney Rapp and his New Englanders are assisted by lovely Ruby Wright, featured songstress—familiar to radio listeners as the "Sweetheart of the Air"; by their vocal trio; and by the Glee Club.

The screen stars, Nancy Kelly, Jon Hall, Joan Davis in "Sailor's Lady". An assorted program of shorts will add to the gaiety of the two hour and half show.

NEW BILL WILL OPEN AT LIBERTY SATURDAY

George Raft and Ann Sheridan have eyes only for each other in this scene from "They Drive By Night", coming tomorrow to the New Liberty theater. Versatile George and lovlier-than-ever Ann team up with Ida Lupino and Humphrey Bogart to make the film one of the most entertaining of the season.

Raft and Sheridan Coming to Liberty

"They Drive By Night," opens tomorrow at the New Liberty theater. The all star cast consists of George Raft, Ann Sheridan, Ida Lupino and Humphery Bogart.

George Raft, as hard boiled Joe Fabrini who could take his women or leave them finds that it isn't so easy to leave a certain redhead, played by Ann Sheridan. His brother, played by Humphrey Bogart gets into an accident which costs him his right arm. Joe is then forced to ask a friend of his, portrayed by Alan Hale, for a job.

Joe's troubles start anew when Ida Lupino, as Hale's wife, falls in love with him and fails to take notice when he treats her coldly.

In addition to the starring cast, the supporting roles are handled by Roscoe Karns, John Litel and Joyce Compton.

Celanese Guest To Swimmers in AAU Meet Tonight

Events Get under Way at 8 O'clock with Good Field

For the second consecutive year, records are expected to take a beating in the annual Western Maryland A. A. U. championship swimming and diving meet to be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the Celanese A. A. pool on the McMullen Highway.

Fifteen of the 17 marks were set last year with West Virginians and representatives of Washington, D. C., clubs accounting for the bulk of the new records.

Cumberlanders hold only four top performances in the four-year history of the affair, sponsored by the Celanese A. A. In the women's division, Marjorie Lowery of the Celanese A. A. holds both high and low board diving records while in the junior class, William Oswald set the best time in the 50-yard dash in 1937 and Ann Smith in 1938 hung up the record in the girls' 50-yard dash. Oswald's time was 30 seconds and Miss Smith's 32 1-5.

Last year's meet was won by the Baltimore Knights of Columbus team with most of its 42 points being scored by entries in the women's and junior girls' events. Celanese A. A. was second and Fairmont (W. Va.) Municipal Pool A. C. third.

The Evening and Sunday Times will again award a trophy to the team capturing first honors but scoring this year will be limited to the senior and junior classes. Medals will go to winners of first, second and third places in senior events, first and second places in junior contests and first places in midget events. Records at which the mermaids and mermen will shoot tomorrow follow:

MEN

100-yard dash—Ted Eneix, Fairmont A. C., 1:04 2-5, 1939.

200-yard dash—Joe Shultz, Fairmont A. C., 2:39 2-5, 1939.

50-yard breaststroke—Arthur Hucht, Baltimore K. of C., 32 1-5 seconds, 1938.

50-yard backstroke — Stuart Fitzhugh, Arlington Airport Pool, 34 seconds, 1939.

200-yard relay—Fairmont A. C. (Nimblett, Wilmoth, Shultz, Eneix 1:55, 1939.

High board diving — William Tarbett, Shoreham A. C. of Washington, 346.2 points, 1939.

Low board diving — William Tarbett, Shoreham A. C. of Washington, 198.4 points, 1939.

WOMEN

100-yard dash—Doris Baugher, Baltimore K. of C., 1:12 2-3, 1939.

200-yard dash—Doris Baugher, Baltimore K. of C., 2:52 4-5, 1939.

50-yard breaststroke — Betty Lussier, Balto. K. of C., 41, 1939.

50-yard backstroke—Nita Lussier, Baltimore K. of C., 1939.

High board diving—Marjorie Lowery, Celanese A. A., 268.8 points, 1939.

JUNIOR

Boys 50-yard dash — William Oswald, Cumberland, 1937, 30 seconds.

Boys 50-yard backstroke—Dan Tuckweiler, Fairmont, 37 sec., 1939.

Girls 50-yard dash—Ann Smith, Cumberland, 32 1-5 sec., 1938.

All-Star Class D Teams Clash Today

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP)—All-star baseball players from the Mountain State League who will meet the Virginia league's best players tomorrow night counted today on offensive power to offset superior pitching.

The encounter between the two Class D loops at Bowen Field probably will be watched by many of the big officials in baseball, Ray Ryan, president of both leagues, announced.

In the stands, Ryan said, will be Bill Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Frank Lane, assistant business manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

In addition, "if at all possible," another spectator will be Judge William G. Bramham of Durham, N. C., commissioner of minor league baseball.

Mountain State — Bill Shewey, Williamson, centerfield; Buck Etchison, Welch, first base; Harrison Wickel, Williamson, short stop; Joe Bezdek, Ashland, third base; Pete Mihalic, Bluefield, rightfield; Stanley Wentzel, Logan, leftfield; Carl Alexander, Ashland, second base; Tex Stuart, Welch, catcher; Ralph Eakin, Bluefield, starting pitcher.

Virginia League — Mickey Bala, Lynchburg, shortstop; Raymond Rudisell, Harrisonburg, rightfield; Warren Huffman, Harrisonburg, centerfield; Henry Lowman, Harrisonburg, second base; Joe Krupa Salem-Roanoke, first base; Crawford Howard, Lynchburg, leftfield; Glenn Adkins, Harrisonburg, third base; Bob Kubisek, Lynchburg, catcher; and Al Henencheck, Salem-Roanoke, starting pitcher.

Merchants Will Play Old Exports Saturday

The Cumberland Merchants of the Pen-Mar League and the Old Exports of the Tri-County League will hook up Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the North End Playground diamond.

If Joy Johnston's Right It Looks Dark For Conn

(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

By JOHN LARDNER

New York, Aug. 1.—For the sake of the common people, Mr. James Joy Johnston is training his murdered, Bob Pastor, right in the heart of the world where all can see him, in a big and noisy gymnasium just a short peg off Broadway.

"I'm not going to bury my man far away on some bum hill by some punk lake," announces Mr. Johnston. "The people deserve Pastor, and the people are going to get him."

Therefore, training for his important fight week after next with pretty William Conn, Mr. Pastor is a very accessible man. He rubs elbows with novices and stumblebums, and anyone who is so disposed can walk in off the street, stroll up to the ring, and call Mr. Pastor a bum —though this will involve an argument with Mr. Johnston, Romin's manager, who never loses arguments.

A Matter of Embarrassment

Not only does Mr. Johnston treat the world to a full view of his killer, but he throws in extras. The other day, for instance, he had a sparring partner knock Mr. Pastor down. That is the greatest excitement that can happen in a training camp—for the fighter, the boss, to be floored by a sparmate—and Mr. Johnston tossed it in practically free of charge.

Acting under orders, a character named Herbie Katz dropped Mr. Pastor to the floor of the sparring ring. Mr. Johnston insists that Mr. Pastor was not under orders when he fell.

"My Robin did not know it was coming," vows the old boy bandit. "I told this Katz to hook Pastor once just for luck, because Robin was carrying his guard too low. So he done it, and Pastor went down. Imagine his embarrassment! As long as I can embarrass my fighters, I know I have them well in hand."

"But what if Billy Conn embarrasses your fighter in the same way on the night of August 13?" I asked Mr. Johnston. "That won't be so good, will it?"

"Don't be ridiculous," snapped Mr. Johnston. "Conn won't hit my Robin a solid punch all night. Conn hasn't got a solid punch. The fellow is anemic. I don't care how much he weighs these days, he couldn't stun a newt. Robin can hit, and he is also twice as fast as Conn.

Says Conn's Head Is Growing

"I'll tell you how it is," said Mr. Johnston confidentially, leading the way to the tea-table, for it was after four o'clock and high time for that fragment of empire. Mr. Johnston's afternoon cuppatea. "I'll tell you how it is. They have been building up this Conn for a fight with Joe Louis. They have padded him here and padded him there till now he claims to weigh 185. I'll bet most of that extra weight is around his head. Conn's head has certainly been growing.

"Well, if he was built up, we are going to break him down. Conn has outstabbed a couple of big, clumsy fighters, so now he figures he can fight heavyweights. He don't know what heavyweights are! We will do him a favor and save him from being killed by Joe Louis. We will kill him ourselves. Pastor and Louis are the two best heavyweights in the world. My Robin can lick Conn twice before breakfast. Louis won't even have to put his gloves on to keep his title from Conn. We will save Joe a lot of trouble."

This is the same friendly spirit of service which causes Mr. Johnston to share Pastor with the public, even in training. It is the same spirit which will persuade Mr. Johnston to pocket part of Pastor's purse, so that Bob won't have to carry all the stuff around himself on hot days and get a stroke.

Whether Pastor can beat Conn or not, is a question we will examine in detail later on. You can quote Mr. Johnston, however, as stating that Pastor—his fighter, and the people's fighter—will tee Mr. Conn up, as he used to do with a football in his college days, and kick him all the way back to Pittsburgh.

Brooklyn Downs Pirates Twice To Narrow Red Lead

Wyatt Holds Bucs in First Game; Second is Wild Affair

BROOKLYN, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, having the National League stage all to themselves for a day, swamped the Pittsburgh Pirates in a doubleheader 8 to 3 and 8 to 7 today to narrow the first place margin of the Cincinnati Reds to 6 1-2 games.

The first encounter was a cut and dried proposition with Whitlow Wyatt pitching seven-hit ball for his tenth triumph of the season.

His fellow Dodgers gave him four runs after two were out in the third inning and three more in the seventh with Dolph Camilli hitting a home run in the seventh to taper off a 12-hit offensive against three Pittsburgh pitchers.

The second game was a spectacle of no mean proportions. Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers, used four pitchers to hold the Pirates to six hits as Brooklyn again battered the Pittsburgh staff with a dozen blows.

The contest would never have been close except for seven errors and eight walks that were intermingled with the base knocks.

FAIRGO Race Notes

Sammy Palumbo, who averaged one winner per day during the 45 days he rode the past summer at Charles Town, West Virginia, sent word from Bel Air that he would come here to accept mounts during the Cumberland Fair Association's 10 day meeting, which opens Tuesday.

Palumbo, called the "King of the Half-Milers," is particularly anxious to land the gold watch that goes to the jockey scoring the greatest number of points during the opening of Maryland's fall racing season.

The Brooklyn, N. Y., lad is going to get plenty of competition as Buddy Root, Al Veseilli, Willie Dufford, Johnny Leyland, A. F. Martinez, George Cardoza, Busty Hernandez and Freddie Fause will also be on hand. Root is the lad, who holds the Bel Air record of 15 winners in ten days.

—o—

Misty Eye, owned by John E. Hughes of Washington, and trained by J. Bowes Bond of Baltimore, is going to have something vital to say as to where the two year old purses go. This youngster has won four consecutive races, setting a Bel Air five eights mark in her last effort.

—o—

J. H. C. Forbes, leading winning owner and trainer of steeplechase horses during the Bel Air meeting, is bringing five horses here, including Axacan, a double winner through the Bel Air field.

—o—

Mrs. I. K. Mourar's Chide, one that scored recently at Bel Air, to net his backers $125.40 for $2, will arrive here Sunday. The clever apprentice R. Sisto will handle the Virginia owned thoroughbred in local efforts.

—o—

A. Gazalle's Scarlet Flame and Basil A. Hall's Blenethel, who figured in a dead-heat for first place on July 26, at Bel Air, will both be here to strive for purses. Race Secretary Eddie Brennan is endeavoring to have them meet in another seven-eights mile race in an effort to decide which is the best.

—o—

Horsemen coming here to participate in the Harry A. Manly Handicap, biggest race of the forthcoming meeting, are going to ask the Cumberland Fair Association to perpetuate the Manley winners by having their names painted yearly on the grandstand.

—o—

C. H. Fitzgerald of Hagerstown, wired that he was bringing the speedy Roman Boy and Rippling On up from Bel Air for P. H. Faulconer of Virginia. Both horses won recently at Empire City, N. Y. Roman Boy is considered the fastest 4½ furlong sprinter now in this state.

Eastern Shore Swim Carnival August 17

OXFORD, Md., Aug. 1 (AP)—Some 250 swimmers will compete Aug. 17 in the third annual Eastern Shore championship swimming meet and water carnival here.

The carnival is sponsored by the Red Cross and WPA recreation councils of Talbot, Kent, Caroline, Dorchester, Wicomico, and Queen Anne's counties. Each county will have 42 entrants in swimming races and life-saving contests.

"Stars" of the meet will be the 10-year-old Joan and Susan Norton-Taylor twins of Oxford, who will give exhibitions of tandem swimming and life saving.

Detroit Regains League Lead with Crushing 11-2 Win

Tigers Knock Yankees Out of First Division by Triumph

DETROIT, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers regained rulership of the American League today with a crushing 11 to 2 conquest of the New York Yankees that knocked the world champions out of the first division.

The maneuver in the standings was accomplished in conjunction with the Boston Red Sox' 5-2 decision over Cleveland, giving the Tigers exclusive possession of first place, and Chicago's 5-4 eleven-inning triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics, lifting the White Sox into fourth place.

Schoolboy Rowe, hero of Detroit's last pennant era, was the kingpin again today. He held the Bronx Bombers to seven hits and contributed a triple and a double toward the Tigers' own total of 15 safeties, driving in three runs.

It was the ninth victory against two defeats for the big righthander who two years ago was relegated to the minor leagues.

He was scored upon in only one inning, giving up two runs in the fourth.

In contrast the Tigers tallied in six of their eight turns at the plate. After punching over a run in each of the first two innings they drove Rookie Marvin Breuver off the mound with five runs in the third.

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—Now that the Ryder Cup team has disposed of Gene Sarazen's team of forgotten men, if the P. G. A. wants to clear up unfinished business it might consider the proposal of Bud Ward pertaining to a pro-amateur team match.

When Sarazen tossed his challenge with his usual sharp hook last November, Bud Ward bounced up from his round table in Spokane and in one long breath reeled off a team of simon-pures which he said he believed "would give the pros a good match."

The Ryder-Sarazen match, played at Detroit for the benefit of the Red Cross, was highly successful from a financial standpoint, and a Ryder-amateur match for the same worthy cause also should prove profitable, even though it is admitted such an event might be akin to matching the Tigers (we used to say Yankees) against the Elm Street Cubs.

There is a certain glamor about the amateurs, and even if their status was very, very underdog, the fans would turn out to watch them with the hope there might be something to cheer about.

Ward's team, in addition, to himself, included Art Doering, Wilford Wherle, Ray Billows, Johnny Goodman, Willie Turnesa, Harry Givan, Melvin Hardbert, Don Schumacher, Charley Yates and Ed Kingsley.

Most of these probably will qualify for the national amateur this year, and as our colleague Bill White suggested match between Ward's team or a reasonable facsimilie thereof and the Ryder team might be staged at the site of the amateur tournament immediately preceding that event next month.

Despite Ward's belief that such a match would be close, comparative individual records of the pros and amateurs in open events leave a contrary opinion.

Of the members of Ward's team only Goodman, who won it, and Ward himself, who nearly did, were ever more than a mild threat in the National Open.

The amateurs strongest talking point is that most of their tournaments are on a match basis, and that their experience in the man vs man game would partially offset any lack of skill at medal play.

However, the amateurs matches have been played against fellow amateurs. What the simon-pures would do when facing "big name" pros is a matter of speculation.

At any rate, and regardless of the merits of the match from a competition standpoint, a meeting between the Ryder team and a select group of amateurs would not lack in public interest. The amateurs would lose no prestige as they would be expected to lose anyway.

White Sox Walked Into A. L. First Division by A's

Winning Run Forced over in Eleventh for 5-4 Victory

CHICAGO, Aug. 1 (AP)—Chicago's 1940 White Sox walked into the first division of the American League for the first time today. With the bases loaded in the eleventh inning, Nelson Potter, Philadelphia Athletic pitcher, walked Joe Kuhel to force in Bob Kennedy with the run that gave the Sox a 5 to 4 triumph.

The victory, their eleventh in the last 14 games, lifted the Sox into fourth place by a fraction of a percentage point ahead of the New York Yankees, although the two were tied on a games won and lost basis. The defeat sent the A's back into last place.

Edgar Smith, Chicago starting hurler, literally was knocked from the box in the third inning. He was felled by a drive off Bob Johnson's bat. Pete Appleton and Clint Brown followed him to the mound, with Brown getting credit for victory.

County Net Meet Quarter Finals on Tap Here Today

Semi-Finals Tomorrow with All Finals on Sunday

Players in the Allegany County tennis tournament have been eliminated until only ten of the original fifty remain in the men's singles. The twenty-two entries in the women's singles have been reduced to six. Nine men's doubles teams are still competing, and six mixed doubles.

Play will continue today at the Country Club, Garlitz and Dingle courts with quarter finals in all events. Semi-finals will be played Saturday and finals Sunday.

Results yesterday were as follows: Robert Bane defeated Willard Ash in a hard three set match, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1.

Andy Smith disposed of J. W. Holmes, 6-0, 6-0.

Graham Ort beat Marvin Kaplon 6-0, 6-4.

W. E. Hinkel downed Walter Eyler 6-4, 6-3.

Robert Bane and Charles Jones eliminated W. E. Hinkel and Ed. Harvey in doubles, 6-4, 6-3.

Gordon Bowie and Elmo Gower advanced through James Breeze and Miller 6-0, 6-2.

Harry and Dave Kauffman bested Robt. King and J. W. McClure 6-2, 6-4.

Mrs. Arden Lowndes and Ross Palmer in mixed doubles breezed through Mr. and Mrs. Willard Ash, 6-1, 6-1.

Mrs. Tom Mills defeated Louise Wilson 6-4, 6-3.

Today's matches already scheduled. Robert Bane plays Ross Palmer, 4 o'clock at the Dingle. Russell Fonton meets Andy Smith at the Country Club at 5 o'clock. Graham Ort will clash with John Sapp at 4 o'clock at Garlitz.

In women's singles today at 3 o'clock at the Dingle Jeannette Campbell will compete with Betty Flake. The winner will meet Mrs. Leo Leasure Saturday afternoon in the semi-finals. In the upper division Mrs. Tom Mills plays Mrs. James Kelly today, the survivor to play Mrs. Peyton Brown tomorrow afternoon in the semi-finals. Finals to be played Sunday.

Claus and Mitchell play Eisenberg and Middlecamp today at 5 o'clock at the Dingle, the winner to meet Smith and Palmer. Other quarter-final men's doubles are Kauffmans vs. Bane and Jones, Bowie and Gower vs. Fonton and Dye, Van Sant and Ort vs. Ash and Somerville.

Celanese Guest To Swimmers in AAU Meet Tonight

Events Get under Way at 8 O'clock with Good Field

For the second consecutive year, records are expected to take a beating in the annual Western Maryland A. A. U. championship swimming and diving meet to be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the Celanese A. A. pool on the McMullen Highway.

Fifteen of the 17 marks were set last year with West Virginians and representatives of Washington, D. C., clubs accounting for the bulk of the new records.

Cumberlanders hold only four top performances in the four-year history of the affair, sponsored by the Celanese A. A. In the women's division, Marjorie Lowery of the Celanese A. A. holds both high and low board diving records while in the junior class, William Oswald set the best time in the 50-yard dash in 1937 and Ann Smith in 1938 hung up the record in the girls' 50-yard dash. Oswald's time was 30 seconds and Miss Smith's 32 1-5.

Last year's meet was won by the Baltimore Knights of Columbus team with most of its 42 points being scored by entries in the women's and junior girls' events. Celanese A. A. was second and Fairmont (W. Va.) Municipal Pool A. C. third.

The Evening and Sunday Times will again award a trophy to the team capturing first honors but scoring this year will be limited to the senior and junior classes. Medals will go to winners of first, second and third places in senior events, first and second places in junior contests and first places in midget events. Records at which the mermaids and mermen will shoot tomorrow follow:

MEN

100-yard dash—Ted Eneix, Fairmont A. C., 1:04 2-5, 1939.

200-yard dash—Joe Shultz, Fairmont A. C., 2:39 2-5, 1939.

50-yard breaststroke—Arthur Hucht, Baltimore K. of C., 32 1-5 seconds, 1939.

50-yard backstroke—Stuart Fitzhugh, Arlington Airport Pool, 34 seconds, 1939.

200-yard relay—Fairmont A. C. (Nimbelt, Willmoth, Shultz, Eneix), 1:55, 1939.

High board diving—William Tarbett, Shoreham A. C. of Washington, 346.2 points, 1939.

Low board diving — William Tarbett, Shoreham A. C. of Washington, 198.4 points, 1939.

WOMEN

100-yard dash—Doris Baugher, Baltimore K. of C., 1:12 2-3, 1939.

200-yard dash—Doris Baugher, Baltimore K. of C., 2:52 4-5, 1939.

50-yard breaststroke — Betty Lussier, Balto. K. of C., 41, 1939.

50-yard backstroke—Nita Lussier, Baltimore K. of C., 1939.

High board diving—Marjorie Lowery, Celanese A. A., 268.8 points, 1939.

Low board diving—Marjorie Lowery, Celanese A. A., 84.2 points, 1939.

JUNIOR

Boys 50-yard dash — William Oswald, Cumberland, 1937, 30 seconds.

Boys 50-yard backstroke—Dan Tuckweiler, Fairmont, 37 sec., 1939.

Girls 50-yard dash—Ann Smith, Cumberland, 32 1-5 sec., 1938.

All-Star Class D Teams Clash Today

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP)—All-star baseball players from the Mountain State League who will meet the Virginia league's best players tomorrow night counted today on offensive power to offset superior pitching.

The encounter between the two Class D loops at Bowen Field probably will be watched by many of the big officials in baseball, Ray Ryan, president of both leagues, announced.

In the stands, Ryan said, will be Bill Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Frank Lane, assistant business manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

In addition, "if at all possible," another spectator will be Judge William G. Bramham of Durham, N. C., commissioner of minor league baseball.

Mountain State — Bill Shewey, Williamson, centerfield; Buck Etchison, Welch, first base; Harrison Wickel, Williamson, short stop; Joe Bezdek, Ashland, third base; Pete Mihalic, Bluefield, rightfield; Stanley Wentzel, Logan, leftfield; Carl Alexander, Ashland, second base; Tex Stuart, Welch, catcher; Ralph Eakin, Bluefield, starting pitcher.

Virginia League — Mickey Bala, Lynchburg, shortstop; Raymond Rudisell, Harrisonburg, rightfield; Warren Huffman, Harrisonburg, centerfield; Henry Lowman, Harrisonburg, second base; Joe Krupa Salem-Roanoke, first base; Crawford Howard, Lynchburg, leftfield; Glenn Adkins, Harrisonburg, third base; Bob Kubisek, Lynchburg, catcher; and Al Henencheck, Salem-Roanoke, starting pitcher.

Merchants Will Play Old Exports Saturday

The Cumberland Merchants of the Pen-Mar League and the Old Exports of the Tri-County League will hook up Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the North End Playground diamond.

If Joy Johnston's Right It Looks Dark For Conn

(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

By JOHN LARDNER

New York, Aug. 1.—For the sake of the common people, Mr. James Joy Johnston is training his murdered, Bob Pastor, right in the heart of the world where all can see him, in a big and noisy gymnasium just a short peg off Broadway.

"I'm not going to bury my man far away on some bum hill by some punk lake," announces Mr. Johnston. "The people deserve Pastor, and the people are going to get him."

Therefore, training for his important fight week after next with pretty William Conn, Mr. Pastor is a very accessible man. He rubs elbows with novices and stumblebums, and anyone who is so disposed can walk in off the street, stroll up to the ring, and call Mr. Pastor a bum—though this will involve an argument with Mr. Johnston, Romin's manager, who never loses arguments.

A Matter of Embarrassment

Not only does Mr. Johnston treat the world to a full view of his killer, but he throws in extras. The other day, for instance, he had a sparring partner knock Mr. Pastor down. That is the greatest excitement that can happen in a training camp—for the fighter, the boss, to be floored by a sparmate—and Mr. Johnston tossed it in practically free of charge.

Acting under orders, a character named Herbie Katz dropped Mr. Pastor to the floor of the sparring ring. Mr. Johnston insists that Mr. Pastor was not under orders when he fell.

"My Robin did not know it was coming," vows the old boy bandit. "I told this Katz to hook Pastor once just for luck, because Robin was carrying his guard too low. So he done it, and Pastor went down. Imagine his embarrassment! As long as I can embarrass my fighters, I know I have them well in hand."

"But what if Billy Conn embarrasses your fighter in the same way on the night of August 13?" I asked Mr. Johnston. "That won't be so good, will it?"

"Don't be ridiculous," snapped Mr. Johnston. "Conn won't hit my Robin a solid punch all night. Conn hasn't got a solid punch. The fellow is anemic. I don't care how much he weighs these days, he couldn't stun a newt. Robin can hit, and he is also twice as fast as Conn.

Says Conn's Head Is Growing

"I'll tell you how it is," said Mr. Johnston confidentally, leading the way to the tea-table, for it was after four o'clock and high time for that fragment of empire, Mr. Johnston's afternoon cuppatea. "I'll tell you how it is. They have been building up this Conn for a fight with Joe Louis. They have padded him here and padded him there till now he claims to weigh 185. I'll bet most of that extra weight is around his head. Conn's head has certainly been growing.

"Well, if he was built up, we are going to break him down. Conn has outstabbed a couple of big, clumsy fighters, so now he figures he can fight heavyweights. He don't know what heavyweights are! We will do him a favor and save him from being killed by Joe Louis. We will kill him ourselves. Pastor and Louis are the two best heavyweights in the world. My Robin can lick Conn twice before breakfast. Louis won't even have to put his gloves on to keep his title from Conn. We will save Joe a lot of trouble."

This is the same friendly spirit of service which causes Mr. Johnston to share Pastor with the public, even in training. It is the same spirit which will persuade Mr. Johnston to pocket part of Pastor's purse, so that Bob won't have to carry all the stuff around himself on hot days and get a stroke.

Whether Pastor can beat Conn or not, is a question we will examine in detail later on. You can quote Mr. Johnston, however, as stating that Pastor—his fighter, and the people's fighter—will tee Mr. Conn up, as he used to do with a football in his college days, and kick him all the way back to Pittsburgh.

Brooklyn Downs Pirates Twice To Narrow Red Lead

Wyatt Holds Bucs in First Game; Second is Wild Affair

BROOKLYN, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, having the National League stage all to themselves for a day, swamped the Pittsburgh Pirates in a doubleheader 8 to 3 and 8 to 7 today to narrow the first place margin of the Cincinnati Reds to 6 1-2 games.

The first encounter was a cut and dried proposition with Whitlow Wyatt pitching seven-hit ball for his tenth triumph of the season.

His fellow Dodgers gave him four runs after two were out in the third inning and three more in the seventh with Dolph Camilli hitting a home run in the seventh to taper off a 12-hit offensive against three Pittsburgh pitchers.

The second game was a spectacle of no mean proportions. Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers, used four pitchers to hold the Pirates to six hits as Brooklyn again battered the Pittsburgh staff with a dozen blows.

The contest would never have been close except for seven errors and eight walks that were intermingled with the base knocks.

FAIRGO Race Notes

Sammy Palumbo, who averaged one winner per day during the 45 days he rode the past summer at Charles Town, West Virginia, sent word from Bel Air that he would come here to accept mounts during the Cumberland Fair Association's 10 day meeting, which opens Tuesday.

Palumbo, called the "King of the Half-Milers," is particularly anxious to land the gold watch that goes to the jockey scoring the greatest number of points during the opening of Maryland's fall racing season.

The Brooklyn, N. Y., lad is going to get plenty of competition as Buddy Root, Al Veseilli, Willie Dufford, Johnny Leyland, A. F. Martinez, George Cardoza, Busty Hernandez and Freddie Fause will also be on hand. Root is the lad, who holds the Bel Air record of 15 winners in ten days.

—o—

Misty Eye, owned by John E. Hughes of Washington, and trained by J. Bowes Bond of Baltimore, is going to have something vital to say as to where the two year old purses go. This youngster has won four consecutive races, setting a Bel Air five eights mark in her last effort.

—o—

J. H. C. Forbes, leading winning owner and trainer of steepiechase horses during the Bel Air meeting, is bringing five horses here, including Axacan, a double winner through the Bel Air field.

—o—

Mrs. I. K. Mourar's Chide, one that scored recently at Bel Air, to net his backers $125.40 for $2, will arrive here Sunday. The clever apprentice R. Sisto will handle the Virginia owned thoroughbred in local efforts.

—o—

A. Gazalle's Scarlet Flame and Basil A. Hall's Blenethel, who figured in a dead-heat for first place on July 26, at Bel Air, will both be here to strive for purses. Race Secretary Eddie Brennan is endeavoring to have them meet in another seven-eights mile race in an effort to decide which is the best.

—o—

Horsemen coming here to participate in the Harry A. Manly Handicap, biggest race of the forthcoming meeting, are going to ask the Cumberland Fair Association to perpetuate the Manley winners by having their names painted yearly on the grandstand.

—o—

C. H. Fitzgerald of Hagerstown, wired that he was bringing the speedy Roman Boy and Rippling On up from Bel Air for P. H. Faulconer of Virginia. Both horses won recently at Empire City, N. Y. Roman Boy is considered the fastest 4½ furlong sprinter now in this state.

Eastern Shore Swim Carnival August 17

OXFORD, Md., Aug. 1 (AP)—Some 250 swimmers will compete Aug. 17 in the third annual Eastern Shore championship swimming meet and water carnival here.

The carnival is sponsored by the Red Cross and WPA recreation councils of Talbot, Kent, Caroline, Dorchester, Wicomico, and Queen Anne's counties. Each county will have 42 entrants in swimming races and life-saving contests.

"Stars" of the meet will be the 10-year-old Joan and Susan Norton-Taylor twins of Oxford, who will give exhibitions of tandem swimming and life saving.

Detroit Regains League Lead with Crushing 11-2 Win

Tigers Knock Yankees Out of First Division by Triumph

DETROIT, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers regained rulership of the American League today with a crushing 11 to 2 conquest of the New York Yankees that knocked the world champions out of the first division.

The maneuver in the standings was accomplished in conjunction with the Boston Red Sox' 5-2 decision over Cleveland, giving the Tigers exclusive possession of first place, and Chicago's 5-4 eleven-inning triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics, lifting the White Sox into fourth place.

Schoolboy Rowe, hero of Detroit's last pennant era, was the kingpin again today. He held the Bronx Bombers to seven hits and contributed a triple and a double toward the Tigers' own total of 15 safeties, driving in three runs.

It was the ninth victory against two defeats for the big righthander who two years ago was relegated to the minor leagues.

He was scored upon in only one inning, giving up two runs in the fourth.

In contrast the Tigers tallied in six of their eight turns at the plate. After punching over a run in each of the first two innings they drove Rookie Marvin Breuver off the mound with five runs in the third.

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—Now that the Ryder Cup team has disposed of Gene Sarazen's team of forgotten men, if the P. G. A. wants to clear up unfinished business it might consider the proposal of Bud Ward pertaining to a pro-amateur team match.

When Sarazen tossed his challenge with his usual sharp hook last November, Bud Ward bounced up from his round table in Spokane and in one long breath reeled off a team of simon-pures which he said he believed "would give the pros a good match."

The Ryder-Sarazen match, played at Detroit for the benefit of the Red Cross, was highly successful from a financial standpoint, and a Ryder-amateur match for the same worthy cause also should prove profitable, even though it is admitted such an event might be akin to matching the Tigers (we used to say Yankees) against the Elm Street Cubs.

There is a certain glamor about the amateurs, and even if their status was very, very underdog, the fans would turn out to watch them with the hope there might be something to cheer about.

Ward's team, in addition, to himself, included Art Doering, Wilford Wherle, Ray Billows, Johnny Goodman, Willie Turnesa, Harry Givan, Melvin Hardbert, Don Schumacher, Charley Yates and Ed Kingsley.

Most of these probably will qualify for the national amateur this year, and as our colleague Bill White suggested match between Ward's team or a reasonable facsimilie thereof and the Ryder team might be staged at the site of the amateur tournament immediately preceding that event next month.

Despite Ward's belief that such a match would be close, comparative individual records of the pros and amateurs in open events leave a contrary opinion.

Of the members of Ward's team only Goodman, who won it, and Ward himself, who nearly did, were ever more than a mild threat in the National Open.

The amateurs strongest talking point is that most of their tournaments are on a match basis, and that their experience in the man vs man game would partially offset any lack of skill at medal play.

However, the amateurs matches have been played against fellow amateurs. What the simon-pures would do when facing "big name" pros is a matter of speculation.

At any rate, and regardless of the merits of the match from a competition standpoint, a meeting between the Ryder team and a select group of amateurs would not lack in public interest. The amateurs would lose no prestige as they would be expected to lose anyway.

White Sox Walked Into A. L. First Division by A's

Winning Run Forced over in Eleventh for 5-4 Victory

CHICAGO, Aug. 1 (AP)—Chicago's 1940 White Sox walked into the first division of the American League for the first time today. With the bases loaded in the eleventh inning, Nelson Potter, Philadelphia Athletic pitcher, walked Joe Kuhel to force in Bob Kennedy with the run that gave the Sox a 5 to 4 triumph.

The victory, their eleventh in the last 14 games, lifted the Sox into fourth place by a fraction of a percentage point ahead of the New York Yankees, although the two were tied on a games won and lost basis. The defeat sent the A's back into last place.

Edgar Smith, Chicago starting hurler, literally was knocked from the box in the third inning. He was felled by a drive off Bob Johnson's bat. Pete Appleton and Clint Brown followed him to the mound, with Brown getting credit for victory.

County Net Meet Quarter Finals on Tap Here Today

Semi-Finals Tomorrow with All Finals on Sunday

Players in the Allegany County tennis tournament have been eliminated until only ten of the original fifty remain in the men's singles. The twenty-two entries in the women's singles have been reduced to six. Nine men's doubles teams are still competing, and six mixed doubles.

Play will continue today at the Country Club, Garlitz and Dingle courts with quarter finals in all events. Semi-finals will be played Saturday and finals Sunday.

Results yesterday were as follows: Robert Bane defeated Willard Ash in a hard three set match, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1.

Andy Smith disposed of J. W. Holmes, 6-0, 6-0.

Graham Ort beat Marvin Kaplon 6-0, 6-4.

W. E. Hinkel downed Walter Eyler 6-4, 6-3.

Robert Bane and Charles Jones eliminated W. E. Hinkel and Ed. Harvey in doubles, 6-4, 6-3.

Gordon Bowie and Elmo Gower advanced through James Breeze and Miller 6-0, 6-2.

Harry and Dave Kauffman bested Robt. King and J. W. McClure, 6-2, 6-4.

Mrs. Arden Lowndes and Ross Palmer in mixed doubles breezed through Mr. and Mrs. Willard Ash, 6-1, 6-1.

Mrs. Tom Mills defeated Louise Wilson 6-4, 6-3.

Today's matches already scheduled. Robert Bane plays Ross Palmer, 4 o'clock at the Dingle. Russell Fonton meets Andy Smith at the Country Club at 5 o'clock. Graham Ort will clash with John Sapp at 4 o'clock at Garlitz.

In women's singles today at 3 o'clock at the Dingle Jeannette Campbell will compete with Betty Flake. The winner will meet Mrs. Leo Leasure Saturday afternoon in the semi-finals. In the upper division Mrs. Tom Mills plays Mrs. James Kelly today, the survivor to play Mrs. Peyton Brown tomorrow afternoon in the semi-finals. Finals to be played Sunday.

Claus and Mitchell play Eisenberg and Middlecamp today at 5 o'clock at the Dingle, the winner to meet Smith and Palmer. Other quarter-final men's doubles are Kauffmans vs. Bane and Jones, Bowie and Gower vs. Ponton and Dye, Van Sant and Ort vs. Ash and Somerville.

Officials Named For Fairgo Meet Starting Tuesday

General-Manager Manley Is Advised by State Commission

Officials for the ten-day race meet of the Cumberland Fair Association which opens next Tuesday at Fairgo were announced last evening by President and General-Manager Harry A. Manley on receipt of the list from the secretary of the Maryland Racing Commission, James F. Hayward.

They are:

Stewards: M. C. Shea, J. T. Wolfe and A. Charles Stewart.

Judges: John J. Brennan, Wilmer Brinton, Jr., and John Turner, Jr.

Clerk of Scales: John Turner, Jr.

Starter: Ira Gregory.

Paddock Judge and Timer: W. M. Shewbridge.

Patrol Judge: Henry J. Carroll.

Veterinarian: Dr. W. J. Sullivan.

Racing Secretary: Edward J. Brennan.

Auditor: Edward J. Shipley.

Veterinarian in charge of saliva test: Dr. Thomas A. Ladson.

Salavj Inspectors: E. C. Turnbull and George D. Stanley.

Identifier: E. N. Bell.

No changes are noted in the list of officials, the same corps handling the local race meet last year.

Stewart J. T. Wolfe and Auditor Edward Shipley, this year as last, will be officials representing the Maryland Racing Commission.

The State Inspectors were not named in the list released last evening but it is expected that Douglas C. Turnbull and George D. Stanley will act in that capacity this year.

Ali Ghan Gun Club Has Ham & Beer Shoot

Give them ham and beer for refreshments, or give them as prizes to shoot for, and they'll turn out, the Ali Ghan Gun Club learned yesterday when 25 marksmen participated in the regular weekly shoot of the club.

The turnout was a record one for the season.

Hams were won by Dr. Diehl of Frostburg, who got two, while Jim Stevenson, Frank Billmyer, Bill McFarland, John Lighter and Bill Powell each took home the hindquarter of a pig.

Two cases of beer were won by Bill Powell and Huck McFerran, while Jim Powell, Frank Smith and Frank Billmyer each one one. Charles Piper got the ham on the card shoot and Lawrence Peskin won the case of beer on the card shoot.

In the challenge match between Billmyer and McFerran, Billmyer scored 21 to McFerran's 18 from 20 yards, while getting 22 to McFerran's 16 from the 23-yard stripe.

B. & O. Bolt & Forge Mops Up on City Cops

The B. & O. Bolt & Forge, new entry of the Rockingchair League, mopped up on the City Cops in their second league clash yesterday afternoon, at the Mill Yard by a 16-3 score.

The Railroaders routed the Cumberland Caseys in their first league clash, and the Caseys yesterday trounced the Juniors Association of Commerce club in another league game, 10-8, making it appear that the Bolt & Forge will give the loop a strong contender for second half honors.

Line scores were:

JR. A. OF C.	202 004 0	8	7	4
K. OF C.	240 130 x	10	9	2

Burke, Uncapher and Ley; Loibel and Stakem.

POLICE	101 010 0	3	8	7
B. & O.	453 031 x	16	14	0

Shober and Hotchkiss; Hose and Poling.

Dark Sun Takes Bel Air Feature

BEL AIR, Md., Aug. 1 (AP) — Noble Godfrey booted A. P. Pannell's Dark Sun to victory by a length today in the Churchille purse, seven-fur longs, fifth event on today's card.

Dark Sun covered the distance in 1.27 and paid $19.30 for $2. He was home a length ahead of Streamer, who paid $3.80 and $3.20, with Honeymaid, paying $6.10 to show, a length behind the second horse.

He Rolls, favorite owned by William Amos, streaked in a length and a half in front of Mrs. S. Rapp's David's Gal in the opener, after going into the lead 100 yards from the finish. He paid $6.40, $4.20, and $3.

He Rolls teamed with No Fair, winner of the second, to make the daily double worth $188.70 for $2.

HORSES TO WATCH AT FAIRGO

BANK NOTE—Broke into winner's circle at Hagerstown and should be good enough to repeat here in the same class.

BAY FARRELL—Clever two year old that has had special prep for Bel Air and should hold for here.

BRAZEN HUSSY—Has had bad racing luck in recent starts but can do better than the records show with any sort of a break.

CHANNING—The old boy came through at Bell Air and can repeat against the same kind at a distance.

CHERRY TRIFLE—Classy runner that can win when the chips are down against the kind that will be seen here.

CHIEF EVERGREEN—All recent trials have been good and a change of owners should help by the time he goes postward here.

DABS—Stable always trying . . . at a price.

DACOTAH — Probably will be started in one of those route affairs on this year's Fairgo card and is capable of copping.

DARK SUN — Impeded in recent race and may make amends here if not sooner.

DON BARR — Showed speed and should soon leave maiden ranks.

DOUBLE BACK—Consistent recently and should hold winning form for this meet.

DULIE—Odds were short at Bel Air but this one is due to pop.

Pickup Team Paces Pro-Amateur Tourney

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 1 (AP)—A pickup team composed of Ralph (Bud) Williamson, Fort Wayne, Ind., and Harvy Riedemann, Watertown, Wis., turned in a scorching 62 today to capture the pro-amateur best ball event signalizing the start of the $5,000 Milwaukee Open golf tournament.

Williamson paced the professionals by carding a sparkling 64, seven under par for the North Hills course, while his 21-year old partner, Riedmann, provided the surprise of the day with his individual score of 67, topping all amateurs.

Tied at 63 for second in the best ball were two Madison shotmakers, Jimmy Milward, Blackhawk Club pro and former Wisconsin open king, and his partner Bobby March, and the combination of Tommy Armour, veteran Chicago Medinah pro, and amateur Ellsworth Vines, the former tennis professional.

Trapshoot Scheduled At Keyser August 8

Keyser, W. Va., August 1.—The Meadow Lark Gun Club, Inc., of Keyser, will stage a registered trapshoot next Thursday, August 8, starting at 1 o'clock on its traps near here.

The program will consist of 100 16-yard singles, targets and 50 handicap targets. Purses will be awarded winners in each event. If there is enough interest, doubles will be arranged.

Der "Watch on Die Potomac" Still in Hock at Bel Air

Dear Eddd,

Thanks for sending me the ten spot. My stop-watch is still in hock. Your wire came between the fourth and fifth races and, you know me, I couldn't help putting a fiver on a "good thing" in the fifth. It turned out to be a mule hitched to the starting gate.

I see by the paper this a. m. they're going to give away a watch to the leading winning trainer at Fairgo. I wonder if it's my stop-watch they're talking about. If it is, tell Harry Manley I still need a pound note to get it out from under.

Yours,

PPPPP

P. S. Ran into Frank Vandegrift at a barbecue stand with a hot dog in one hand and a bottle of sarsaperrila in the other. I noticed he only had one sock. He's on his way from Saratoga. 'Nuff said!

Officials Named For Fairgo Meet Starting Tuesday

General-Manager Manley Is Advised by State Commission

Officials for the ten-day race meet of the Cumberland Fair Association which opens next Tuesday at Fairgo were announced last evening by President and General-Manager Harry A. Manley on receipt of the list from the secretary of the Maryland Racing Commission, James F. Hayward.

They are:

Stewards: M. C. Shea, J. T. Wolfe and A. Charles Stewart.

Judges: John J. Brennan, Wilmer Brinton, Jr., and John Turner, Jr.

Clerk of Scales: John Turner, Jr.

Starter: Ira Gregory.

Paddock Judge and Timer: W. M. Shewbridge.

Patrol Judge: Henry J. Carroll.

Veterinarian: Dr. W. J. Sullivan.

Racing Secretary: Edward J. Brennan.

Auditor: Edward J. Shipley.

Veterinarian in charge of saliva test: Dr. Thomas A. Ladson.

Salavi Inspectors: E. C. Turnbull and George D. Stanley.

Identifier: E. N. Bell.

No changes are noted in the list of officials, the same corps handling the local race meet last year.

Stewart J. T. Wolfe and Auditor Edward Shipley, this year as last, will be officials representing the Maryland Racing Commission.

The State Inspectors were not named in the list released last evening but it is expected that Douglas C. Turnbull and George D. Stanley will act in that capacity this year.

Ali Ghan Gun Club Has Ham & Beer Shoot

Give them ham and beer for refreshments, or give them as prizes to shoot for, and they'll turn out, the Ali Ghan Gun Club learned yesterday when 25 marksmen participated in the regular weekly shoot of the club.

The turnout was a record one for the season.

Hams were won by Dr. Diehl of Frostburg, who got two, while Jim Stevenson, Frank Billmyer, Bill McFarland, John Lighter and Bill Powell each took home the hindquarter of a pig.

Two cases of beer were won by Bill Powell and Huck McFerran, while Jim Powell, Frank Smith and Frank Billmyer each one one. Charles Piper got the ham on the card shoot and Lawrence Peskin won the case of beer on the card shoot.

In the challenge match between Billmyer and McFerran, Billmyer scored 21 to McFerran's 18 from 20 yards, while getting 22 to McFerran's 16 from the 23-yard stripe.

B. & O. Bolt & Forge Mops Up on City Cops

The B. & O. Bolt & Forge, new entry of the Rockingchair League, mopped up on the City Cops in their second league clash yesterday afternoon, at the Mill Yard by a 16-3 score.

The Railroaders routed the Cumberland Caseys in their first league clash, and the Caseys yesterday trounced the Juniors Association of Commerce club in another league game, 10-8, making it appear that the Bolt & Forge will give the loop a strong contender for second half honors.

Line scores were:

JR. A. OF C.	202 004 0—	8	7	4
K. OF C.	240 130 x—10	9	2

Burke, Uncapher and Ley; Loibel and Stakem.

Dark Sun Takes Bel Air Feature

BEL AIR, Md., Aug. 1 (AP) — Noble Godfrey booted A. P. Pannell's Dark Sun to victory by a length today in the Churchille purse, seven-fur longs, fifth event on today's card.

Dark Sun covered the distance in 1.27 and paid $19.30 for $2. He was home a length ahead of Streamer, who paid $3.80 and $3.20, with Honeymaid, paying $6.10 to show, a length behind the second horse.

He Rolls, favorite owned by William Amos, streaked in a length and a half in front of Mrs. S. Rapp's David's Gal in the opener, after going into the lead 100 yards from the finish. He paid $6.40, $4.20 and $3.

He Rolls teamed with No Fair, winner of the second, to make the daily double worth $188.70 for $2.

HORSES TO WATCH AT FAIRGO

BANK NOTE—Broke into winner's circle at Hagerstown and should be good enough to repeat here in the same class.

BAY FARRELL—Clever two year old that has had special prep for Bel Air and should hold for here.

BRAZEN HUSSY—Has had bad racing luck in recent starts but can do better than the records show with any sort of a break.

CHANNING—The old boy came through at Bell Air and can repeat against the same kind at a distance.

CHERRY TRIFLE—Classy runner that can win when the chips are down against the kind that will be seen here.

CHIEF EVERGREEN—All recent trials have been good and a change of owners should help by the time he goes postward here.

DABS—Stable always trying . . . at a price.

DACOTAH — Probably will be started in one of those route affairs on this year's Fairgo card and is capable of copping.

DARK SUN — Impeded in recent race and may make amends here if not sooner.

DON BARR — Showed speed and should soon leave maiden ranks.

DOUBLE BACK—Consistent recently and should hold winning form for this meet.

Pickup Team Paces Pro-Amateur Tourney

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 1 (AP)—A pickup team composed of Ralph (Bud) Williamson, Fort Wayne, Ind., and Harvy Riedemann, Watertown, Wis., turned in a scorching 62 today to capture the pro-amateur best ball event signalizing the start of the $5,000 Milwaukee Open golf tournament.

Williamson paced the professionals by carding a sparkling 64, seven under par for the North Hills course, while his 21-year old partner, Riedmann, provided the surprise of the day with his individual score of 67, topping all amateurs.

Tied at 63 for second in the best ball were two Madison shotmakers, Jimmy Milward, Blackhawk Club pro and former Wisconsin open king, and his partner Bobby March, and the combination of Tommy Armour, veteran Chicago Medinah pro, and amateur Ellsworth Vines, the former tennis professional.

Trapshoot Scheduled At Keyser August 8

Keyser, W. Va., August 1.—The Meadow Lark Gun Club, Inc., of Keyser, will stage a registered trapshoot next Thursday, August 8, starting at 1 o'clock on its traps near here.

The program will consist of 100 16-yard singles, targets and 50 handicap targets. Purses will be awarded winners in each event. If there is enough interest, doubles will be arranged.

Der "Watch on Die Potomac" Still in Hock at Bel Air

Dear Eddd,

Thanks for sending me the ten spot. My stop-watch is still in hock. Your wire came between the fourth and fifth races and, you know me, I couldn't help putting a fiver on a "good thing" in the fifth. It turned out to be a mule hitched to the starting gate.

I see by the paper this a. m. they're going to give away a watch to the leading winning trainer at Fairgo. I wonder if it's my stop-watch they're talking about. If it is, tell Harry Manley I still need a pound note to get it out from under.

Yours,

PPPPP

P. S. Ran into Frank Vandegrift at a barbecue stand with a hot dog in one hand and a bottle of sarsaperrila in the other. I noticed he only had one sock. He's on his way from Saratoga. 'Nuff said!

Foxx Paces Boston To 5-2 Victory Over Cleveland

Indians Usually Airtight Defense Cracks Up in Defeat

CLEVELAND, Aug. 1 (AP) — The Cleveland Indians' normally airtight defense all but collapsed today and Boston, pased by irrepressible Jimmy Foxx, made the most of it.

Pounding out a 5 to 2 victory, the New England wrecking crew dropped the Indians to second place as Detroit vanquished the Yankees. The Sox pounded two hurlers for 10 hits, including Foxx's 22nd homer of the season, and in winning salvaged one contest from their three-game series here.

Four errors, three in the seventh inning, spelled the Indians' undoing. Two were charged to usually reliable Ray Mack who let in a run by throwing wild to first after fumbling a grounder; and one was committed by Mel Harder who also threw past the first baseman to permit two unearned runs.

Tulsa Manager Says Dean on Way Back Up

Dallas, August 1 (AP)—Dizzy Dean is on the way back up, says Roy Johnson, the man who ought to know.

Johnson is manager of the Tulsa Oilers of the Texas League. The Chicago Cubs sent Dean to Tulsa in the hope of straightening out his ailing arm.

"Dizzy showed me more the other night (Monday night, when Dean beat Dallas 1-0 with a two-hit performance) than any time since he was bought by Chicago from St. Louis," declared Johnson.

Johnson, a coach with the Cubs when Dean went to Chicago, was there until this season and knows all about Dizzy's arm trouble.

"His arm doesn't hurt anymore, he can go nine innings and he wants to work," Johnson said.

"I'm planning to use him every third day. That's what Dizzy needs: Plenty of work. The reason he couldn't go nine innings when the Cubs sent him to Tulsa was that he had been too inactive.

"He was too soft when he came to me but now he's in shape again, thanks to this Texas League weather that's good for sore arms, and because he's got a lot of work. He's even partially abandoned his sidearm delivery he thought necessary to prevent hurting his arm.

"To show he's in shape, I want to call your attention to the fact that Dean has pitched three times since last Thursday night, going nine innings twice and doing relief work the other time."

Gephart Tossers Defeat Ridgeley

Kompanek of Gephart Playground bested Thompson of Ridgeley in a pitching duel Wednesday at Ridgeley and twirled his teammates to a 4-3 City Junior Softball League victory.

The LaSalle Jupers won by forfeit over the Police Boys' Club when the latter team failed to put in its appearance for a scheduled game at Constitution Park. The score:

GEPHART	0	1	0	0	0	3	4	8	2
RIDGELEY	0	1	0	0	0	2	0	3	4	2

Gephart—Kompanek and Hite. Ridgeley—Thompson and J. Lindsay.

North End Juniors Trim Barton Crew

The North End Playground Junior Merchants defeated the Barton Playground outfit 12-8 in a softball game yesterday on the North End field.

Wilson led the Merchants with three hits in four trips while Holbrock and Herboldsheimer each had a homer for North End. Gowans and Kyle paced the Bartonites with two blows apiece. The score:

BARTON	1	2	0	1	2	0	8	8	4
NORTH END	2	0	7	3	0	x	12	11	4

Barton—Finzel and Gattens. North End—Hill and Beckman. Herboldsheimer.

The Football Draft

A long parade of football coaches, especially those connected with state universities and other R. O. T. C. spots, were something more than startled in the earlier belief that their squads would be decimated this next fall.

It so happens the President's call was for the Officers' Reserve Corps, not the R. O. T. C. The latter are all getting first-class military training in their colleges and would hardly qualify as officers until they graduate. Under these conditions they would hardly be taken from their military training this quickly.

There will, however, be a large number subject to the first draft, whenever that is made. Naturally no exceptions will be made because a man is an athlete. That only makes him better military material.

The Kentucky Rifleman

The phase "Kentucky rifleman" is authentic, for I have eaten the venison that followed in the wake of Paul Derringer's unerring aim on the trail of a deer.

In the last few years any number of batters have had a harder time in the wake of his fast ball, curve and control.

Paul Derringer has played a leading role in the Red drive for the last two years, despite the fact that seven years ago he was rated all through and on his way over the hill. That was the year that pitching for both Cardinals and Reds he won 7 games and lost 27, for the meager average of .206, far below tail-end form.

Six years after this dashing debacle Paul won 25 and lost 7, one of the most startling reversals I know in all sport.

Paul Derringer was born in Springfield, Kentucky, 34 years ago this coming October. He is around 6 feet 4, weighing 210 pounds.

He began unveiling his right arm in Danville in 1927, 13 years ago. In 1933 St. Louis traded Paul to Cincinnati for Leo Durocher and others now unknown. Both teams got star men.

Mandarin Durocher, now guarding the destinies of the Dodgers, would just as soon that Derringer had been traded to another club, preferably Brooklyn.

Paul is what you could call a serious athlete. There is no great amount of levity in his nature. Those who don't know him might call him surly or sulky, but he isn't. Quiet people are often thrown into this class, when they should be awarded chaplets of laurel or wild apple blossoms.

Outside of baseball he likes to hunt and he doesn't mind being alone.

Six years after he turned in his .206 average with the Reds he gave the same city a winning average of .781. This upward leap of 575 points is close to the high-jump record of all time. But it still belongs to Paul Derringer.

He was on his way over the high hill seven years ago. He had made three world series starts and lost them all. He had taken more than his share of hammering. But a year ago in his older age he won 25 games and he'll win 25 or more this season.

His main specialty seems to be one and two-hitters. He has been closer to more no-hit games than any pitcher in the trade.

Unless some peculiar series of episodes takes place, the same Derringer will be heard from in loud tones in the next world series.

Another Entry

Freddy was 39 years old on Sunday. The Dodger star began pitching for Muskegon in the Central League just 20 years ago. He stuck with the Giants for 13 years until Bill Terry decided there was no longer any winning stuff left in Freddy's right arm.

So Terry traded him to Brooklyn.

This season, after twenty years of pitching, Fitzsimmons has already won 10 games for Brooklyn against a lone defeat. He has the highest pitching percentage in baseball. Having packed away 202 major league victories, Fitz is just warming up. He has an all-time life average around .600, which is nothing to leer at after you have been around since 1920.

Fitz is one of the fine characters of baseball. He is one of the main credits to the game that has carried him along into middle age — middle age as far as active competition is concerned.

And with ten out of eleven for 1940 he is now headed for his greatest year.

It is always a cheerful note to see these old-timers, many of them discarded as debris, prove that while life may not exactly begin at 40, it is far from being over at that advanced spot, even in the battle with raw youth.

Brooklyn has one of the great pitchers in Freddy Fitzsimmons, and Brooklyn is smart enough to know it.

Those Who Come Back

Nothing was ever farther from the truth. No other line has ever had a more depressing effect on some stars.

The true fact is they keep coming back. We have just related the two cases of Derringer and Fitzsimmons.

Then there is Schoolboy Rowe. The Tiger giant was given up for lost some time ago. He had his big year in Detroit six years ago—back in 1934 — when he won 24 games.

In 1938 Rowe never won a Tiger game. He was pitching for Beaumont. He had been skidding in a hurry. Last season he won 10 games and lost 12 for the Tigers.

But the Schoolboy is another man this season. He has been one of Detroit's winning factors with the best season he has known in many summers. Life isn't all a bed of violets or a long list of winning days.

N. E. Merchants To Hold Important Drill Today

The North End Merchants, co-champions of the City Softball League with Keegan's Gassers, will hold a practice on the North End Playground this evening to prep for the trip to Baltimore on Sunday, when the Merchants and the Gassers will participate in the Maryland Amateur Softball Association's tournament. The two teams are, along with the other teams in the league affiliates of the Association.

Manager "Sparky" Chisholm stated yesterday that he would start his star hurler, Allan Sheetz with Raymond "Dinks" Skidmore behind the plate. As for the rest of the team Chisholm plans on using his regualr lineup with the exception of "Whip" Kreitzburg who is out of his third base position with a badly cut arm. In Kreitzburg's place, Chisholm will start George Geatz, third sacker for the West Side ten of the City League, a privilege the Association gives member teams who enter the tourney.

Details of the trip will be discussed at a meeting of the Merchants after the practice. All players on the Merchant's roster who cannot attend the practice, are requested to get in touch with Manager Chisholm at 2695-J before Saturday evening.

Zale, Soose To Meet In Chicago August 21

Chicago, Aug. 1. (AP)—Promoter Bill Rand said last night he had signed Tony Zale, the National Boxing Association's new middleweight champion, for a 10-round overweight bout August 21 with Billy Soose of Farrell, Pa., at Mills Stadium.

Soose, last week, won a non-title match with Ken Overlin, recognized in some states as the middleweight title-holder.

Piedmont Team Wins Water Polo Contest

Piedmont, W. Va., Aug. 1.—The Piedmont team won over the Keyser combination 3-2 last night in a water polo contest at the Piedmont swimming pool. The match featured the program of the water carnival being held by Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, American Legion. Bolyard and Stalnaker each made a goal for the visitors while McConnell made two for the home guards and Niland one.

Keyser's team was composed of Bolyard, Compton, Frazier, Kolkhorst, Stalnaker and Triplett, substitute. Piedmont had Ullinger, McConnell, Niland, Ott, Samuels and Amoruso, substitute.

Game Fish on Display At Riverside Park

Percy Sowers and Dr. O. Frank Malin, district game wardens, have placed 22 brown, brook and rainbow trout on exhibition in the pool at Riverside Park. Ranging in length from nine to 12 inches, the fish were brought here from the Bear Creek state hatchery. They will be kept in the park until fall when they will be liberated in Evitts creek.

Foxx Paces Boston To 5-2 Victory Over Cleveland

Indians Usually Airtight Defense Cracks Up in Defeat

CLEVELAND, Aug. 1 (AP) — The Cleveland Indians' normally airtight defense all but collapsed today and Boston, pased by irrepressible Jimmy Foxx, made the most of it.

Pounding out a 5 to 2 victory, the New England wrecking crew dropped the Indians to second place as Detroit vanquished the Yankees. The Sox pounded two hurlers for 10 hits, including Foxx's 22nd homer of the season, and in winning salvaged one contest from their three-game series here.

Four errors, three in the seventh inning, spelled the Indians' undoing. Two were charged to usually reliable Ray Mack who let in a run by throwing wild to first after fumbling a grounder; and one was committed by Mel Harder who also threw past the first baseman to permit two unearned runs.

Tulsa Manager Says Dean on Way Back Up

Dallas, August 1 (AP)—Dizzy Dean is on the way back up, says Roy Johnson, the man who ought to know.

Johnson is manager of the Tulsa Oilers of the Texas League. The Chicago Cubs sent Dean to Tulsa in the hope of straightening out his ailing arm.

"Dizzy showed me more the other night (Monday night, when Dean beat Dallas 1-0 with a two-hit performance) than any time since he was bought by Chicago from St. Louis," declared Johnson.

Johnson, a coach with the Cubs when Dean went to Chicago, was there until this season and knows all about Dizzy's arm trouble.

"His arm doesn't hurt anymore, he can go nine innings and he wants to work," Johnson said.

"I'm planning to use him every third day. That's what Dizzy needs: Plenty of work. The reason he couldn't go nine innings when the Cubs sent him to Tulsa was that he had been too inactive.

"He was too soft when he came to me but now he's in shape again, thanks to this Texas League weather that's good for sore arms, and because he's got a lot of work. He's even partially abandoned his sidearm delivery he thought necessary to prevent hurting his arm.

"To show he's in shape, I want to call your attention to the fact that Dean has pitched three times since last Thursday night, going nine innings twice and doing relief work the other time."

Gephart Tossers Defeat Ridgeley

Kompanek of Gephart Playground bested Thompson of Ridgeley in a pitching duel Wednesday at Ridgeley and twirled his teammates to a 4-3 City Junior Softball League victory.

The LaSalle Jupers won by forfeit over the Police Boys' Club when the latter team failed to put in its appearance for a scheduled game at Constitution Park. The score:

GEPHART	010 000 3—4 8 2

Gephart—Kompanek and Hite. Ridgeley—Thompson and J. Lindsay.

North End Juniors Trim Barton Crew

The North End Playground Junior Merchants defeated the Barton Playground outfit 12-8 in a softball game yesterday on the North End field.

Wilson led the Merchants with three hits in four trips while Holbrock and Herboldsheimer each had a homer for North End. Gowans and Kyle paced the Bartonites with two blows apiece. The score:

BARTON	120 212 0— 8 8 4

Barton—Finzel and Gattens. North End—Hill and Beckman, Herboldsheimer.

The Football Draft

A long parade of football coaches, especially those connected with state universities and other R. O. T. C. spots, were something more than startled in the earlier belief that their squads would be decimated this next fall.

It so happens the President's call was for the Officers' Reserve Corps, not the R. O. T. C. The latter are all getting first-class military training in their colleges and would hardly qualify as officers until they graduate. Under these conditions they would hardly be taken from their military training this quickly.

There will, however, be a large number subject to the first draft, whenever that is made. Naturally no exceptions will be made because a man is an athlete. That only makes him better military material.

The Kentucky Rifleman

The phase "Kentucky rifleman" is authentic, for I have eaten the venison that followed in the wake of Paul Derringer's unerring aim on the trail of a deer.

In the last few years any number of batters have had a harder time in the wake of his fast ball, curve and control.

Paul Derringer has played a leading role in the Red drive for the last two years, despite the fact that seven years ago he was rated all through and on his way over the hill. That was the year that pitching for both Cardinals and Reds he won 7 games and lost 27, for the meager average of .206, far below tail-end form.

Six years after this dashing debacle Paul won 25 and lost 7, one of the most startling reversals I know in all sport.

Paul Derringer was born in Springfield, Kentucky, 34 years ago this coming October. He is around 6 feet 4, weighing 210 pounds.

He began unveiling his right arm in Danville in 1927, 13 years ago. In 1933 St. Louis traded Paul to Cincinnati for Leo Durocher and others now unknown. Both teams got star men.

Mandarin Durocher, now guarding the destinies of the Dodgers, would just as soon that Derringer had been traded to another club, preferably Brooklyn.

Paul is what you could call a serious athlete. There is no great amount of levity in his nature. Those who don't know him might call him surly or sulky, but he isn't. Quiet people are often thrown into this class, when they should be awarded chaplets of laurel or wild apple blossoms.

Outside of baseball he likes to hunt and he doesn't mind being alone.

Today Paul Derringer comes close to being the best all-around pitcher in baseball. He is certainly the smartest.

Six years after he turned in his .206 average with the Reds he gave the same city a winning average of .781. This upward leap of 575 points is close to the high-jump record of all time. But it still belongs to Paul Derringer.

He was on his way over the high hill seven years ago. He had made three world series starts and lost them all. He had taken more than his share of hammering. But a year ago in his older age he won 25 games and he'll win 25 or more this season.

His main specialty seems to be one and two-hitters. He has been closer to more no-hit games than any pitcher in the trade.

Unless some peculiar series of episodes takes place, the same Derringer will be heard from in loud tones in the next world series.

Another Entry

You can add the name of Freddy Fitzsimmons to this all-star list.

Freddy was 39 years old on Sunday. The Dodger star began pitching for Muskegon in the Central League just 20 years ago. He stuck with the Giants for 13 years until Bill Terry decided there was no longer any winning stuff left in Freddy's right arm.

So Terry traded him to Brooklyn.

This season, after twenty years of pitching, Fitzsimmons has already won 10 games for Brooklyn against a lone defeat. He has the highest pitching percentage in baseball. Having packed away 202 major league victories, Fitz is just warming up. He has an all-time life average around .600, which is nothing to leer at after you have been around since 1920.

Fitz is one of the fine characters of baseball. He is one of the main credits to the game that has carried him along into middle age — middle age as far as active competition is concerned.

And with ten out of eleven for 1940 he is now headed for his greatest year.

It is always a cheerful note to see these old-timers, many of them discarded as debris, prove that while life may not exactly begin at 40, it is far from being over at that advanced spot, even in the battle with raw youth.

Brooklyn has one of the great pitchers in Freddy Fitzsimmons, and Brooklyn is smart enough to know it.

Those Who Come Back

The most somber line ever written in sport was this — "They don't come back."

Nothing was ever farther from the truth. No other line has ever had a more depressing effect on some stars.

The true fact is they keep coming back. We have just related the two cases of Derringer and Fitzsimmons.

Then there is Schoolboy Rowe. The Tiger giant was given up for lost some time ago. He had his big year in Detroit six years ago—back in 1934 — when he won 24 games.

In 1938 Rowe never won a Tiger game. He was pitching for Beaumont. He had been skidding in a hurry. Last season he won 10 games and lost 12 for the Tigers.

But the Schoolboy is another man this season. He has been one of Detroit's winning factors with the best season he has known in many summers. Life isn't all a bed of violets or a long list of winning days.

N. E. Merchants To Hold Important Drill Today

The North End Merchants, co-champions of the City Softball League with Keegan's Gassers, will hold a practice on the North End Playground this evening to prep for the trip to Baltimore on Sunday, when the Merchants and the Gassers will participate in the Maryland Amateur Softball Association's tournament. The two teams are, along with the other teams in the league affiliates of the Association.

Manager "Sparky" Chisholm stated yesterday that he would start his star hurler, Allan Sheetz with Raymond "Dinks" Skidmore behind the plate. As for the rest of the team Chisholm plans on using his regualr lineup with the exception of "Whip" Kreitzburg who is out of his third base position with a badly cut arm. In Kreitzburg's place, Chisholm will start George Geatz, third sacker for the West Side ten of the City League, a privilege the Association gives member teams who enter the tourney.

Details of the trip will be discussed at a meeting of the Merchants after the practice. All players on the Merchant's roster who cannot attend the practice, are requested to get in touch with Manager Chisholm at 2695-J before Saturday evening.

Pauline Elizabeth Price, an infant, by Bessie May Yonker, her mother and next friend, vs. Donald Price. No. 15724 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The Bill of Complaint states that on the 8th day of November, 1936, the parties were married at Cumberland, Maryland, that immediately after the marriage the said defendant abandoned and deserted the plaintiff and declared his intention not to live with her, and that said abandonment has continued uninterruptedly from that time down to the present time, and that said abandonment is for at least three (3) years and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable hope of expectation of reconciliation.

That one child was born of said marriage on February 17, 1937, to wit: Robert Allen Price, and that the plaintiff is a resident of the State of Maryland and has been domiciled therein for more than two (2) years last past, and that the defendant is a resident of the State of New York and a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon this 31th day of July, 1940, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, that the plaintiff, by causing this Order to be inserted in some certain newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, before the 12th day of August, 1940, giving notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this Bill and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 26th day of August, 1940, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Virginia Mary Rowe, an infant, by Catherine Agnes Brant, her mother and next friend, vs. Richard Robert Rowe. No. 15721 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the Complainant from the Defendant a vinculo matrimonii. The bill of complaint states that the parties were married on the 7th day of June, 1938, in Cumberland, Maryland, that there were no children born of said marriage, that ever since said marriage the complainant has behaved herself as a faithful, chaste and affectionate wife towards the said defendant and that her entire conduct has always been above reproach, that the said defendant has committed adultery since said marriage; that the complainant has not lived or cohabited with the said defendant since she discovered his said adulterous conduct, nor has she pardoned or condoned the same, that the complainant has been a resident of the State of Maryland and Allegany County for more than two years prior to the filing of the Bill of Complaint in this case, and that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon this 10th day of July, 1940, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, ordered that the complainant, by causing a copy of this order to be published in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks, before the 12th day of August, 1940, giving notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this Bill and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 26th day of August, 1940, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Pauline Elizabeth Price, an infant, by Bessie May Yonker, her mother and next friend, vs. Donald Price.
No. 15724 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant a vinculo matrimonii.

The Bill of Complaint states that on the 8th day of November, 1936, the parties were married at Cumberland, Maryland, and that immediately after the marriage the said defendant abandoned and deserted the plaintiff and declared his intention not to live with her, and that said abandonment has continued uninterruptedly from that time down to the present time, and that said abandonment is for at least three (3) years and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of reconciliation.

That one child was born of said marriage on February 27, 1937, to wit: Robert Alice Price, and that the plaintiff is a resident of the State of Maryland, and has been domiciled therein for more than two (2) years last past; and that the defendant is a resident of the State of New York and a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon this 11th day of July, 1940, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County that the plaintiff, by causing this Order to be inserted in some certain newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, before the 12th day of August, 1940, giving notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this Bill and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 26th day of August, 1940, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Virginia Mary Rowe, an infant, by Catherine Agnes Brant, her mother and next friend, vs. Richard Robert Rowe.
No. 15721 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the Complainant from the Defendant a vinculo matrimonii. The bill of complaint states that the parties were married on the 7th day of June, 1938, in Cumberland, Maryland; that there were no children born of said marriage; that ever since said marriage the complainant has behaved herself as a faithful, chaste and affectionate wife towards the said defendant and that her entire conduct has always been above reproach; that the said defendant has committed adultery since said marriage; that the complainant has not lived or cohabited with the said defendant since she discovered his said adulterous conduct, nor has she pardoned or condoned the same; that the complainant has been a resident of the State of Maryland and Allegany County for more than two years prior to the filing of the Bill of Complaint in this case, and that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon this 10th day of July, 1940, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, ordered that the complainant, by causing a copy of this order to be published in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks, before the 12th day of August, 1940, giving notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill and warning him to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 26th day of August, 1940, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Celanese, Union Report Progress In Contract Talks

Attitude of Both Groups 'Conciliatory' Small and Dundon Announce

The present negotiations between Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, and the Celanese Corporation are proceeding in a most satisfactory manner representatives of both the union and the company announced last night.

President James A. Dundon, of the union, stated that the deliberations to date had been conducted on a "most satisfactory basis."

Dundon's statement was substantiated by Fred T. Small, plant manager, who declared the relationship between the union and the management had been "conciliatory," ever since the conferences started.

"I believe everybody is to be congratulated on the general temper of the negotiations," Small said.

Dundon To Speak

Dundon said he would make a radio talk today at 5:30 p. m. to "give the public the present standing of the negotiations, the requests of the union and the attitude of both the union and the company."

The union president declared, "it has been mutually agreed by representatives of the company and representatives of the union to release to legitimate representatives of the press the developmens and accomplishments of the present negotiations when deemed necessary."

Meeting Called

Dundon also announced that he had called a special meeting of the membership Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., at the textile union hall to discuss the present status of the negotiations.

As proof of the conciliatory attitude adopted by both the management and the union in the present conferences, Dundon cited the fact that representatives on both sides had agreed to extend the date of notification of terminaion from Aug. 5 to Aug. 12. This is in addition to the original extension of thirty days.

Program For Band Concert Announced

The Arion Band of Frostburg, on the invitation of Mayor Harry Irvine, will give a concert Sunday evening at 7 p. m. at Constitution park.

The band was organized in 1877 and has had only four directors. R. Hilary Lancaster, the present director, said Conrad Nickel was the first director and served for five years. He was followed by John Miller who served for four years. Then George Vogtman took the helm and served for the amazing time of forty-four years. Mr. Lancaster has served for ten years.

The band is composed of fifty-two musicians and one of them, William J. Crowe, 534 Fairview avenue, this city, has been a member for the past fifty-seven years. He is the oldest member in point of service.

The following program will be given here Sunday:

Mighty Monarch, March, William M. Talbott; Primorse Intermezzo, G. E. Holmes; Golden Nuggets, Grand Medley Overture, C. L. Barnhouse; God Bless America, Irving Berlin; The Wanderer, Polka, Fred P. Harlow; Trombone solo by Darrel Zellers; The Woodpecker Song, Fox Trot, Eldo Di Lazzaro; Fountain of Youth Overture, K. L. King; Drum Major Man March, Paul Yoder; Missouri Waltz, Frederick Knight Logan; Sounds from the Sunny South, Emil Iseman; Troopers Tribunal March, Henry Fillmore, and Star Spangled Banner.

Husband of Former Local Girl Dies in Ohio Train Disaster

Ernest C. Durbin, of New Castle, Pa., one of the victims of the train wreck on the Pennsylvania railroad, near Akron, O., Wednesday night, had several relatives in Cumberland.

Mrs. Thekla D. Price, 424 North Mechanic street, Miss Mary Lou Doerner, 424 North Mechanic street, are sisters-in-law and Wyand F. Doerner, 14 North Johnson street, is a brother-in-law. Mr. Durbin's wife is the former Miss Coletta Doerner, of Cumberland.

Those leaving Cumberland yesterday for New Castle to attend the funeral were Miss Thekla Price, Miss Mary Lou Doerner, Miss Anna L. Doerner, and Wyand F. Doerner.

Five Kiwanians Speak At Weekly Meeting

Cumberland Kiwanians got a glimpse into the personal histories of five of their fellow-members at the club's weekly luncheon-meeting yesterday at the Fort Cumberland hotel.

The members who gave five-minute autobiographies in an unusual program arranged by Forrest Brown, chairman of the Kiwanis education committee, were Frank Stuart Rowe, Lloyd Rawlings, J. W. Holmes, Joseph Klawan and Alex Buchanan.

Next Thursday's meeting will be held at the club's Sunshine Camp, President W. M. Somerville announced. Friday evening of next week, the members will also go to the camp for an entertainment program to be presented by the girls enjoying a two-week vacation as guests of the club.

Illness Is Fatal To Charles Wilson

Former Resident of Cumberland Succumbs in California

Charles C. Wilson, formerly of Cumberland, died Tuesday in a hospital for ex-service men at Santa Monica, Cal.

Mr. Wilson first came here while enroute with a group of soldiers to an eastern port of embarkment during the World war. After the war he returned to Cumberland and conducted the Wilson Electric Shop, 155 North Mechanic street.

He moved to California about ten years ago and entered the United States Government service in connection with the Veterans Bureau.

Mr. Wilson was a member of Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B. P. O. Elks.

D. F. Stewart Succumbs

Daniel Franklin Stewart, 83, retired farmer, died yesterday morning at his home at Gilpintown, near Flintstone, following a lingering illness.

Mr. Stewart was a son of the late John and Becky Stewart.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Sara Jane Kifer Stewart; two children, Harry Stewart and Mrs. Belva Diehl, both of Cumberland; a brother, John Stewart, of Williams road; nine grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

C. M. James Rites Held

Last rites for Claiborne Morrison James, 68, prominent Cumberland construction engineer, who died Tuesday at his home on Buckingham road, The Dingle, were conducted yesterday at the home.

The Rev. Percy C. Adams, pastor of St. George's Episcopal church, Mt. Savage, officiated. Burial was made in Rose Hill cemetery.

Pallbearers, all business associates of Mr. James, were Burton Coit, Brenner Beckner, Thomas Connelly, David Trump, Michael Byrne and Notley Barnard.

Mrs. C. N. Berry Dies

Mrs. Charles N. Berry, 93, mother of Peter E. Berry, 311 Washington street, died at her home in Fredericksburg, Va., Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Berry returned home yesterday after attending the funeral.

Marine Corps Is Open To Maryland Men

Sgt. Harry Leon, USMC, non-commissioned officer in charge, and Sgt. Robert L. Green, USMC, his assistant, will be glad to interview young men who are interested in joining the Marine Corps in the Marine Corps recruiting station located in Rooms 323 and 325, Post Office building, Baltimore, which is headquarters for the State of Maryland.

Assignment of an unlimited quota for an indefinite period has been announced.

Applicants must be between the ages of 18 and 25 years, single from five feet, four inches to six feet, two inches in height, have an average education, and be in good physical condition. Those who have ever been convicted by a judge or jury cannot be considered.

Those who pass the physical examination, and are otherwise qualified, will be sent to Marine Barracks, Parris Island, S. C., for initial training.

The Marine Corps, when the current expansion is completed, will be 34,000 strong.

Barton Man Is Held On Robbery Charge

James Perkins, Barton, was arrested yesterday by State Policemen George W. Miller and Austin H. Bikle in connection with the robbery of Elizabeth Schramm's store at Barton, Wednesday about 5:30 p. m.

States Attorney Morgan C. Harris, who questioned Perkins, said he admitted breaking a rear window, entering the store and taking $25.

Harris said Perkins took the officers to Westernport where he had hidden part of the money which was recovered. Perkins will be given a hearing in the near future.

AAA Directors To Attend Institute At College Park

Conference Will Bring Together Officers, Employes and Leaders

Allegany county AAA directors announced their intention of attending the first annual Maryland Cooperative Institute at College Park, August 13-15.

The purpose and object of the institute, County Agent R. F. McHenry said, is to bring together officers, employees, leaders, and members of farmers' cooperative organizations of Maryland and adjoining states for a practical discussion and interchange of ideas on problems connected with cooperative marketing of farm products and cooperative purchasing of supplies.

Highlights of the program will be discussion on the responsibilities of members, managers and directors of cooperatives; sound cooperative management and credit policies; improving membership relations, building patronage and maintaining sound records and accounts; lowering the cost of distribution, relations of cooperatives to the public, and the influence of cooperation in American life.

Noted leaders in the cooperative field will address the institute, McHenry said. Thursday afternoon, delegates will be conducted on a tour of the University of Maryland and the agricultural reserach center at Beltsville. A banquet and entertainment will be held Wednesday night.

The university will place its facilities at the service of those who attend. The new dormitories and dining hall will provide rooms and meals. A rate of $6.50 for the three days will include all costs of room, meals and banquet.

Election of AAA Officers Will Be Held August 9

Committees Meet Here To Formulate Plans for Ensuing Year

Triple A committees representing the four sections of Allegany county conferred at the court house yesterday to draw up plans for the 1941 program.

Since the Triple A year ends August 31, County Agent R. F. McHenry said it will be necessary to elect a new slate of officers and formulate plans for conducting the work for the new year.

Plans were made to hold elections for the four sections of the county August 9. One election will be held at Flintstone for the Flintstone, Oldtown and Little Orleanns section.

Two will be held in Cumberland, one for the North Branch and that section north of Cumberland including Union Grove and Valley road, the other for farmers in the Potomac Valley, Mt. Savage and Corrigansville section. The other election will be held at Lonaconing for the Georges Creek area.

The elections will all be conducted Aug. 9 with members either voting by ballot or by mail.

Richard Greene Suffers Broken Right Arm

Young Greene was treated at Allegany hospital and discharged.

NOPE, YOU'RE WRONG!—This is not an arrest, but Officer Michael Johnson, of the University of Maryland, giving a preview lesson on safe driving to Miss Anna Lee Mudd, 4-H Club member from Prince George's County. Safe driving will be one of the major considerations at the anual 4-H Club Week this year which has as its theme "Farm, Home, and Highway Safety."

University of Maryland To Be Host to 4-H Clubs

COLLEGE PARK — Cognizant of the fact that accident fatalities are on the increase in Maryland, officials of the annual 4-H Club Week at the University of Maryland have decided to stress "Farm, Home, and Highway Safety" as the theme of the annual meeting this year.

Over 600 boys and girls from Maryland's twenty-three counties, representing the 500 4-H Clubs in the state, will gather on the campus of the University for a week's stay from August 5-10 under the sponsorship of the Extension Service of the University.

During the week the delegates will attend courses in clothing, crafts, home management, poultry, recreation, leadership, dairying, electricity, personal grooming, music, social courtesy, livestock production, farm management, foods, and public speaking.

Carrying out the theme, the delegates will view a safe driving exhibition through the courtesy of the Maryland Farm Bureau, receive individual lessons in safe driving, present demonstrations, and compete in a public speaking contest with "Safety" as the subject.

The safety project for the 4-H Clubs in Maryland was worked out by the Extension Service 4-H Club officers in cooperation with the Highway Education Board of Washington, D. C.

Maryland is the first state in which an extensive program of education of 4-H youth to safety practices has been attempted, and the results are "extremely gratifying" according to E. G. Jenkins, State Boys' Club leader.

The program has proven so satisfactory to the Highway Education Board that plans are now underway to extend adaptations of the Maryland 4-H Club Safety Program to a dozen other states within the next year by that national organization.

Prominent speakers during the week will include Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University; Dr. T. B. Symons, and Miss Venia Kellar director and assistant director of the Extension Service; E. G. Jenkins, and Mylo Downey, State and Assistant State Boys' Club leaders; Miss Dorothy Emerson, State Girls' Club leader; and Charles Potter, U. S. D. A. regional 4-H Club advisor.

Forty-one Allegany County 4-H Club Members Will Attend Annual Event

Safety will be the theme of the twenty-second annual 4-H Club Week program at College Park Aug. 5-10 which will be attended by forty-one boys and girls from Allegany county.

Six will leave tomorrow morning to attend the initial session of the State All-Star 4-H Council. They are Jessie Bryant, Jane Gilchrist, Pauline House, Helen Lechliter, Roberta Ritchie and Miss Margaret T. Loar, assistant home demonstration agent.

Safety in the home, on the farm and on the highways will be featured in the week's program. Among the speakers are Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland; Dr. T. B. Symons, director of extension service and Miss Venia M. Kellar and E. I. Oswald, assistant directors.

Kathleen Brant, Long; Minnie Duckworth, Keyser, W. Va.; Theresa Lee Eyler and Sara Jane Long, La Vale; Mabel Kiser, Pinto; Sophia Powell, Ellerslie; Elizabeth Reid, Seibert; Eleanor Miller and Ann Powers, Lonaconing.

The second party will leave by bus from Cumberland at 8 p. m. Monday.

Gateway Chatter

by News Staff Members

Glancing through the premium list for the twenty-third annual Cumberland fair Gateway Chatter learns that exhibits were held in the State armory here in 1918, 1919, 1920, 1921, 1922 and 1923.

In those years it was necessary to limit various exhibits on account of the lack of space.

In 1924 the fair was held at the new fair grounds purchased by the Cumberland Fair Association.

—o—

The Cumberland fair has increased interest in rural organizations, stimulated greater and better agricultural production and helped to develop a better attitude between the city and rural districts.

The fair association is composed of 300 stockholders which include some of the leading business men and farmers of this section.

A News correspondent recently was assigned the task of taking her young brother, 11, to the dentist.

—o—

The same sister took the same young brother to a show not so long ago. One of the features of the show was one of these bouncing ball affairs with the audience supposed to sing the words of the songs flashed on the screen.

As usual, the response wasn't too hearty. In fact nobody sang at all except the eleven-year-old youngster. When the popular anthem, "God Bless America" started, the eleven-year-old not only sang with all the lusty vigor at his command but also insisted on standing up. It was practically a solo.

At the conclusion of the feature members of the audience were invited to inform the management if they enjoyed it. The youngster immediately told his sister that he had enjoyed it very much and considered it his duty to tell the management that he had. And he did.

Beware of the "Spanish Swindle" Inspector Warns

Western Maryland Residents Are Receiving Misleading Letters

A large number of persons in Western Maryland and nearby counties in West Virginia are receiving letters from Mexico, which is part of a scheme of using the mails to defraud, K. E. Moyer, United States post office inspector, said here yesterday. Moyer said the scheme is well-known to postal authorities as the "Spanish Swindle."

The person who receives such a letter is told that he has been recommended by a mutual acquaintance as a person who can be relied upon in a very important confidential matter. The writer states that his future as well as that of his "dear daughter" are at stake; that he has a large fortune of approximately $285,000 hidden in a secret compartment of a trunk in a United States Customs House; that he is confined in jail in Mexico on a bankrupcy charge, and that if the person to whom he has written will go to Mexico and contact him through a certain friend and pay all necessary expenses so that the writer can get out of jail, he will share one-third of the fortune with the person who has come to his rescue to compensate the latter for all of his trouble.

There have been persons in the past who have taken such letters seriously and made trips to Mexico only to be relieved of all of their funds which they took with them, and any persons in this vicinity receiving such letters are warned to disregard them.

Prison Terms are Meted Out to Two Habitual Drinkers

Frank J. Porter and Louis Donius Appeal Sentences; Taken to Jail

Two men, labeled by police as "habitual drinkers", were sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction when arraigned yesterday in Trial Magistrates court on charges of vagrancy.

The men, Louis Donius and Frank J. "Jack" Porter, despite their criminal records, pleaded not guilty to the charges. Both appealed the sentence meted out by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., and were jailed in lieu of $500 bond each to await the October term of court.

The two men are believed by police to have the largest number of convictions in police court for being drunk, disorderly and panhandling of any of the "regular" jail frequenters.

Donius, 41, who is entry No. 1 in the present city criminal docket, has also served time for forgery, vagrancy and trespassing. Since November, 1939, he has served 130 days in the city and county jails, being listed in the city docket seventeen other times.

Porter, whose record is shorter, served one year in the House of Correction on a charge of larceny. He told Magistrate Bruce that he had a job and would stay sober, but his plea went unheeded.

Police said Donius, who has given addresses on both Virginia avenue and Roberts street, is the most notorious of the known drunkards around Cumberland. Porter has no address.

H. W. Smith Speaks In Hagerstown

Improved Relationship between Business and Public Is Discussed

An improved relationship between business and the public which started in 1938 and has culminated with the nomination of Wendell Willkie for president was cited yesterday by H. W. Smith, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, in an address before the Hagerstown Kiwanis Club.

Speaking on the subject, "Improved Understanding between Business and the Public," Mr. Smith declared that business was greatly misunderstood prior to 1936. After that, indications of a change of attitude began to sprout up, he said.

Business made plenty of mistakes prior to 1936, Smith admitted, including the serious one of having failed to keep in touch with public opinion.

Consequently, the speaker continued, business has been in disfavor with the federal government in recent years and much restrictive legislation was passed.

However, since 1936, the attitude of the public has been gradually changing in regard to business, Smith said. The nomination of Willkie, a businessman, and the findings of the Gallup poll which show that the public wants no more regulatory measures passed against business, clearly indicate this fact, he declared.

Smith in his address, delivered before a large audience at the Hotel Ambassador, went back to 1870 to trace the first example of federal regulation, the so-called Transportation act.

Hannah Golladay Wins Declamation Contest at Farmer's Annual Picnic

Hannah Golliday, of the Bedford road 4-H Club, won the declamation contest at the annual Farmer's picnic of the Farm Bureau which was attended by 1500 Allegany countians.

Speaking on the subject, "Safety in the Home," Miss Golliday defeated Pauline House and Jack Peck and won the right to represent Allegany county in the state-wide contest at College Park the week of August 5.

Another feature of the picnic was one of the most successful style shows ever put on by girls in county 4-H organizations, Miss Margaret Loar, assistant home demonstration agent, reported.

Ten girls modeled various style costumes they made themselves. Miss Loar described the various garments worn by the models and Mary Knight, of Pleasant Grove, provided piano music for the program.

Participants were—Pauline House, of Pleasant Grove, in an official 4-H Club uniform; Betty O'Neal, of Union Grove, cotton school dress; Virginia Slonaker, Union Grove, best rayon dress; Ada Ford, Cumberland, wool dress; Marjorie Hinkle, Pleasant Grove, wool dress; Anna Golladay, Bedford road, evening dress; Ruth Johnson, Cumberlanr, spectator sports costume; Helen Lechliter, Cresaptown, evening dress; Edna May Johnson, Cumberland, evening dress, rayon; and Miss House, in a best dress.

Picnickers at the Union Grove Camp meeting ground participated in a full program of sports arranged to Assistant County Agent Harry Beggs. The Barton band provided music and there were other entertainment features.

Albert O'Neal was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements. He was assisted by County Agent R. F. McHenry, Wilbur Perrin, Beggs and Miss Loar.

Fall Is Fatal To Tight Rope Walker Here

Mrs. Edith Dobell Dies in Hospital Two Hours after Falling

A 37-year-old tight rope walker died today at 12:50 a. m. at Memorial hospital two hours after tripping and plunging fifty feet while putting on her act at the Community Ball Park, last night.

The victim, Mrs. Edith Dobell, of Danville, Ill., was rushed to the hospital after hurtling from the wire as her husband, Fred Dobell, and approximately 2,000 spectators watched. She suffered a fractured skull, a broken left arm and a crushed chest in the fall.

Mrs. Dobell, trim and jaunty in her gay costume, climbed the ladder to the wire about 11 p. m. as the Keystone Modern Shows swung into their final entertainment of the evening.

Pretty Mrs. Dobell, the first act on the program, smiled and waved to the swarm of upturned faces as she grasped her balancing pole and stepped on the wire.

The artist gracefully tripped about two-thirds of the way across the forty-foot wire when she slipped, lost her balance, and fell to the ground landing with a thud on her right side.

The startled audience was silent for a few seconds as the spectators stared at the motionless form lying on the sawdust sprinkled earth.

Made Debut at Fairgo

Then a child shrieked, other people shouted and many rushed forward. Members of the show assisted by Officer C. J. Stouffer held back the crowd while members of the troop carried the injured woman to a car and started for the hospital.

Mrs. Dobell, a member of the Four Dobell's act, joined the Keystone Modern Shows a week ago. Eight years ago, Mrs. Dobell made her debut as a tightrope walker at Fairgo, members of the show recalled last night.

A Cumberland man who witnessed the accident declared, "she was almost two-thirds of the way across the wire when she started to run the way tightrope walkers do when they get to the end of the wire.

Foot Slipped

"I saw her foot slip, I think it was her left. She lost her balance completely and missed grabbing the wire as she shot down. She hit the ground with a thud and never moved after that."

Another man who saw the artist tumble, said "she was all crumpled up and her face covered with blood."

Mrs. Dobell, the mother of a six-year-old daughter, Helen, who travels with the show.

Thermometer Drops To Eighty-seven Degrees

The thermometer "sank" to 87 degrees yesterday and Cumberlanders experienced some of the relief they had been looking for since the beginning of the record-breaking heat wave July 18.

The weather forecast for today is fair, and partly cloudy and warmer Saturday followed by showers that night.

The mercury has hovered in the 90 and 100 degree region most of the past week and any relief, however slight is noticeable.

Two Men Injured In Minor Mishaps

Do Not Let Milk Stand on Hot Porches, Doctor Says

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, said yesterday that people should not let their milk remain on porches in the hot sun as milk will not only sour easily, but bacteria in the milk will multiply past the line of safety.

All Cumberland distributors have complied with the strict regulations of the health department, and supply grade A milk, Franklin said, but the public must be sure to safeguard the milk so as not to nullify the precautions that have been taken, he added.

Celanese, Union Report Progress In Contract Talks

Attitude of Both Groups 'Conciliatory' Small and Dundon Announce

The present negotiations between Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, and the Celanese Corporation are proceeding in a most satisfactory manner representatives of both the union and the company announced last night.

President James A. Dundon, of the union, stated that the deliberations to date had been conducted on a "most satisfactory basis."

Dundon's statement was substantiated by Fred T. Small, plant manager, who declared the relationship between the union and the management had been "conciliatory," ever since the conferences started.

"I believe everybody is to be congratulated on the general temper of the negotiations," Small said.

Dundon To Speak

Dundon said he would make a radio talk today at 5:30 p. m. to "give the public the present standing of the negotiations, the requests of the union and the attitude of both the union and the company."

The union president declared, "it has been mutually agreed by representatives of the company and representatives of the union to release to legitimate representatives of the press the developmens and accomplishments of the present negotiations when deemed necessary."

Meeting Called

Dundon also announced that he had called a special meeting of the membership Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., at the textile union hall to discuss the present status of the negotiations.

As proof of the conciliatory attitude adopted by both the management and the union in the present conferences, Dundon cited the fact that representatives on both sides had agreed to extend the date of notification of terminaion from Aug. 5 to Aug. 12. This is in addition to the original extension of thirty days.

Program For Band Concert Announced

The Arion Band of Frostburg, on the invitation of Mayor Harry Irvine, will give a concert Sunday evening at 7 p. m. at Constitution park.

The band was organized in 1877 and has had only four directors. R. Hilary Lancaster, the present director, said Conrad Nickel was the first director and served for five years. He was followed by John Miller who served for four years. Then George Vogtman took the helm and served for the amazing time of forty-four years. Mr. Lancaster has served for ten years.

The band is composed of fifty-two musicians and one of them, William J. Crowe, 534 Fairview avenue, this city, has been a member for the past fifty-seven years. He is the oldest member in point of service.

The following program will be given here Sunday:

States Attorney Morgan C. Harris, who questioned Perkins, said he admitted breaking a rear window, entering the store and taking $25.

Harris said Perkins took the officers to Westernport where he had hidden part of the money which was recovered. Perkins will be given a hearing in the near future.

AAA Directors To Attend Institute At College Park

Conference Will Bring Together Officers, Employes and Leaders

Allegany county AAA directors announced their intention of attending the first annual Maryland Cooperative Institute at College Park, August 13-15.

The purpose and object of the institute, County Agent R. F. McHenry said, is to bring together officers, employees, leaders, and members of farmers' cooperative organizations of Maryland and adjoining states for a practical discussion and interchange of ideas on problems connected with cooperative marketing of farm products and cooperative purchasing of supplies.

Highlights of the program will be discussion on the responsibilities of members, managers and directors of cooperatives; sound cooperative management and credit policies; improving membership relations, building patronage and maintaining sound records and accounts; lowering the cost of distribution, relations of cooperatives to the public, and the influence of cooperation in American life.

Noted leaders in the cooperative field will address the institute, McHenry said. Thursday afternoon, delegates will be conducted on a tour of the University of Maryland and the agricultural reserach center at Beltsville. A banquet and entertainment will be held Wednesday night.

The university will place its facilities at the service of those who attend. The new dormitories and dining hall will provide rooms and meals. A rate of $6.50 for the three days will include all costs of room, meals and banquet.

Election of AAA Officers Will Be Held August 9

Committees Meet Here To Formulate Plans for Ensuing Year

Triple A committees representing the four sections of Allegany county conferred at the court house yesterday to draw up plans for the 1941 program.

Since the Triple A year ends August 31, County Agent R. F. McHenry said it will be necessary to elect a new slate of officers and formulate plans for conducting the work for the new year.

Plans were made to hold elections for the four sections of the county August 9. One election will be held at Flintstone for the Flintstone, Oldtown and Little Orleanns section.

Two will be held in Cumberland, one for the North Branch and that section north of Cumberland including Union Grove and Valley road, the other for farmers in the Potomac Valley, Mt. Savage and Corrigansville section. The other election will be held at Lonaconing for the Georges Creek area.

The elections will all be conducted Aug. 9 with members either voting by ballot or by mail.

Members who attended yesterday's meeting included Albert O'Neal, Union Grove; Wilbur Perrin, Flintstone; James A. NOPE, YOU'RE WRONG!—This is not an arrest, but Officer Michael Johnson, of the University of Maryland, giving a preview lesson on safe driving to Miss Anna Lee Mudd, 4-H Club member from Prince George's County. Safe driving will be one of the major considerations at the anual 4-H Club Week this year which has as its theme "Farm, Home, and Highway Safety."

University of Maryland To Be Host to 4-H Clubs

COLLEGE PARK — Cognizant of the fact that accident fatalities are on the increase in Maryland, officials of the annual 4-H Club Week at the University of Maryland have decided to stress "Farm, Home, and Highway Safety" as the theme of the annual meeting this year.

Over 600 boys and girls from Maryland's twenty-three counties, representing the 500 4-H Clubs in the state, will gather on the campus of the University for a week's stay from August 5-10 under the sponsorship of the Extension Service of the University.

During the week the delegates will attend courses in clothing, crafts, home management, poultry, recreation, leadership, dairying, electricity, personal grooming, music, social courtesy, livestock production, farm management, foods, and public speaking.

Carrying out the theme, the delegates will view a safe driving exhibition through the courtesy of the Maryland Farm Bureau, receive individual lessons in safe driving, present demonstrations, and compete in a public speaking contest with "Safety" as the subject.

The safety project for the 4-H Clubs in Maryland was worked out by the Extension Service 4-H Club officers in cooperation with the Highway Education Board of Washington, D. C.

Maryland is the first state in which an extensive program of education of 4-H youth to safety practices has been attempted, and the results are "extremely gratifying" according to E. G. Jenkins, State Boys' Club leader.

The program has proven so satisfactory to the Highway Education Board that plans are now underway to extend adaptations of the Maryland 4-H Club Safety Program to a dozen other states within the next year by that national organization.

Prominent speakers during the week will include Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University; Dr. T. B. Symons, and Miss Venia Kellar, director and assistant director of the Extension Service; E. G. Jenkins, and Mylo Downey, State and Assistant State Boys' Club leaders; Miss Dorothy Emerson, State Girls' Club leader; and Charles Potter, U. S. D. A. regional 4-H Club advisor.

Forty-one Allegany County 4-H Club Members Will Attend Annual Event

Safety will be the theme of the twenty-second annual 4-H Club Week program at College Park Aug. 5-10 which will be attended by forty-one boys and girls from Allegany county.

Six will leave tomorrow morning to attend the initial session of the State All-Star 4-H Council. They are Jessie Bryant, Jane Gilchrist, Pauline House, Helen Lechliter, Roberta Ritchie and Miss Margaret T. Loar, assistant home demonstration agent.

Safety in the home, on the farm and on the highways will be featured in the week's program. Among the speakers are Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland; Dr. T. B. Symons, director of extension service and Miss Venia M. Kellar and E. I. Oswald, assistant directors.

Kathleen Brant, Long; Minnie Duckworth, Keyser, W. Va.; Theresa Lee Eyler and Sara Jane Long, La Vale; Mabel Kiser, Pinto; Sophia Powell, Ellerslie; Elizabeth Reid, Seibert; Eleanor Miller and Ann Powers, Lonaconing.

The second party will leave by bus from Cumberland at 8 p. m. Monday.

Gateway Chatter

by News Staff Members

Glancing through the premium list for the twenty-third annual Cumberland fair Gateway Chatter learns that exhibits were held in the State armory here in 1918, 1919, 1920, 1921, 1922 and 1923.

In those years it was necessary to limit various exhibits on account of the lack of space.

In 1924 the fair was held at the new fair grounds purchased by the Cumberland Fair Association.

—o—

The Cumberland fair has increased interest in rural organizations, stimulated greater and better agricultural production and helped to develop a better attitude between the city and rural districts.

—o—

The fair association is composed of 300 stockholders which include some of the leading business men and farmers of this section.

There is usually a great demand at the close of the fair for most articles on display and exhibitors generally get good prices for vegetables, fruits, grain, meat, honey, jelly, preserves, canned goods and the like.

Beware of the "Spanish Swindle" Inspector Warns

Western Maryland Residents Are Receiving Misleading Letters

A large number of persons in Western Maryland and nearby counties in West Virginia are receiving letters from Mexico, which is part of a scheme of using the mails to defraud, K. E. Moyer, United States post office inspector, said here yesterday. Moyer said the scheme is well-known to postal authorities as the "Spanish Swindle."

The person who receives such a letter is told that he has been recommended by a mutual acquaintance as a person who can be relied upon in a very important confidential matter. The writer states that his future as well as that of his "dear daughter" are at stake; that he has a large fortune of approximately $285,000 hidden in a secret compartment of a trunk in a United States Customs House; that he is confined in jail in Mexico on a bankrupcy charge, and that if the person to whom he has written will go to Mexico and contact him through a certain friend and pay all necessary expenses so that the writer can get out of jail, he will share one-third of the fortune with the person who has come to his rescue to compensate the latter for all of his trouble.

There have been persons in the past who have taken such letters seriously and made trips to Mexico only to be relieved of all of their funds which they took with them, and any persons in this vicinity receiving such letters are warned to disregard them.

Prison Terms are Meted Out to Two Habitual Drinkers

Frank J. Porter and Louis Donius Appeal Sentences; Taken to Jail

Two men, labeled by police as "habitual drinkers", were sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction when arraigned yesterday in Trial Magistrates court on charges of vagrancy.

The men, Louis Donius and Frank J. "Jack" Porter, despite their criminal records, pleaded not guilty to the charges. Both appealed the sentence meted out by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., and were jailed in lieu of $500 bond each to await the October term of court.

The two men are believed by police to have the largest number of convictions in police court for being drunk, disorderly and panhandling of any of the "regular" jail frequenters.

Donius, 41, who is entry No. 1 in the present city criminal docket, has also served time for forgery, vagrancy and trespassing. Since November, 1939, he has served 130 days in the city and county jails, being listed in the city docket seventeen other times.

Porter, whose record is shorter, served one year in the House of Correction on a charge of larceny. He told Magistrate Bruce that he had a job and would stay sober, but his plea went unheeded.

Police said Donius, who has given addresses on both Virginia avenue and Roberts street, is the most notorious of the known drunkards around Cumberland. Porter has no address.

H. W. Smith Speaks In Hagerstown

Improved Relationship between Business and Public Is Discussed

An improved relationship between business and the public which started in 1938 and has culminated with the nomination of Wendell Willkie for president was cited yesterday by H. W. Smith, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, in an address before the Hagerstown Kiwanis Club.

Speaking on the subject, "Improved Understanding between Business and the Public," Mr. Smith declared that business was greatly misunderstood prior to 1936. After that, indications of a change of attitude began to sprout up, he said.

Business made plenty of mistakes prior to 1936, Smith admitted, including the serious one of having failed to keep in touch with public opinion.

Consequently, the speaker continued, business has been in disfavor with the federal government in recent years and much restrictive legislation was passed.

However, since 1936, the attitude of the public has been gradually changing in regard to business, Smith said. The nomination of Willkie, a businessman, and the findings of the Gallup poll which show that the public wants no more regulatory measures passed against business, clearly indicate this fact, he declared.

Smith in his address, delivered before a large audience at the Hotel Ambassador, went back to 1870 to trace the first example of federal regulation, the so-called Transportation act.

Hannah Golladay Wins Declamation Contest at Farmer's Annual Picnic

Hannah Golliday, of the Bedford road 4-H Club, won the declamation contest at the annual Farmer's picnic of the Farm Bureau which was attended by 1500 Allegany countians.

Speaking on the subject, "Safety in the Home," Miss Golliday defeated Pauline House and Jack Peck and won the right to represent Allegany county in the state-wide contest at College Park the week of August 5.

Another feature of the picnic was one of the most successful style shows ever put on by girls in county 4-H organizations, Miss Margaret Loar, assistant home demonstration agent, reported.

Ten girls modeled various style costumes they made themselves. Miss Loar described the various garments worn by the models and Mary Knight, of Pleasant Grove, provided piano music for the program.

Participants were—Pauline House, of Pleasant Grove, in an official 4-H Club uniform; Betty O'Neal, of Union Grove, cotton school dress; Virginia Slonaker, Union Grove, best rayon dress; Ada Ford, Cumberland, wool dress; Marjorie Hinkle, Pleasant Grove, wool dress; Anna Golladay, Bedford road, evening dress; Ruth Johnson, Cumberlanr, spectator sports costume; Helen Lechliter, Cresaptown, evening dress; Edna May Johnson, Cumberland, evening dress, rayon; and Miss House, in a best dress.

Picnickers at the Union Grove Camp meeting ground participated in a full program of sports arranged to Assistant County Agent Harry Beggs. The Barton band provided music and there were other entertainment features.

Albert O'Neal was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements. He was assisted by County Agent R. F. McHenry, Wilbur Perrin, Beggs and Miss Loar.

Fall Is Fatal To Tight Rope Walker Here

Mrs. Edith Dobell Dies in Hospital Two Hours after Falling

A 37-year-old tight rope walker died today at 12:50 a. m. at Memorial hospital two hours after tripping and plunging fifty feet while putting on her act at the Community Ball Park, last night.

The victim, Mrs. Edith Dobell, of Danville, Ill., was rushed to the hospital after hurtling from the wire as her husband, Fred Dobell, and approximately 2,000 spectators watched. She suffered a fractured skull, a broken left arm and a crushed chest in the fall.

Mrs. Dobell, trim and jaunty in her gay costume, climbed the ladder to the wire about 11 p. m. as the Keystone Modern Shows swung into their final entertainment of the evening.

Pretty Mrs. Dobell, the first act on the program, smiled and waved to the swarm of upturned faces as she grasped her balancing pole and stepped on the wire.

The artist gracefully tripped about two-thirds of the way across the forty-foot wire when she slipped, lost her balance, and fell to the ground landing with a thud on her right side.

The startled audience was silent for a few seconds as the spectators stared at the motionless form lying on the sawdust sprinkled earth.

Made Debut at Fairgo

Then a child shrieked, other people shouted and many rushed forward. Members of the show assisted by Officer C. J. Stouffer held back the crowd while members of the troop carried the injured woman to a car and started for the hospital.

Mrs. Dobell, a member of the Four Dobell's act, joined the Keystone Modern Shows a week ago. Eight years ago, Mrs. Dobell made her debut as a tightrope walker at Fairgo, members of the show recalled last night.

A Cumberland man who witnessed the accident declared, "she was almost two-thirds of the way across the wire when she started to run the way tightrope walkers do when they get to the end of the wire.

Foot Slipped

"I saw her foot slip, I think it was her left. She lost her balance completely and missed grabbing the wire as she shot down. She hit the ground with a thud and never moved after that."

Another man who saw the artist tumble, said "she was all crumpled up and her face covered with blood."

Mrs. Dobell, the mother of a six-year-old daughter, Helen, who travels with the show.

Thermometer Drops To Eighty-seven Degrees

The thermometer "sank" to 87 degrees yesterday and Cumberlanders experienced some of the relief they had been looking for since the beginning of the record-breaking heat wave July 18.

The weather forecast for today is fair, and partly cloudy and warmer Saturday followed by showers that night.

The mercury has hovered in the 90 and 100 degree region most of the past week and any relief, however slight is noticeable.

Two Men Injured In Minor Mishaps

Two 29-year-old men were treated yesterday at Allegany hospital after being injured in minor mishaps.

Richard Collins, 308 Pennsylvania avenue, a B. & O. employe, had the little toe on his right foot hurt when a hook fell on it yesterday morning.

Do Not Let Milk Stand on Hot Porches, Doctor Says

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, said yesterday that people should not let their milk remain on porches in the hot sun as milk will not only sour easily, but bacteria in the milk will multiply past the line of safety.

All Cumberland distributors have complied with the strict regulations of the health department, and supply grade A milk, Franklin said, but the public must be sure to safeguard the milk so as not to nullify the precautions that have been taken, he added.
